U. S. Bills Russia For Damages In Plane Incident

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—For shooting down one U. S. plane . . . $1,449,895.36.

Less 50 per cent discount due to special circumstances . . . $724,947.68.

Total due . . $724,947.68.

That was the bill handed to Soviet Russia by the United States today for the shooting down in flames of a two-engine Neptune patrol plane over the Bering Sea last June 22.

All 11 crew members suffered injuries ranging from bullet wounds to burns and shock. Seven required hospital treatment.

Russia and the United States blamed each other for the incident. Secretary of State Dulles accepted Russia's offer to pay half the damages while "not condoning the illegality of the Soviet conduct."

Preparations were under way at the time for the July summit conference of Big Four powers in Geneva, and Dulles' acceptance of the Russian offer was viewed as an effort to smooth the path. Sen. Aiken (R-Vt) called it a desire to create "as friendly an atmosphere as possible" for the Big Four meeting.

In making the Russian offer last June 26, Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov cited heavy cloud conditions which made visibility poor. He said this did not "exclude the possiblity of a mistake from one side or the other."

China Rejects Demand Of U.S. To Release 13

Toughly Worded Statement Seeks High Level Talks

LONDON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Red China shunted aside today U. S. State Department efforts to speed the release of 13 Americans still in Chinese jails.

A government statement broadcast by Peiping radio said the Mao Tze-tung regime would deal with the Americans when and how it saw fit and "no foreign interference would be allowed."

Scorning Washington's charge that Peiping has violated a Sept. 10 agreement to free all Americans "expeditiously," the statement said:

"Americans who offended against the law in China must be dealt with in accordance with Chinese legal procedures, and no time limit can be set for their release."

The toughly worded declaration dampened hopes in London that the Chinese Reds would smooth the way to a Far East settlement through prompt release of the remaining Americans in prison. U.S. Secretary of State Dulles has made it plain that release of the Americans must come before the United States will enter into any agreement with Red China on other issues dividing the two countries.

The Communist broadcast renewed Peiping's demand for an

Aid To Needy

Eight Louisiana Parishes To Get Surplus Products

BATON ROUGE, Jan. 6 (AP) — Eight Louisiana parishes qualified to receive surplus foodstuffs from the federal government, Agriculture Commissioner Dave Pearce said today.

The parishes are Natchitoches, Red River, Grant, Caldwell, East Carroll, Franklin, Catahoula and St. Landry.

The surplus commodities will be distributed free to approximately 76,000 persons in the drouth stricken parishes who so far have qualified for the aid, welfare commissioner Edward P. Dameron said.

Dameron said Pointe Coupee Parish may be added to the list. He said his department will meet with the parish police jury Monday.

The first food shipment, a 37-car trainload, is expected within 10 days, Dameron said.

The aids goes to areas hit hard by failure of last year's cotton crop.

Pearce explained that local police juries will be required to store, transport and distribute the foods at their own expense.

Monroney Claims Aviation Section Of Report Deleted

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 —UP— Chairman A. S. Mike Monroney ordered Senate investigators Friday to find out if the administration "suppressed" an aviation policy section in President Eisenhower's controversial transportation policy report.

The Oklahoma Democrat, head of a Senate Aviation subcommittee, ordered the inquiry after charging that the Commerce Department has dropped a "veil of secrecy" in front of the subcommittee. The group is investigating the ouster of Frederick B. Lee as civil aeronautics administrator.

In his State of the Union message Thursday, Mr. Eisenhower urged congress to give prompt attention to proposals in the transportation policy report. It was prepared for the administration by a special advisory committee.

The report urged that the nation's railroads be granted greater freedom to raise rates and otherwise regulate themselves in an effort to improve their economic situation. Monroney said aviation received about as much attention as the "horse and buggy."

Lee told the Monroney subcommittee that he never saw an aviation section in the report and does not know whether any was prepared. He agreed with Monroney that aviation should have been covered.

Lee, a Vermont Republican, testified Thursday that he never asked to be relieved of his post with the Civil Aeronautics Administration. Still, he said, he received a letter from Mr. Eisenhower accepting "your request to be relieved of your duties."

The subcommittee had considered calling Presidential Assistant Sherman Adams to testify whether Mr. Eisenhower was told that Lee did not want to resign. Monroney said, however, that this idea is out although the subcommittee still would like to know.

Army Bans Iron Curtain Travel By Military Men Who Know Secrets Of U.S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6—UP—The Army has issued a sweeping new order forbidding officers and enlisted men with certain secret information to travel in Soviet bloc countries and other sensitive areas, it was disclosed Friday.

The Army feared the servicemen might be picked up by the Communists and "brainwashed."

The regulation applies to all Army men "who have knowledge of current value about special intelligence information and (or) activities." The list of forbidden areas includes:

Russia "and the Soviet bloc countries," Berlin, Yugoslavia, Finland, the Communis threatened islands of Macao, Quemoy and Matsu; the Indochinese states of Laos and Cambodia, and South Viet Nam with the exception of the Saigon urban area.

The officers and enlisted men covered by the order were forbidden to travel in the banned areas "on either a duty or non-duty status." In event of war, the Army said, they would not be allowed to go closer to the front lines than division headquarters.

The Army explained that the interrogation of such men "by foreign forces could constitute a substantial risk to the security of the United States."

The regulation said that the length of time the ban will be applied against individual servicemen will be determined "by the extent of critical and sensitive intelligence the individual has amassed."

The regulation made the Army intelligence section responsible for keeping current the list of prohibited areas and the categories of officers and enlisted men affected.

It was explained that there could be exceptions to the new regulations.

'Moot' Decision Opens LSU Doors To Negro Student

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 6 (AP) — The U. S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals decided today, after more than two years of litigation, that A. P. Tureaud Jr., a Negro, could enroll as an undergraduate arts and law student at Louisiana State University.

There was no indication that Tureaud, 18-year-old son of attorney A. P. Tureaud of the National Assn. for Advancement of Colored People, would leave Xavier University, Negro college here, to enroll in LSU.

The father told a reporter that the boy would not leave Xavier in mid-term and his plans after that were indefinite.

For a brief period in 1953, young Tureaud was the first Negro undergraduate in the history of LSU, which admits Negroes only on court order to its graduate and professional schools.

But he left the campus after a few days and enrolled at Xavier when LSU successfully appealed the U. S. District Court verdict that admitted him.

LSU was upheld by the U. S. Supreme Court in contending that the case originally should have been heard by a three-judge court since it involved a matter of constitutionality.

The high tribunal sent the case back to the U. S. Fifth Circuit here, which first called for hearing, then, in its decision today, upheld the original verdict by U. S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright admitting Tureaud to the undergraduate course.

In a dissenting opinion, Judge Ben C. Cameron held that the appeal court should have thrown the case out as "moot and without substance" because Tureaud switched from law to education and enrolled at Xavier.

Cameron said after the original order admitting Tureaud to the combined art-law course was handed down, the boy attempted to switch to education at LSU and was rejected on the grounds the court order applied only to the law course.

Tureaud, the judge said, did not pursue the issue and instead enrolled at Xavier, apparently abandoning his attempts to get into LSU.

The father tonight declined comment on whether the boy was still interested in pursuing the art-law course or had decided to stick to education.

The attorney expressed the opinion that his son could transfer some education credits to the law program if he decides to return to LSU.

Springfield teachers earn between $3,300 and $5,500 a year.

Benson, Ike Put Final Touches On Farm Plans

KEY WEST, Fla., Jan. 6—UP—President Eisenhower and Agriculture Secretary Benson Friday put into "virtually final form" an administration plan to relieve the farm surplus problem by setting up a "soil bank."

The plan, which is the major part of the President's farm message to go before Congress noon Monday, would call for the government to pay farmers who put aside part of their land as a "conservation reserve."

The President met Friday with Benson, economic advisor Gabriel Hauge, Undersecretary of Agriculture True Morse and presidential aide Fred Seaton. Following the two-hour conference, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the farm message was "put into virtually final form."

Benson was to fly back to Washington Friday afternoon and Hagerty said the President would probably end his "work-and-rest" vacation here and return to the capital Sunday afternoon.

In the state of the Union message, the President labeled the farm situation a problem and broadly outlines the administration's "soil bank" program to allievate the farm surplus problem.

The President said that he would urge authorization of the soil bank plan so that farmers would be paid to divert land from crops to a "conservation reserve."

Mr. Eisenhower said the plan would "allievate the problem of diverted acres and an overexpanded agriculture planting."

The President said he will also urge other measures to "strengthen our surplus disposal activities," and to bolster individual commodity programs, remove controls where possible and stop further accumulations of surpluses.

He also called for more funds for expanded research to develop new crops in an effort to "bring production into balance with existing and new markets, at prices that yield farmers a return for their works in line with what other Americans get."

Reds Seek Left-Wing Coalition

PARIS, Jan. 6—UP—The French Communist party Friday night officially called on both Socialists and Radical Socialists supporting ex-Premier Pierre Mendes-France to join it in forming a left-wing government.

The offer was made in letters addressed to Socialist leader Guy Mollet and the president of the Radical Socialist party, Edouard Herriot.

Both Mendes-France and the Socialists previously rejected similar Communist offers. Observers believed the latest proposal also would be spurned.

The letters called on both parties in Mendes-France "republican front" to reach an understanding with the Communists "in line with the vote and the expectations of the majority of the population now."

In the election this week the Communists gained more than 50 seats in the national assembly, where they will now have 150 deputies.

In their left-wing coalition offer, the Communists proposed a joint program calling for peaceful solution of the Algerian problem through negotiations, efforts to improve workers' conditions, and an international policy leading toward world disarmament.

The Communists made their bid as extreme rightist Pierre Poujade disclosed there are "a lot of Communists" in his anti-tax movement that mushroomed into a major political force in the elections.

But Poujade said that any Communists in his organization are "Poujadists" first, and Reds second.

Russell To Probe Status Of U. S. In Race For Missiles

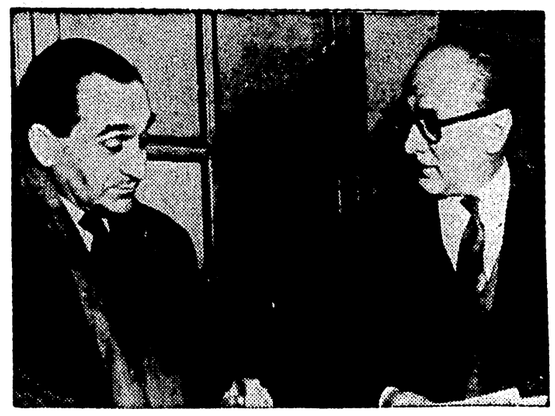

WASHINGTON —UP— Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) said Friday the Senate Armed Services committee will question top defense officials next week on the status of the race to develop the intercontinental missile.

He said the witnesses, who will testify behind closed doors, will include Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson and other top department leaders.

Russell said he was convinced after secret briefings last spring that the United States "had a lead" over Russia in the development of the intercontinental ballistic missile, sometimes termed the "ultimate weapon" because there is no known defense against it.

But he told reporters that he now personally has 'some concern" that this country may not be maintaining its lead. He said he is worried that Russia may have made some unexpected rapid strides recently in its missile program.

"This is one race we cannot afford to lose," he said. "We must spend any amount of money that is needed to assure a lead."

Times Education Editor Rips Reds

Fine Admits Membership In Red Party During '30s; Warns Against 'Mistake'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP) — Dr. Benjamin Fine, education editor of The New York Times, testified today he was a Communist party member for about a year while a graduate student at Columbia University in the 1930's.

He acknowledged he had made "a tragic mistake" and cautioned present day students against the same error.

Dr. Fine was the final witness as the Senate Internal Security subcommittee closed out three days of public hearings into alleged Communist infiltrations of the press and other news fields.

Chairman Eastland (D-Miss) and Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) praised Dr. Fine as "a fine citizen" and a "credit to your business."

When the hearings ended, Eastland and Jenner issued a joint statement in which they said the hearings "disclosed many things, including a significant effort on the part of the Communists to penetrate leading American newspapers."

Eastland and Jenner said witnesses who were frank and testified freely "performed a patriotic service for which we are grateful." They hinted at contempt proceedings against some witnesses who refused to answer questions:

Testimony today included:

1. There was a Red cell on the New York Herald Tribune in the 1940s.

2. Two witnesses who today invoked the Fifth Amendment privilege against compulsory self-incrimination were fired by The New York Times after they indicated they would take this course.

Those who said they had lost their jobs were Nathan Aleskovsky, until recently assistant Book Review editor of the Sunday Times, and Jack Shafer, a copyreader.

All of the witnesses today were from the Times. They were, in order of taking the stand:

1. Robert Shelton, a copyreader, who refused to say whether he is or has been a Communist and challenged the right of the subcommittee to inquire into his associations and beliefs.

2. Alden Whitman, also a copyreader, who readily admitted he was a Communist between 1935 and 1948, but refused to name his Red associates.

3. Aleskovsky, who described himself as "unemployed." He swore he is not now a Communist but refused to say whether he had ever been. He said Lester Markel, Sunday editor of the Times, told him "under the circumstances he didn't think I ought to work there and I could resign or be fired." Whereupon, he said, Markel told him he "had resigned."

4. Matilda Landsman, a linotype operator on the Times, who invoked the Fifth Amendment repeatedly. She refused to say whether she is a Communist, whether she knew people who have been linked with communism, or where she had been employed before becoming a

Report Force Can Obliterate Any U.S. City

Official Federal Announcement Due Soon, Source Says

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 — UP—The United States probably will test super-super hydrogen bombs in the Pacific this spring with an explosive force of 40 million to 50 million tons of TNT, a congressional authority said Friday.

Such an H-bomb could almost obliterate any of this country's major cities, and spread deadly radio-active "fall-out" over many thousands of square miles.

A government study committee said only a few days ago that the "time is close at hand" when Russia as well as the United States will have hydrogen bombs of such magnitude.

An official government announcement of the new H-bomb tests is due soon. It is expected to stress precautions that will be taken to make sure no one will be hurt by the almost incredible force of the new H-bomb explosions.

President Eisenhower is understood to have given his final approval for the spring tests to Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission short-

West Oklahoma, Kansas Regions Rocked By Quake

ALVA, Okla., Jan. 6—UP—An earthquake shook northwest Oklahoma and southwest Kansas Friday, jarring plaster from walls and causing furniture to scoot crazily across floors.

Reports of the tremors, which hit about 6 a.m., came from Greensburg, Sharon, Medicine Lodge, Pratt, and Anthony, Kan., and the Oklahoma towns of Enid, Alva, Waynoka, Capron and Cherokee.

The earthquake was confirmed by St. Louis University whose seismograph recorded a moderate earth tremor centered about 350 miles southwest of St. Louis at 6 a.m. The university said the tremor was associated with the Nemah High Anticline located in that area.

Damage was not great and no injuries were reported.

Carl Beyer, news editor of the Alva Review-Courier, said the tremor in Alva was felt by "hundreds of people."

The shock ripped away plaster in the Alva telephone office and

"This has to be done to comply with state laws requiring segregation," Parsons said.

15,183 Entries Miss By Wide Margin In Attempt To Crack Puzzle Jackpot

There were 15,183 entries this week in the Morning World's cross word puzzle competition, but none of them came close to the solution needed to open up the bulging $650 jackpot.

Consequently, the jackpot for the puzzle to be published in the Monday and Tuesday editions next week will carry with it a $675 jackpot.

Here are explanations of the more difficult clues to this week's puzzle:

8. TASKS is more apt. Students are not given TALKS. They are given lectures. They may certainly be given TASKS of a somewhat technical nature.

To LET him down is more serious than to GET him down and might well occur only once and end the clerk's services.

The President said that he would urge authorization of the soil bank plan so that farmers would be paid to divert land from crops to a "conservation reserve."

Mr. Eisenhower said the plan would "allievate the problem of diverted acres and an overexpanded agriculture planting."

The President said he will also urge other measures to "strengthen our surplus disposal activities," and to bolster individual commodity programs, remove controls where possible and stop further accumulations of surpluses.

He also called for more funds for expanded research to develop new crops in an effort to "bring production into balance with existing and new markets, at prices that yield farmers a return for their works in line with what other Americans get."

Garbage Collectors Outearn Teachers

SPRINGFIELD, N.J. Jan. 6 (AP)—Garbage collectors here outearn teachers and policemen.

Under a new contract signed between contractor James Petrozello of East Orange, and the Local 945 of the Teamsters Union drivers on garbage trucks will receive $114 for a 40-hour week and loaders will get $104 a week.

Springfield teachers earn between $3,300 and $5,500 a year.

And only the chief of police makes more than the garbage truck drivers. His men make less.

Reds Seek Left-Wing Coalition

PARIS, Jan. 6—UP—The French Communist party Friday night officially called on both Socialists and Radical Socialists supporting ex-Premier Pierre Mendes-France to join it in forming a left-wing government.

The offer was made in letters addressed to Socialist leader Guy Mollet and the president of the Radical Socialist party, Edouard Herriot.

Both Mendes-France and the Socialists previously rejected similar Communist offers. Observers believed the latest proposal also would be spurned.

The letters called on both parties in Mendes-France "republican front" to reach an understanding with the Communists "in line with the vote and the expectations of the majority of the population now."

In the election this week the Communists gained more than 50 seats in the national assembly, where they will now have 150 deputies.

In their left-wing coalition offer, the Communists proposed a joint program calling for peaceful solution of the Algerian problem through negotiations, efforts to improve workers' conditions, and an international policy leading toward world disarmament.

The Communists made their bid as extreme rightist Pierre Poujade disclosed there are "a lot of Communists" in his anti-tax movement that mushroomed into a major political force in the elections.

But Poujade said that any Communists in his organization are "Poujadists" first, and Reds second.

Russell To Probe Status Of U. S. In Race For Missiles

WASHINGTON —UP— Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) said Friday the Senate Armed Services committee will question top defense officials next week on the status of the race to develop the intercontinental missile.

He said the witnesses, who will testify behind closed doors, will include Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson and other top department leaders.

Russell said he was convinced after secret briefings last spring that the United States "had a lead" over Russia in the development of the intercontinental ballistic missile, sometimes termed the "ultimate weapon" because there is no known defense against it.

But he told reporters that he now personally has 'some concern" that this country may not be maintaining its lead. He said he is worried that Russia may have made some unexpected rapid strides recently in its missile program.

"This is one race we cannot afford to lose," he said. "We must spend any amount of money that is needed to assure a lead."

Times Education Editor Rips Reds

Fine Admits Membership In Red Party During '30s; Warns Against 'Mistake'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP) — Dr. Benjamin Fine, education editor of The New York Times, testified today he was a Communist party member for about a year while a graduate student at Columbia University in the 1930's.

He acknowledged he had made "a tragic mistake" and cautioned present day students against the same error.

Dr. Fine was the final witness as the Senate Internal Security subcommittee closed out three days of public hearings into alleged Communist infiltrations of the press and other news fields.

Chairman Eastland (D-Miss) and Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) praised Dr. Fine as "a fine citizen" and a "credit to your business."

When the hearings ended, Eastland and Jenner issued a joint statement in which they said the hearings "disclosed many things, including a significant effort on the part of the Communists to penetrate leading American newspapers."

Eastland and Jenner said witnesses who were frank and testified freely "performed a patriotic service for which we are grateful." They hinted at contempt proceedings against some witnesses who refused to answer questions:

Testimony today included:

1. There was a Red cell on the New York Herald Tribune in the 1940s.

2. Two witnesses who today invoked the Fifth Amendment privilege against compulsory self-incrimination were fired by The New York Times after they indicated they would take this course.

Those who said they had lost their jobs were Nathan Aleskovsky, until recently assistant Book Review editor of the Sunday Times, and Jack Shafer, a copyreader.

All of the witnesses today were from the Times. They were, in order of taking the stand:

1. Robert Shelton, a copyreader, who refused to say whether he is or has been a Communist and challenged the right of the subcommittee to inquire into his associations and beliefs.

2. Alden Whitman, also a copyreader, who readily admitted he was a Communist between 1935 and 1948, but refused to name his Red associates.

3. Aleskovsky, who described himself as "unemployed." He swore he is not now a Communist but refused to say whether he had ever been. He said Lester Markel, Sunday editor of the Times, told him "under the circumstances he didn't think I ought to work there and I could resign or be fired." Whereupon, he said, Markel told him he "had resigned."

4. Matilda Landsman, a linotype operator on the Times, who invoked the Fifth Amendment repeatedly. She refused to say whether she is a Communist, whether she knew people who have been linked with communism, or where she had been employed before becoming a

Official Federal Announcement Due Soon, Source Says

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 — UP—The United States probably will test super-super hydrogen bombs in the Pacific this spring with an explosive force of 40 million to 50 million tons of TNT, a congressional authority said Friday.

Such an H-bomb could almost obliterate any of this country's major cities, and spread deadly radio-active "fall-out" over many thousands of square miles.

A government study committee said only a few days ago that the "time is close at hand" when Russia as well as the United States will have hydrogen bombs of such magnitude.

An official government announcement of the new H-bomb tests is due soon. It is expected to stress precautions that will be taken to make sure no one will be hurt by the almost incredible force of the new H-bomb explosions.

President Eisenhower is understood to have given his final approval for the spring tests to Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission short-

West Oklahoma, Kansas Regions Rocked By Quake

ALVA, Okla., Jan. 6—UP—An earthquake shook northwest Oklahoma and southwest Kansas Friday, jarring plaster from walls and causing furniture to scoot crazily across floors.

Reports of the tremors, which hit about 6 a.m., came from Greensburg, Sharon, Medicine Lodge, Pratt, and Anthony, Kan., and the Oklahoma towns of Enid, Alva, Waynoka, Capron and Cherokee.

The earthquake was confirmed by St. Louis University whose seismograph recorded a moderate earth tremor centered about 350 miles southwest of St. Louis at 6 a.m. The university said the tremor was associated with the Nemah High Anticline located in that area.

Damage was not great and no injuries were reported.

Carl Beyer, news editor of the Alva Review-Courier, said the tremor in Alva was felt by "hundreds of people."

L&N Terminates Its Segregation Of Rail Passengers

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 6 (AP) — The Louisville & Nashville Railroad will end racial segregation of interstate passengers Tuesday.

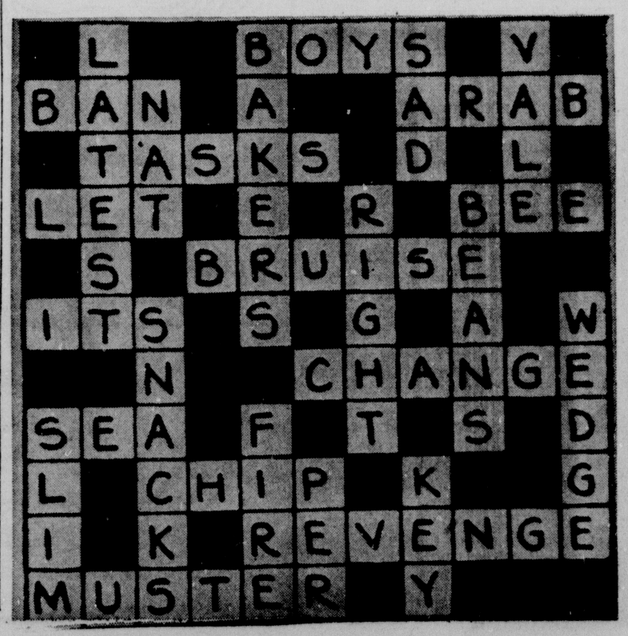

R. C. Parsons, railroad vice president and general manager, said today that separate coaches will be provided for Negroes in intrastate travel.

"This has to be done to comply with state laws requiring segregation," Parsons said.

Signs designating separate waiting rooms for Negroes and whites at the railroad's union station here also will be removed.

15,183 Entries Miss By Wide Margin In Attempt To Crack Puzzle Jackpot

By BONANZA BILL

There were 15,183 entries this week in the Morning World's cross word puzzle competition, but none of them came close to the solution needed to open up the bulging $650 jackpot.

Consequently, the jackpot for the puzzle to be published in the Monday and Tuesday editions next week will carry with it a $675 jackpot.

Here are explanations of the more difficult clues to this week's puzzle:

CLUES ACROSS:

8. TASKS is more apt. Students are not given TALKS. They are given lectures. They may certainly be given TASKS of a somewhat technical nature.

9. LET is best. A slipshod clerk must GET his employer down quite frequently. "Sooner or later" implies something which will take place eventually; not at the present time, as implied by quite frequently. To LET him down is more serious than to GET him down and might well occur only once and end the clerk's services.

Other action was confined to persons charged with public drunkenness. Seven persons were fined $25 or seven days in default; they are: D. P. Wilder, Chester Porter, R. D. O'Dell, Willie Knox, J. W. Halloway, Robert Graieo and Roy Byers.

Miss. Man Held

Franklin Kermit Bryan, 33, of Walnut Grove, Miss., is being held in the Ouachita Parish jail in lieu of bond following a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Haynes Harkey, Jr.

Bond was fixed at $2500 in the case.

BENSON AND GOP LEADERS DISCUSS FARM PROBLEMS — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson (right) discusses farm problems with Rep. Sid Simpson of Illinois (left) and Rep. Clifford Hope of Kansas, Republican members of the House Agriculture Committee, in Washington. The conference took place just before the White House disclosed that President Eisenhower plans to send to Congress Monday a special message dealing with the farm problem. Reports circulating in Washington said the President's plan to rush an expanded farm program to Congress is an effort to get the jump on Democrats who are primed to make falling agricultural prices a 1956 campaign issue. Preaus Says Too Many Promises Are Being Made

BUNKIE, La., Jan. 6 (Special) —Louisiana revenues for the next eight years will not be sufficient to cover the promises made by his opponents in the current gubernatorial campaign, Fred Preaus said here today.

The Farmerville businessman said he has intentionally avoided making promises of the type pledged by other candidates. He said there are too many factors involved in government for him to state specifically in a campaign what he will do after taking office.

Preaus said, "Who can say at this time what funds will be available and who knows whether the state legislature will agree with the recommendations of the governor on any specific issue? All any of us can truthfully say is that we will try to do this or that and hope we can find the money and can get the cooperation of the elected senators and representatives."

He said his principal opponents have made promises which would require all of the state's revenue for the next eight years. He pointed out that these candidates leave the impression with the people that all their promises will be carried out as soon as they take office.

The former chairman of the Louisiana board of highways said the people have come to realize that despite what some candidates say the governor cannot give them anything. He said all tax revenues are the people's to begin with and that all the governor can do is to make an effort to return some of that money to them through increased benefits and governmental service.

"I am not going to try and tell the people that I gave them the good roads they now have. Certainly I, as a member of the board of highways, played a small role in the designation of which roads should get priority, but many other people played roles just as important." No public official can say that, they are telling untruths, for many people have a hand in the completion of a road project, the passage of a legislative bill, enforcement of laws and any other function of state government."

Preaus said he will ask the state legislature to cooperate with him in carrying out his program. He said he will ask the representatives of the people to provide for widows between 55 and 65 who are unable to earn a living, for funds to create 20 new lakes to provide recreation and irrigation facilities and for water for industry, for more money for school teachers, increased assistance to the cities and towns of the state, to provide the funds to continue Louisiana's progressive institutions program.

In addition, he said, he will recommend to the legislature that constitutional civil service not be tampered with and that no tax increases be voted.

Oils Stand Out In Market Rise

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP) —Oils stood out strongly today in a moderately higher stock market.

It was the best advance for the shortened week for the market, but the rise lacked broad vigor.

Prices were ahead around 2 points at the best with the exception of several stronger issues. Losses amounted to about a point. Gainers held the lead two-to-one.

Getting ahead with the oils were the steels, rails, utilities, and coppers. The aircrafts didn't do very well, and other key divisions displayed a mixture of gains and losses.

Houston Oil and Atlantic Refining were outstanding. Houston was up 4¾ at 154¾ as the 13th most active issue, and Atlantic was up 2⅝ at 381½ as the day's second most active issue.

Houston announced it intended selling all its properties at a price that would bring about $165 a share, with all the oil and gas elements going to Atlantic Refining.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 80 cents at $179.30. It held unchanged yesterday and lost a total of $1.70 in the two previous sessions. The industrial component advanced $1.10, rails were up 40 cents, and utilities added 30 cents.

The list contained 1,188 individual issues of which 622 advanced and 311 declined with 36 new highs and 7 new lows for the year.

Volume expanded with the betterment in prices and came to 2,570,000 shares. That compares with 2,110,000 shares traded yesterday.

Corporate bonds were higher. U. S. government issues over-the-counter improved.

Crossword Puzzle

number of legs, of course—six of them. Most BEDS have four legs, but that is not "definite". There are some with just two, etc., Thus the number of legs for a BED is not definite.

12. "Some folks" do, which implies that the majority do not. This makes BRUISE the best word. There are some folks who take a particular pleasure in telling all about some accident or operation they have had. Surely everybody, or nearly everybody, who goes on a CRUISE, not just some, takes pleasure in telling something about it.

16. CHANGE is best. CHANCE is ruled out because the clue says "might". An understudy definitely WOULD welcome a CHANCE to step into the star's shoes. That is why she is an "understudy". There is no "might welcome" about it. However, she might, or might not, welcome a CHANGE of some kind in the theatre.

19. To CHIP is tostrike with small sharp cutting blows", that is, to cut in a "particular way". CLIPping can be done in many different ways.

22. REVENGE IS defined as "a spiteful return for injury or wrong." Thus REVENGE, which is in settlement of some wrong, fits the club better than REVENUE which is defined in the dictionary as the "income from an investment" or "receipts from a government impost". The return in this case may not be a settlement.

23. "To MUSTER" them is "to call them together"; no easy task when they are demoralized. MASTER does not link up with the sense of the clue. It is necessary to restore their morale, not to MASTER them.

CLUES DOWN:

1. FULLY developed favors LATEST, since LATENT ideas haven't been developed AT ALL.

2. BAKERS KEEP a good stock of flour. The BAKERY contains, but doesn't KEEP, a stock of flour.

4. VALE is best. To look "all the prettier" infers that it must look pretty even without the flowers. Many a VASE is certainly not pretty—some even hideous — but since VALE is the poetical contraction of VALLEY it is thought of by this term as something pleasant and pretty to regard. Thus VALE is the surer answer.

10. RIGHT cannot be disputed as being the better answer. LIGHT may well mean LIGHT in COLOR only.

14. "Of poor taste" suggests SNACKS, meaning they may sometimes taste poor. For SLACKS it would require to be "in poor taste", not "of poor taste". Neither expression would aptly refer to SHACKS or SMACKS.

17. SLIM is preferred. SLUM children usually ARE a bit underfed, whereas, in most cases, SLIM children only APPEAR to be.

18. FIRE is best. The clue implies some UNFORTUNATE happening. making FIRE the better answer. "Owing to an emergency order" would be more apt for HIRE.

New Orleans, which claims to be the city where jazz was born is planning to erect a monument on the street where the first music of this type was played.

Plans are in the works for the erection of a suitable monument on Basin street, it is announced by Mayor deLesseps S. Morrison.

The story is told that jazz originated in New Orleans about 80 years ago by Negro musicians who added African rhythms in imitating the music of the day. Later white musicians tried to copy this music and created a change in its character because most white musicians had some formal knowledge of music.

Jazz was called ragtime until about 1915. It was characterized with at least one instrument carrying the melody with other instruments adding their improvisations.

Bishop Paul Martin will come from his Little Rock, Ark., headquarters for a busy week replete with formal dedications. This is an artistic building on highway 80, a short distance west of West Monroe. The exercises are set for 7:30 p.m.

At 8:30 a.m. Sunday the Bishop will officiate in the placing of the cornerstone at Memorial Methodist church, Monroe, and at 11 a.m. Sunday a dedication is set for the Methodist Church in Oak Ridge which has a new unit ready for formal exercises.

In the various exercises, the Rev. James T. Harris, local Methodist superintendent, will assist the Bishop.

M'Lemore Blasts Kennon Refusal To Call Solons

DENHAM SPRINGS, La., Jan. 6 (AP) —Cattleman James McLemore charged today that Gov. Robert Kennon could be blamed for the elimination of "white" and "colored" signs at railroad stations.

McLemore, one of five candidates to succeed Kennon, said the Illinois Central railroad station in Pontchatoula has elliminated the signs to segregate passengers.

McLemore said after the recent Interstate Commerce Commission ruling against segregation on interstate railroads, he asked Gov. Kennon to call a special legislative session to deal with the question.

He said Kennon maintains Louisiana has laws already to handle the segregation question and that the governor "has stuck his head in the sand like an ostrich."

McLemore said "Maybe Kennon wants a federal judgeship. Maybe that's the reason he stuck his head in the sand."

McLemore accused rival candidate Fred Preaus, who has Kennon's backing, of "appropriating the plank in my platform dealing with segregation."

He also charged both New Orleans Mayor deLesseps Morrison and former Gov. Earl Long, both opposing candidates, with opening special New Orleans headquarters in an effort to attract Negro citizens.

New Orleans, which claims to be the city where jazz was born is planning to erect a monument on the street where the first music of this type was played.

Plans are in the works for the erection of a suitable monument on Basin street, it is announced by Mayor deLesseps S. Morrison.

The story is told that jazz originated in New Orleans about 80 years ago by Negro musicians who added African rhythms in imitating the music of the day. Later white musicians tried to copy this music and created a change in its character because most white musicians had some formal knowledge of music.

Jazz was called ragtime until about 1915. It was characterized with at least one instrument carrying the melody with other instruments adding their improvisations.

Bishop Paul Martin will come from his Little Rock, Ark., headquarters for a busy week replete with formal dedications. Saturday night (tomorrow) he will dedicate the $18,000 parsonage of Claiborne Methodist Church, the Rev. F. L. Hearne, pastor. This is an artistic building on highway 80, a short distance west of West Monroe. The exercises are set for 7:30 p.m.

At 8:30 a.m. Sunday the Bishop will officiate in the placing of the cornerstone at Memorial Methodist church, Monroe, and at 11 a.m. Sunday a dedication is set for the Methodist Church in Oak Ridge which has a new unit ready for formal exercises.

In the various exercises, the Rev. James T. Harris, local Methodist superintendent, will assist the Bishop.

MONGREL DOG CITED BY THE NAVY—Salty Sam, a mongrel dog picked up from a fishing boat adrift off Portugal in 1953, has a place of honor at ceremonies awarding the 1955 battle efficiency pennant to the Navy Auxiliary ship Wrangell in New York. Salty Sam, the ship's mascot, was cited for his contribution to the morale of the crew. With the dog watching from the center of a life preserver, Capt. M'Lemore Blasts Kennon Refusal To Call Solons

DENHAM SPRINGS, La., Jan. 6 (AP) —Cattleman James McLemore charged today that Gov. Robert Kennon could be blamed for the elimination of "white" and "colored" signs at railroad stations.

McLemore, one of five candidates to succeed Kennon, said the Illinois Central railroad station in Pontchatoula has eliminated the signs to segregate passengers.

McLemore said after the recent Interstate Commerce Commission ruling against segregation on interstate railroads, he asked Gov. Kennon to call a special legislative session to deal with the question.

He said Kennon maintains Louisiana has laws already to handle the segregation question and that the governor "has stuck his head in the sand like an ostrich."

McLemore said "Maybe Kennon wants a federal judgeship. Maybe that's the reason he stuck his head in the sand."

McLemore accused rival candidate Fred Preaus, who has Kennon's backing, of "appropriating the plank in my platform dealing with segregation."

He also charged both New Orleans Mayor deLesseps Morrison and former Gov. Earl Long, both opposing candidates, with opening special New Orleans headquarters in an effort to attract Negro citizens.

Preaus Says Too Many Promises Are Being Made

BUNKIE, La., Jan. 6 (Special) —Louisiana revenues for the next eight years will not be sufficient to cover the promises made by his opponents in the current gubernatorial campaign, Fred Preaus said here today.

The Farmerville businessman said he has intentionally avoided making promises of the type pledged by other candidates. He said there are too many factors involved in government for him to state specifically in a campaign what he will do after taking office.

Preaus said, "Who can say at this time what funds will be available and who knows whether the state legislature will agree with the recommendations of the governor on any specific issue? All any of us can truthfully say is that we will try to do this or that and hope we can find the money and can get the cooperation of the elected senators and representatives."

He said his principal opponents have made promises which would require all of the state's revenue for the next eight years. He pointed out that these candidates leave the impression with the people that all their promises will be carried out as soon as they take office.

The former chairman of the Louisiana board of highways said the people have come to realize that despite what some candidates say the governor cannot give them anything. He said all tax revenues are the people's to begin with and that all the governor can do is to make an effort to return some of that money to them through increased benefits and governmental service.

"I am not going to try and tell the people that I gave them the good roads they now have. Certainly I, as a member of the board of highways, played a small role in the designation of which roads should get priority, but many other people played roles just as important." No public official can say that, they are telling untruths, for many people have a hand in the completion of a road project, the passage of a legislative bill, enforcement of laws and any other function of state government."

Preaus said he will ask the state legislature to cooperate with him in carrying out his program. He said he will ask the representatives of the people to provide for widows between 55 and 65 who are unable to earn a living, for funds to create 20 new lakes to provide recreation and irrigation facilities and for water for industry, for more money for school teachers, increased assistance to the cities and towns of the state, to provide the funds to continue Louisiana's progressive institutions program.

In addition, he said, he will recommend to the legislature that constitutional civil service not be tampered with and that no tax increases be voted.

Oils Stand Out In Market Rise

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP) —Oils stood out strongly today in a moderately higher stock market.

It was the best advance for the shortened week for the market, but the rise lacked broad vigor.

Prices were ahead around 2 points at the best with the exception of several stronger issues. Losses amounted to about a point. Gainers held the lead two-to-one.

Getting ahead with the oils were the steels, rails, utilities, and coppers. The aircrafts didn't do very well, and other key divisions displayed a mixture of gains and losses.

Houston Oil and Atlantic Refining were outstanding. Houston was up 4¾ at 154¾ as the 13th most active issue, and Atlantic was up 2⅝ at 38½ as the day's second most active issue.

Houston announced it intended selling all its properties at a price that would bring about $165 a share, with all the oil and gas elements going to Atlantic Refining.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 80 cents at $179.30. It held unchanged yesterday and lost a total of $1.70 in the two previous sessions. The industrial component advanced $1.10, rails were up 40 cents, and utilities added 30 cents.

The list contained 1,188 individual issues of which 622 advanced and 311 declined with 36 new highs and 7 new lows for the year.

Volume expanded with the betterment in prices and came to 2,570,000 shares. That compares with 2,110,000 shares traded yesterday.

Corporate bonds were higher. U. S. government issues over-the-counter improved.

number of legs, of course—six of them. Most BEDS have four legs, but that is not "definite". There are some with just two, etc., Thus the number of legs for a BED is not definite.

12. "Some folks" do, which implies that the majority do not. This makes BRUISE the best word. There are some folks who take a particular pleasure in telling all about some accident or operation they have had. Surely everybody, or nearly everybody, who goes on a CRUISE, not just some, takes pleasure in telling something about it.

16. CHANGE is best. CHANCE is ruled out because the clue says "might". An understudy definitely WOULD welcome a CHANCE to step into the star's shoes. That is why she is an "understudy". There is no "might welcome" about it. However, she might, or might not, welcome a CHANGE of some kind in the theatre.

19. To CHIP is tostrike with small sharp cutting blows", that is, to cut in a "particular way". CLIPping can be done in many different ways.

22. REVENGE IS defined as "a spiteful return for injury or wrong." Thus REVENGE, which is in settlement of some wrong, fits the club better than REVENUE which is defined in the dictionary as the "income from an investment" or "receipts from a government impost". The return in this case may not be a settlement.

23. "To MUSTER" them is "to call them together"; no easy task when they are demoralized. MASTER does not link up with the sense of the clue. It is necessary to restore their morale, not to MASTER them.

CLUES DOWN:

1. FULLY developed favors LATEST, since LATENT ideas haven't been developed AT ALL.

2. BAKERS KEEP a good stock of flour. The BAKERY contains, but doesn't KEEP, a stock of flour.

4. VALE is best. To look "all the prettier" infers that it must look pretty even without the flowers. Many a VASE is certainly not pretty—some even hideous — but since VALE is the poetical contraction of VALLEY it is thought of by this term as something pleasant and pretty to regard. Thus VALE is the surer answer.

10. RIGHT cannot be disputed as being the better answer. LIGHT may well mean LIGHT in COLOR only.

14. "Of poor taste" suggests SNACKS, meaning they may sometimes taste poor. For SLACKS it would require to be "in poor taste", not "of poor taste". Neither expression would aptly refer to SHACKS or SMACKS.

17. SLIM is preferred. SLUM children usually ARE a bit underfed, whereas, in most cases, SLIM children only APPEAR to be.

18. FIRE is best. The clue implies some UNFORTUNATE happening. making FIRE the better answer. "Owing to an emergency order" would be more apt for HIRE.

Blazing Woods Fire Destroys Rural Building

A fiercely-blazing woods fire destroyed a small frame building northwest of West Monroe on the Good Hope road Thursday afternoon, and threatened to catch the Good Hope Baptist Church on fire while a funeral was in progress.

The church was saved when firefighters with the Louisiana Forestry Commission bull-dozed a fire line across the path of the fire about half a city block from the church.

About a half acre of timber was reported burned over in the fire, as well as grass acreage, it was reported.

The building destroyed in the fire was owned by Mrs. Thomas Whyte, who lived in a house near the burned building. The building and contents were valued at an estimated $3,000.

The forestry commission, a forestry ranger unit, and volunteers aided in stopping the fire, it was reported.

Tuesday morning extensive damage was done to a storeroom owned by Howard Cann, at 1008 Park Avenue, and partial damage was done to a garage owned by L. B. Boone at 614 Bon Air Drive.

The Park Avenue fire was caused by paint stored too close to a heater, and the cause of the other fire was unknown.

Engine companies 103 and 106 and ladder company two answered the call on Park Avenue and companies 105 and 107 answered the other call.

Ike's State Of The Union Message

President Eisenhower's recommendations to Congress in his state of the Union Message emphasize economic problems and proposed enlargements of federal spending at home and abroad.

Promising a balanced budget during the current fiscal year and the 1956-57 fiscal year, the President turned thumbs down on tax reduction. He said that a balanced budget and at least a token reduction in the $280 billion federal debt must take precedence over tax slashes.

He indorsed a series of proposals which would plunge the government and the treasury into vast new expenditures, thereby precluding any tax relief except on a deficit basis.

Among these are:

The soil bank plan, under which farmers would be paid federal subsidies to withdraw land from cultivation.

A five-year program of federal aid to the states for school construction.

An "experimental program" of flood-damage indemnities and other aids to disaster victims.

In addition, the President urged that a multi-billion dollar highway improvement program be enacted; and that foreign civilian aid be increased and, in part, placed on a long-term continuing basis.

Also, he urged that 70,000 new public housing units be built within the next two years.

He stressed the need for continued military expenditures.

No detailed figures or estimates were given in the President's message. These will be filled in later, in special messages and requests.

It is plain to see, however, that emphasis of the President's recommendations is on spending more money, and committing the United States to new fields of spending, hitherto reserved to the states and local communities.

Nobody can foresee, for instance, the extent in billions to which the federal government would be committed for public school aid alone, once the principle that is behind the federal aid bill finds acceptance in Congress.

Nobody foresaw when the first Marshall Plan authorization was made that within a decade the American taxpayers would be gouged for $50 billion to be dumped abroad; or that current civilian give-aways to foreign nations would become a perpetual thing, to the tune of billions annually.

The soil bank plan, based on the old Henry Wallace doctrine of scarcity, the belief that agriculture can be made prosperous by liquidating it a little at a time, might be launched on a fairly modest basis, say $1 billion annually; but its cost eventually would run far into the billions, otherwise it would be so small-scale that it would have little effect on crop surpluses.

The "experimental program" of flood damage indemnities might in the end reach staggering proportions. The object at stake is for the entire people, through taxes, to pay for the damage wrought by the elements in any city or district.

The President's proposal that Congress create a bipartisan commission to study complaints that Negroes in some localities are "being deprived of their right to vote and are likewise being subjected to unwarranted economic pressures" echoes the old Civil Rights movement in Congress. It is an attempt to place the South under duress, and intimidate Southerners who are fighting against integration in the schools and elsewhere.

Certain of the President's recommendations, such as balancing the budget, and making a start on reducing the national debt, should appeal to all sober-minded Americans.

The State of the Union Message, on the whole, is a disappointing document notable for its omissions and its preoccupation with new methods of spending and giving away tax money.

Fewer Cases Of Polio Last Year

The incidence of polio and the number of deaths resulting from the disease dropped sharply in 1955, compared to the preceding year, according to figures released by the U.S. Public Health Service Thursday.

The number of new cases decreased 25 per cent, the death rate by 40 per cent.

Public Health officials estimated that the Salk vaccine contributed materially toward last year's decline in polio cases and fatalities. Although final tabulation of the vaccine's effects has not been made, there seems to be ample proof that the new weapon is at least 75 per cent effective.

Polio, irrespective of the measures used to combat it, varies widely in incidence from one year to the next. Although the vaccine was administered to several million children last year, these comprise only a small percentage of the total population. The ultimate test of the vaccine's ability to wipe out the dread disease will come only when a large proportion of the people are innoculated.

In the meantime, the National Polio Foundation is conducting its fund raising campaign, the march of dimes. The need for funds is great, and the people no doubt will contribute generously, as they have in the past.

Pain Killers

Medical science, having successfully unlocked the secret of immunization against dread polio, is now opening the door wider in its assault upon painful arthritis. Doctors of the National Institute of Health report that two new synthetic drugs developed by private drug firms have been showing "miraculous" results in relieving arthritic symptoms.

These drugs—metacortandracin and metacortandralone—are reported to be three to five times more effective than cortisone and its derivatives as well as the hormone ACTH, which were regarded as a godsend to arthritis sufferers. The newer drugs are effective in smaller doses and have not been found to have harmful side effects which sometimes prohibit the use of cortisone.

A full cure is yet to be found to the joint-suffering ailment to which approximately 10 million Americans are subject. Latest inroads against the crippling effects of the disease, however, should restore thousands who are now invalids to useful activity, while others who are going on with their pain should find greater surcease.

THESE DAYS

By George Sokolsky

Ike's Heart

I recently read two editorials asking President Eisenhower not to run again. Both appeared in a newspaper dedicated to the candidacy of Adlai Stevenson. It seemed to me that both articles missed the point: It is the right of any American to run for the presidency; the choice of election rests with the people. They can choose whomever they desire among the candidates offered by the politicians. If the voters, come next November, decide that they prefer a man of doubtful availability to a man with a doubtful heart, that will be their choice. None of this argument forbids Eisenhower to be a candidate, to be elected or defeated as the fortunes of politics dictate on Election Day.

The Stevenson people object to Eisenhower running because they believe that whereas Eisenhower can be elected, no other Republican can be. Many Republicans believe that any Republican can be elected except Dewey. Many Democrats believe that any Democrat, except Stevenson, can this year defeat any Republican including Eisenhower. All this is speculative and in January of an election year is nonsense. No one knows in January what the voters will do in November.

Ike's heart is a bit of a problem, principally because the man is so favored as a person. No one wishes him bad luck, not even his opponents in the Republican or Democratic Party. Quite apart from the presidency, he is a good guy. He has always known how to make himself liked and if he has opponents and adversaries today, it is because he entered upon a role in life where opponents and adversaries are essential to good government.

The Papa-complex which the regency has foisted upon the Republican Party, and which it is now attempting to foist upon the American voters who like Ike as a man but are dubious about his being a god-on-earth, will do him more harm than good. It is this rather than Eisenhower's heart that is likely to make trouble for him politically. The last man-god we had was Franklin D. Roosevelt and the record as it unfolds about his third and fourth terms is very sad. Had he been satisfied with just being a two-term President, he might have gone down in history as a constructive reformer. It is now clear, from the Yalta record, including Ambassador Harriman's reports to Roosevelt and later Truman, that Roosevelt knew before he died that Stalin was double-crossing him.

Americans generally take men in their stride, not expecting too much of them, but hoping for the best. The man-god goes well in such countries as Germany and Russia, but not in the United States where we have elected all sorts of personalities to the presidency and other high offices. We usually do not believe that the office turns a human being into something else just because he stepped into new shoes.

If Eisenhower's regents stopped their propaganda, he would have little trouble convincing his voters that he is entitled to be elected because he is just plain Ike. The harder they work on the 'Papa knows best," concept, pushing him out of a convalescence too fast but not giving him a Christmas message to read—something that has become customary with American Presidents—and putting him on a closed television circuit to address Republicans instead of the nation—the more they do of this sort of thing, the more they will hurt his chances. Ike has never been well served as President; he has overcome the lack of skill of his entourage by the magnetism of his personality.

And whoever, on his staff, encouraged the re-emergence of Thomas E. Dewey, who while he was popular as New York State's governor brought the Republican Party nothing but hard luck on the national scale, pulled a boner. It is possible that the voter will not have a keen look at the Republican candidate for Vice President. It is in the tea-leaves. Therefore, if the Republicans nominate a Vice President who will be a millstone weighting down Eisenhower, they will be heavily handicapped.

Ike's heart can heal and he can be useful for many years to come; or, he may have some more trouble. But let us keep that out of politics. We might as well examine some candidates' heads to discover if there is anything therein besides self-glorification, conceit, and ambition.

"In England, when you find the door of your safe off its hinges, you dial 999. That's the CID (Criminal Investigation Department) which has a branch in every locality headed by a Yard-trained man. Your phone call turns out his squad cars. Nobody carries guns in the British cops and robbers fraternity — it just wouldn't be cricket. In a recent Tangiers fracas between British and U. "The modern London criminal has a lawyer, an accountant, an agent and a clipping service. He also has a business.

"Last year in London, in a one-way side street, a KLM armoured guard was carrying two small crates of bullion worth 40,000 pounds ($112,000). Suddenly, he didn't have it. Several cars and trucks just happened to be stalled, cluttering the tiny street and paralyzing traffic. Nobody ever did know exactly what happened.

"The drama critic of British rogue is Percy Hoskins of the Express. He has been predicting for weeks in polished prose that a big job was in the making. There had been an epicemic of jail breaks and certain specialists were on the street.

"Now here was a run on papers as London's seven big dailies featured the theft across eight columns. In the West End pubs and clubs where the thespians who play cops and robbers mingle with the cops and robbers themselves, there was a buzz of conjecture. Top inspectors and even superintendents showed up within minutes at the Star Tavern, the Maisonette Club, Les Ambassadeurs, and other hangouts, for a polite census of the opposition team.

'Eddie Chapman has a business. He manufacturers cowboy boots for children. He also has 16 convictions for safecracking and other offenses, all of which were erased from his record for his bravery as a counterspy during the war. So presently, he was receiving his old friends, Inspector Griffith and staff in his Kensington flat. While he poured drinks and chatted about the dog races at White City, a police technician painted his wall fixtures and door knobs with acid, looking for gold that might have been disguised as ornaments.

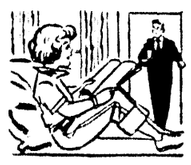

"Billy Hill is a soft - spoken Cockney who owns a doll factory. On the other hand, Billy has done so much time, seventeen years, that although free as a bird, his diet is restricted to oatmeal with an occasional slice of Spam — this being the standard menu in the Limey big houses. An impresario of crime, Billy was the producer of the famous Dartmoor Riots. Billy doesn't drink or smoke and when he tells a story, it is a big business deal. A check always changes hands, and Duncan Webb of The People (4 million every Sunday) or Ken Smith of the Kemsley Newspapers (who tends bar at the Star on Sunday afternoons) takes down every comma. Then the presses start rolling out front pages in millions with the byline, 'By Billy Hill King of the London Underworld.'

"Odhams Press paid Billy 21,000 pounds, that's $72,000 bona fide price for one 6-part essay. And foreign syndication rights brought more top money from French, German and Australian publishers.

"Another bullion job didn't quite come off. The two gonniffs assigned to this operation were suspicious of their information. Penetrating the cargo depot at London Airport late at night, they found the shipment but each pig of gold was coated with aluminum. They panicked, thinking this was not the gold but a plant. They got away from there quick. But not before one of them, a do - it - yourself fan, took along one small bar. Safely back in their hideout they quarrelled, then fought, breaking the furniture to such an extent that the neighbors, only to get some sleep, called in the police. The police spotted the metal bar, and the lads are now doing seven years.

"The day of the bullion snatch, the inspectors called on Billy at his place of business, and ever so politely and with many apologies, they searched the premises. This included opening 10 thousand doll boxes, which required a squad of a dozen patrolmen operating in 8-hour shifts. No trace of the gold has been found yet, but the police did arrest two minor league hoodlums who were somehow implicated. But as Eddie Chapman says, 'The chaps who did it don't even know who did it!'

"DON'T KID YOURSELVES, BOYS"

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

Work For The Adolescent

Everybody knows, and says, that children must be kept occupied as happily, as usefully as possible, in order that they may mature as healthy useful members of society. But the hard fact remains that in this country today our boys and girls are not, as a group, given the opportunity to keep busy at instructive, useful work.

When our country was largely an agricultural people, the children and the adolescent group were kept busy as a matter of necessity. The work of farm and garden, coops, stables and barns, and the house, had to be done and they were held responsible for a good part of it. There was little time for amusement, and what we of today call recreation was scarcely heard about. Yet children grew into healthy manhood and womanhood and there were few delinquents.

Those days, with their good ways and their less good ones, are gone and with them the work for growing boys and girls. Better food, better medical care, better home backgrounds have helped rear a nation of taller, heavier and healthier youth. Physically they are in fine shape; morally and spiritually, not quite as well fitted. Character grows under the stimulus of self-discipline, and there can be little of that when children find it hard to feel needed in any special place or in any special circumstance.

In days past, the girls in the family knew they were needed to help with the baby, with the errands, with the cooking and the dishes and the like; the boys knew their father depended on them for help about the house and the barns. Often they had to forget about pleasure and attend to duty. Attending to duty, filled one's place regardless of the pull of pleasanter ideas, makes for character and maturity. It also creates skill and knowledge and a general worthwhileness in the doer.

Our young people today are not allowed, generally speaking, to learn to work. Our laws forbid it, our schools deplore the idea, our whole society is set against children—that is adolescents—some of them as mature physically as ever they will be and as far advanced in school as ever they will be. They must stay in school, even if they mark time until their birthday rolls around to free them.

When that day comes, greatly to the relief of the teachers and the pupil, where is he to go? He has not been prepared for work, has not been disciplined for work, has not been given a chance to perfect a skill or even to gain knowledge about one, so he is on the loose end that spells trouble.

Work, creative work if possible, but work that is instructive and useful stimulates intelligence and matures character in ALL children. This hard fact must be acknowledged by school and society.

Stammering is a phase some children go through, but with the proper guidance they soon overcome it. Dr. Patri explains why children stammer and what to do about it in leaflet P-2, "Stammering." IN WASHINGTON

Tax Cut Debate

This was to have been the year that the taxpayer was given a break, but the returning Congress views the tax cut proposal dubiously. Finally the idea seems to have penetrated that to cut taxes at a time when the public debt is almost sure to be boosted would be dangerous policy.

There are dissenters to this conclusion in both parties and the tax cut debate will go on throughout the session, with a strong probability that if a reduction is voted, no matter if it is small, President Eisenhower will veto the bill.

The President, however, is confronted by his own statement last year that a balanced budget should be achieved prior to any tax cut. The balance is now in prospect, but will not be assured, according to Treasury advices, until the final figures are in after April 15, the final date for paying 1955 taxes. After that, the drive for a tax cut will really boom.

If the budget is balanced, many Democrats and not a few Republicans will argue that this is the time to cut taxes and increase purchasing power, on the theory that additional money in circulation will increase income tax collections.

The theory worked back in the '20s, when a substantial tax cut was followed by increased collections. But the reduction was larger percentage-wise than it could possibly be now and, tax rates were but a fraction of those now in effect.

The will o' the wisp in this quandary is debt reduction, always talked of but never so far accomplished. It is given lip service at the beginning of every session, but as the weeks pass and new and continuing appropriations are pondered, the talk fades to a whisper.

Senator William F. Knowland of California, Republican leader, has pointed out that if the debt were reduced at the rate of a billion dollars a year, it would require 280 years to pay it off. He thinks a start might be made at this session, but not if taxes are reduced in any measure.

On the Democratic side both the majority leaders, Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, former chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, favor some tax relief. George is ready to offer the increase in individual exemptions from $600 to $700 as the barest minimum which Congress should approve. The Treasury has estimated that even that little aid for the small taxpayer would reduce federal tax revenue by $2,400,000,000 which some tax cut proponents will question, but the estimate appears to be sound.

Senator Harry F. Byrd (Dem.-Va.), chairman of the Senate Finance committee, joins Knowland in opposition to any tax cut, which forecasts a Senate battle after the House has acted. The present forecast is that the House, with all of its members except the few who are retiring, running for re-election, will pass some form of tax reduction bill, if only by a narrow margin.

There is probably no question but that the majority of taxpayers would prefer to have the tax cut and would like something tangible, rather than a mere increase in exemptions. Many Republicans in Congress recall the hard time they had obtaining election in both 1952 and 1954, and will figure that any vote to cut taxes whether the measure carries or not, is at least something to attract the voters back home.

RIPLEY'S — Believe It Or Not!

Worry Clinic

By Dr. George W. Crane

Thousands of Christian Chinese, with college education, are huddled in tar-paper shacks in Hongkong because their American relatives can't get them into this free land. For Rev. Lee says the Chinese immigration quota is only 105 per year! This is not fair to Christian Chinese whom we have caused to be martyrs.

Case Q-342: Rev. Philip Lee,

aged 45, is the Chinese clergyman of Chicago's Chinatown church.

"Dr. Crane, my mother is a Bible teacher and lives in Hongkong," he said.

"Some 2,000,000 other refugees have descended upon Hongkong as they have fled from Communist China.

"Thousands of these refugees are college professors and clergymen and Christian business executives and other talented Chinese who preferred exile in poverty to living as slaves of communistic regimentation.

"My wife and I visited Hongkong last year to see if we couldn't help get my mother over to America, for she would be a great asset in the work of our Chinese Christian Church.

"But the immigration quota for Chinese is only 105 per year, so there is a long waiting list."

Stick By Friends

Perhaps it would be wiser if we raised our Chinese immigration quota to permit many more loyal Christians whom we have educated to our American viewpoint re "free enterprise" and our type of government.

It has long been predicted that the center of civilization will lie around the Pacific Basin by the end of the 20th century, so it might be smart if we incorporated more Chinese into citizenship here.

Our American missionaries Christianized the leaders of China. We backed the development of colleges and hospitals there.

Then, when our Chinese friends were driven out by the communists, we let them stagnate in tar-paper shacks in Hongkong!

As an exponent of "horse sense", I feel that we could get better returns by harnessing the talents of thousands of these Christian Chinese, college educated and experienced in science as well as business.

For why let brilliant minds and skilled hands remain in idleness? If we don't furnish an outlet for Christianized Chinese, we have violated the precept of St. James, who said, "Faith without works is dead."

A Christianized Chinese who must sit in squalor in a tar-paper shack in Hongkong, certainly can't produce much dividends on the missionary zeal and church money expended in changing him from Buddhism or Communistic atheism.

Immigration Quotas

"Yes, Dr. Crane, but aren't there any other brilliant Christian folks in Europe debarred from the U.S.A. by low immigration quotas?" you may ask.

True enough, but those countries have usually enjoyed fairly liberal immigration quotas in years past, and still have much higher quotas than the Chinese.

When Uncle Sam wishes to aid an infant industry that is beneficial, he often subsidizes the latter, which is why our Air Mail and Merchant Marine were subsidized.

This tendency to favor the infant industries should be expanded to our immigration, so newer immigrant groups should have a few immigration favors.

My college textbook in psychology was translated into the Chinese and has been widely employed over there, so I have had contact with many brilliant Chinese scientists.

It grieves me to think they are now twiddling their thumbs in Hongkong when Rev. Philip Lee could use them to help teach Christianity to Chinese in our large American cities.

The American Chinese would support them, too, so they'd be of no expense to us taxpayers.

The State of the Union Message, on the whole, is a disappointing document notable for its omissions and its preoccupation with new methods of spending and giving away tax money.

Fewer Cases Of Polio Last Year

The incidence of polio and the number of deaths resulting from the disease dropped sharply in 1955, compared to the preceding year, according to figures released by the U.S. Public Health Service Thursday.

The number of new cases decreased 25 per cent, the death rate by 40 per cent.

Public Health officials estimated that the Salk vaccine contributed materially toward last year's decline in polio cases and fatalities. Although final tabulation of the vaccine's effects has not been made, there seems to be ample proof that the new weapon is at least 75 per cent effective.

Polio, irrespective of the measures used to combat it, varies widely in incidence from one year to the next. Although the vaccine was administered to several million children last year, these comprise only a small percentage of the total population. The ultimate test of the vaccine's ability to wipe out the dread disease will come only when a large proportion of the people are innoculated.

In the meantime, the National Polio Foundation is conducting its fund raising campaign, the march of dimes. The need for funds is great, and the people no doubt will contribute generously, as they have in the past.

Pain Killers

Medical science, having successfully unlocked the secret of immunization against dread polio, is now opening the door wider in its assault upon painful arthritis. Doctors of the National Institute of Health report that two new synthetic drugs developed by private drug firms have been showing "miraculous" results in relieving arthritic symptoms.

These drugs—metacortandracin and metacortandralone—are reported to be three to five times more effective than cortisone and its derivatives as well as the hormone ACTH, which were regarded as a godsend to arthritis sufferers. The newer drugs are effective in smaller doses and have not been found to have harmful side effects which sometimes prohibit the use of cortisone.

A full cure is yet to be found to the joint-suffering ailment to which approximately 10 million Americans are subject. Latest inroads against the crippling effects of the disease, however, should restore thousands who are now invalids to useful activity, while others who are going on with their pain should find greater surcease.

THESE DAYS

Ike's Heart

I recently read two editorials asking President Eisenhower not to run again. Both appeared in a newspaper dedicated to the candidacy of Adlai Stevenson. It seemed to me that both articles missed the point: It is the right of any American to run for the presidency; the choice of election rests with the people. They can choose whomever they desire among the candidates offered by the politicians. If the voters, come next November, decide that they prefer a man of doubtful availability to a man with a doubtful heart, that will be their choice. None of this argument forbids Eisenhower to be a candidate, to be elected or defeated as the fortunes of politics dictate on Election Day.

The Stevenson people object to Eisenhower running because they believe that whereas Eisenhower can be elected, no other Republican can be. Many Republicans believe that any Republican can be elected except Dewey. Many Democrats believe that any Democrat, except Stevenson, can this year defeat any Republican including Eisenhower. All this is speculative and in January of an election year is nonsense. No one knows in January what the voters will do in November.

Ike's heart is a bit of a problem, principally because the man is so favored as a person. No one wishes him bad luck, not even his opponents in the Republican or Democratic Party. Quite apart from the presidency, he is a good guy. He has always known how to make himself liked and if he has opponents and adversaries today, it is because he entered upon a role in life where opponents and adversaries are essential to good government.

The Papa-complex which the regency has foisted upon the Republican Party, and which it is now attempting to foist upon the American voters who like Ike as a man but are dubious about his being a god-on-earth, will do him more harm than good. It is this rather than Eisenhower's heart that is likely to make trouble for him politically. The last man-god we had was Franklin D. Roosevelt and the record as it unfolds about his third and fourth terms is very sad. Had he been satisfied with just being a two-term President, he might have gone down in history as a constructive reformer. It is now clear, from the Yalta record, including Ambassador Harriman's reports to Roosevelt and later Truman, that Roosevelt knew before he died that Stalin was double-crossing him.

Americans generally take men in their stride, not expecting too much of them, but hoping for the best. The man-god goes well in such countries as Germany and Russia, but not in the United States where we have elected all sorts of personalities to the presidency and other high offices. We usually do not believe that the office turns a human being into something else just because he stepped into new shoes.

If Eisenhower's regents stopped their propaganda, he would have little trouble convincing his voters that he is entitled to be elected because he is just plain Ike. The harder they work on the 'Papa knows best," concept, pushing him out of a convalescence too fast but not giving him a Christmas message to read—something that has become customary with American Presidents—and putting him on a closed television circuit to address Republicans instead of the nation—the more they do of this sort of thing, the more they will hurt his chances. Ike has never been well served as President; he has overcome the lack of skill of his entourage by the magnetism of his personality.

And whoever, on his staff, encouraged the re-emergence of Thomas E. Dewey, who while he was popular as New York State's governor brought the Republican Party nothing but hard luck on the national scale, pulled a boner. It is possible that the voter will not have a keen look at the Republican candidate for Vice President. It is in the tea-leaves. Therefore, if the Republicans nominate a Vice President who will be a millstone weighting down Eisenhower, they will be heavily handicapped.

Ike's heart can heal and he can be useful for many years to come; or, he may have some more trouble. But let us keep that out of politics. We might as well examine some candidates' heads to discover if there is anything therein besides self-glorification, conceit, and ambition.

"In England, when you find the door of your safe off its hinges, you dial 999. That's the CID (Criminal Investigation Department) which has a branch in every locality headed by a Yard-trained man. Your phone call turns out his squad cars. Nobody carries guns in the British cops and robbers fraternity — it just wouldn't be cricket. In a recent Tangiers fracas between British and U. S. smugglers, one New Jersey character exposed a big pistol which was promptly taken away from him by a gentleman in a Savile Row suit who chided him in tones reminiscent of Ronald Colman.

"The modern London criminal has a lawyer, an accountant, an agent, and a clipping service. He also has a business.

"Last year in London, in a one-way side street, a KLM armoured guard was carrying two small crates of bullion worth 40,000 pounds ($112,000). Suddenly, he didn't have it. Several cars and trucks just happened to be stalled, cluttering the tiny street and paralyzing traffic. Nobody ever did know exactly what happened.

"The drama critic of British crime is Percy Hoskins of the Express. He has been predicting for weeks in polished prose that a big job was in the making. There had been an epidemic of jail breaks and certain specialists were on the street.

"Now here was a run on papers as London's seven big dailies featured the theft across eight columns. In the West End pubs and clubs where the thespians who play cops and robbers mingle with the cops and robbers themselves, there was a buzz of conjecture. Top inspectors and even superintendents showed up within minutes at the Star Tavern, the Maisonette Club, Les Ambassadeurs, and other hangouts, for a polite census of the opposition team.

'Eddie Chapman has a business. He manufacturers cowboy boots for children. He also has 46 convictions for safecracking and other offenses, all of which were erased from his record for his bravery as a counterspy during the war. So presently, he was receiving his old friends, Inspector Griffith and staff in his Kensington flat. While he poured drinks and chatted about the dog races at White City, a police technician painted his wall fixtures and door knobs with acid, looking for gold that might have been disguised as ornaments.

"Billy Hill is a soft - spoken Cockney who owns a doll factory. On the other hand, Billy has done so much time, seventeen years, that although free as a bird, his diet is restricted to oatmeal with an occasional slice of Spam — this being the standard menu in the Limey big houses. An impresario of crime, Billy was the producer of the famous Dartmoor Riots. Billy doesn't drink or smoke and when he tells a story, it is a big business deal. A check always changes hands, and Duncan Webb of The People (4 million every Sunday) or Ken Smith of the Kemsley Newspapers (who tends bar at the Star on Sunday afternoons) takes down every comma. Then the presses start rolling out front pages in millions with the byline, 'By Billy Hill King of the London Underworld.'

"Odhams Press paid Billy 24,000 pounds, that's $72,000 (bona fide price) for one 6-part essay. And foreign syndication rights brought more top money from French, German and Australian publishers.

"Another bullion job didn't quite come off. The two gonniffs assigned to this operation were suspicious of their information. Penetrating the cargo depot at London Airport late at night, they found the shipment but each pig of gold was coated with aluminum. They panicked, thinking this was not the gold but a plant. They got away from there quick. But not before one of them, a do - it - yourself fan, took along one small bar. Safely back in their hideout they quarrelled, then fought, breaking the furniture to such an extent that the neighbors, only to get some sleep, called in the police. The police spotted the metal bar, and the lads are now doing seven years.

"The day of the bullion snatch, the inspectors called on Billy at his place of business, and ever so politely and with many apologies, they searched the premises. This included opening 40 thousand doll boxes, which required a squad of a dozen patrolmen operating in 8-hour shifts. No trace of the gold has been found yet, but the police did arrest two minor league hoodlums who were somehow implicated. But as Eddie Chapman says, 'The chaps who did it don't even know who did it!'

In his book "Moon Over Miami" Jack Kofoed notes: "Millions of people have visited Miami. "DON'T KID YOURSELVES, BOYS"

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

Work For The Adolescent

Everybody knows, and says, that children must be kept occupied as happily, as usefully as possible, in order that they may mature as healthy useful members of society. But the hard fact remains that in this country today our boys and girls are not, as a group, given the opportunity to keep busy at instructive, useful work.

When our country was largely an agricultural people, the children and the adolescent group were kept busy as a matter of necessity. The work of farm and garden, coops, stables and barns, and the house, had to be done and they were held responsible for a good part of it. There was little time for amusement, and what we of today call recreation was scarcely heard about. Yet children grew into healthy manhood and womanhood and there were few delinquents.

Those days, with their good ways and their less good ones, are gone and with them the work for growing boys and girls. Better food, better medical care, better home backgrounds have helped rear a nation of taller, heavier and healthier youth. Physically they are in fine shape; morally and spiritually, not quite as well fitted. Character grows under the stimulus of self-discipline, and there can be little of that when children find it hard to feel needed in any special place or in any special circumstance.

In days past, the girls in the family knew they were needed to help with the baby, with the errands, with the cooking and the dishes and the like; the boys knew their father depended on them for help about the house and the barns. Often they had to forget about pleasure and attend to duty. Attending to duty, filled one's place regardless of the pull of pleasanter ideas, makes for character and maturity. It also creates skill and knowledge and a general worthwhileness in the doer.

Our young people today are not allowed, generally speaking, to learn to work. Our laws forbid it, our schools deplore the idea, our whole society is set against children—that is adolescents—some of them as mature physically as ever they will be and as far advanced in school as ever they will be. They must stay in school, even if they mark time until their birthday rolls around to free them.

When that day comes, greatly to the relief of the teachers and the pupil, where is he to go? He has not been prepared for work, has not been disciplined for work, has not been given a chance to perfect a skill or even to gain knowledge about one, so he is on the loose end that spells trouble.

Work, creative work if possible, but work that is instructive and useful stimulates intelligence and matures character in ALL children. This hard fact must be acknowledged by school and society.

Stammering is a phase some children go through, but with the proper guidance they soon overcome it. Dr. Patri explains why children stammer and what to do about it in leaflet P-2, "Stammering." IN WASHINGTON

Tax Cut Debate

This was to have been the year that the taxpayer was given a break, but the returning Congress views the tax cut proposal dubiously. Finally the idea seems to have penetrated that to cut taxes at a time when the public debt is almost sure to be boosted would be dangerous policy.

There are dissenters to this conclusion in both parties and the tax cut debate will go on throughout the session, with a strong probability that if a reduction is voted, no matter if it is small, President Eisenhower will veto the bill.

The President, however, is confronted by his own statement last year that a balanced budget should be achieved prior to any tax cut. The balance is now in prospect, but will not be assured, according to Treasury advices, until the final figures are in after April 15, the final date for paying 1955 taxes. After that, the drive for a tax cut will really boom.

If the budget is balanced, many Democrats and not a few Republicans will argue that this is the time to cut taxes and increase purchasing power, on the theory that additional money in circulation will increase income tax collections.

The theory worked back in the '20s, when a substantial tax cut was followed by increased collections. But the reduction was larger percentage-wise than it could possibly be now and, tax rates were but a fraction of those now in effect.

The will o' the wisp in this quandary is debt reduction, always talked of but never so far accomplished. It is given lip service at the beginning of every session, but as the weeks pass and new and continuing appropriations are pondered, the talk fades to a whisper.

Senator William F. Knowland of California, Republican leader, has pointed out that if the debt were reduced at the rate of a billion dollars a year, it would require 280 years to pay it off. He thinks a start might be made at this session, but not if taxes are reduced in any measure.

On the Democratic side both the majority leaders, Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas and Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, former chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, favor some tax relief. George is ready to offer the increase in individual exemptions from $600 to $700 as the barest minimum which Congress should approve. The Treasury has estimated that even that little aid for the small taxpayer would reduce federal tax revenue by $2,400,000,000 which some tax cut proponents will question, but the estimate appears to be sound.

Senator Harry F. Byrd (Dem.-Va.), chairman of the Senate Finance committee, joins Knowland in opposition to any tax cut, which forecasts a Senate battle after the House has acted. The present forecast is that the House, with all of its members except the few who are retiring, running for re-election, will pass some form of tax reduction bill, if only by a narrow margin.

There is probably no question but that the majority of taxpayers would prefer to have the tax cut and would like something tangible, rather than a mere increase in exemptions. Many Republicans in Congress recall the hard time they had obtaining election in both 1952 and 1954, and will figure that any vote to cut taxes whether the measure carries or not, is at least something to attract the voters back home.

RIPLEY'S — Believe It Or Not!

Worry Clinic

By Dr. George W. Crane

Thousands of Christian Chinese, with college education, are huddled in tar-paper shacks in Hongking because their American relatives can't get them into this free land. For Rev. Lee says the Chinese immigration quota is only 105 per year! This is not fair to Christian Chinese whom we have caused to be martyrs.

Case Q-342: Rev. Philip Lee,

aged 45, is the Chinese clergyman of Chicago's Chinatown church.

"Dr. Crane, my mother is a Bible teacher and lives in Hongkong," he said.

"Some 2,000,000 other refugees have descended upon Hongkong as they have fled from Communist China.

"Thousands of these refugees are college professors and clergymen and Christian business executives and other talented Chinese who preferred exile in poverty to living as slaves of communistic regimentation.

"My wife and I visited Hongkong last year to see if we couldn't help get my mother over to America, for she would be a great asset in the work of our Chinese Christian Church.

"But the immigration quota for Chinese is only 105 per year, so there is a long waiting list."

Stick By Friends

Perhaps it would be wiser if we raised our Chinese immigration quota to permit many more loyal Christians whom we have educated to our American viewpoint re "free enterprise" and our type of government.

It has long been predicted that the center of civilization will lie around the Pacific Basin by the end of the 20th century, so it might be smart if we incorporated more Chinese into citizenship here.

Our American missionaries Christianized the leaders of China. We backed the development of colleges and hospitals there.

Then, when our Chinese friends were driven out by the communists, we let them stagnate in tar-paper shacks in Hongkong!

As an exponent of "horse sense", I feel that we could get better returns by harnessing the talents of thousands of these Christian Chinese, college educated and experienced in science as well as business.

For why let brilliant minds and skilled hands remain in idleness? If we don't furnish an outlet for Christianized Chinese, we have violated the precept of St. James, who said, "Faith without works is dead."

A Christianized Chinese who must sit in squalor in a tar-paper shack in Hongkong, certainly can't produce much dividends on the missionary zeal and church money expended in changing him from Buddhism or Communistic atheism.

Immigration Quotas

"Yes, Dr. Crane, but aren't there any other brilliant Christian folks in Europe debarred from the U.S.A. by low immigration quotas?" you may ask.

True enough, but those countries have usually enjoyed fairly liberal immigration quotas in years past, and still have much higher quotas than the Chinese.

When Uncle Sam wishes to aid an infant industry that is beneficial, he often subsidizes the latter, which is why our Air Mail and Merchant Marine were subsidized.

This tendency to favor the infant industries should be expanded to our immigration, so newer immigrant groups should have a few immigration favors.

My college textbook in psychology was translated into the Chinese and has been widely employed over there, so I have had contact with many brilliant Chinese scientists.

It grieves me to think they are now twiddling their thumbs in Hongkong when Rev. Philip Lee could use them to help teach Christianity to Chinese in our large American cities.

The American Chinese would support them, too, so they'd be of no expense to us taxpayers.

Mother Draws Comparisons Between Her Two Daughters

By DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX: Ever since I can remember I have been compared with one of my sisters. She is a year older than I and is now happily married. My mother always says, "Janet didn't do it this way, why do you?" or, "Why can't you be more like Janet?"

I do things the way I think they should be done; if it isn't the way my mother likes it, she does it over and tells everyone I never do anything for her. I've told her I don't like being treated in this manner, and asked for a chance to talk it over. She squelches me by a simple statement that she knows what's right. It's getting to the point where I hate to be around Mom, as she's always complaining, nagging, or making fun of me. Younger Sister

ANSWER: Mothers, and teachers, too, who have the abominable habit of pitting one child against another by drawing odious comparisons should do a little reading on psychology. Because one youngster has been docile and completely lacking in initiative or originality, she should not be set as a master copy for all the others to follow.

Family life would certainly be a bore if all younger brothers and sisters were merely carbon copies of the first. Mother is entirely lacking in fair play as well as other virtues of understanding, sympathy and appreciation. However, she is also mighty set in her ways, determined and stubborn. It's doubtful if she'll ever listen to you.

BE POLITE

DEAR MISS DIX: Instead of asking for advice, I'd like to offer some. Here it is: Don't keep your family under a microscope looking for something to criticize. Treat your family a little like strangers. It will make you more polite, at least, and you won't shout to their faces what you would hesitate to whisper behind the back of a mere acquaintance.

Another thing, drop such phrases as, "If you'd only listened to me," "I knew this was going to happen to you," etc. They do no good and only irk the person to whom they are addressed.

Thanks for listening. S. T.

ANSWER: Add to your list of words nobody wants to hear my number one candidate for phrases: "I told you so." They are the most aggravating, irritating, annoying words that were ever spoken. We could indeed do with a bit more consideration toward our families.

DEAR MISS DIX: Pearl and I were girlhood chums. We are both married, but while I am anxious to continue the friendship, she apparently is not. I visit her frequently, but she never comes to see me. When I ask her to call, the excuse is that she doesn't have time. Her husband is away in the service, so she really does have time. Rose M.

ANSWER: Pearl has indicated quite clearly that she doesn't wish to remain friends with you, so take the hint. Don't make a definite or open break, just ease out as quietly as possible. Enlarge your circle of friends and activities — which you probably should have done before marriage. It's very easy to begin concentrating on one person, but it isn't good.

Problems Always Close On Heels Of Prosperity

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—All this prosperity everyone is talking about today means that America keeps hoisting its standard of living with new gadgets and more and better goods.

And each time it does, seems like, it creates a new problem.

Jet planes go faster. But they call for new techniques in metal-working and new alloys—or they melt. And they have created the problem of how to cut down on the noise and what to do about the old smaller airports.

Wrap - around windshields are popular with motorists — except when it rains. Then the old style windshield wiper finds the going rough around the curves. So pronation—the world golfer Ben Hogan says explains how he corrected his hook—is applied to a wiper using a kind of wrist and elbow motion.

Smaller homes save steps and expense—but the generously scaled furniture you inherited won't fit them. New furniture fashions are born—convertible beds stand in living rooms, transistors replace radio tubes and printed electrical circuits replace the maze of wires.

Business office techniques—spawn of personnel management pension plans, overtime scales, union dues checkoffs, withholding taxes, multiple division corporations—call for so much paper work that mechanical brains had to be invented to keep abreast of the new problem.

Party telephone lines used to serve, in their fashion. But so many Americans want to gab on the phones at once these days that scientists had to think up ways of carrying multiple conversations over the same cable. And just ahead lies transcontinental dial phoning, the scientists say.

New gadgets are so complex and skilled labor on assembly lines so expensive that industry is turning to still more complex gadgets to make the whole thing as automatic as possible.

Prof Says Tomb Won't Divulge Evidence Sought

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 6 (AP)—Whatever Thomas Walsingham's tomb may contain when they open it, Dr. Frank C. Baxter feels certain it won't be evidence that Christopher Marlowe wrote Shakespeare's plays for him.

Baxter, a Shakespearian scholar and professor of literature at the University of Southern California, expressed his opinion in discussing the latest revival of the Marlowe-Shakespeare controversy.

"Whoever wrote the plays of Shakespeare it was not the learned Marlowe," Baxter said yesterday in an interview with a CBS reporter. "One has only to read a page of 'Dr. Faustus' (by Marlowe) and 'King Lear' (by Shakespeare) side by side to see that there were two different minds and two different kinds of perception."

Three days ago in England, an Anglican bishop's court granted permission for opening of the 500-year-old tomb of the Walsinghams, lords of the manor of Scadbury, in Scadbury chapel of St. Nicholas Church, Chislehurst, a London suburb.

This permission was sought by Maj. John Marsham - Townsend, present lord of the manor, who hopes to prove that Marlowe wrote Shakespeare's poems and plays. Thomas Walsingham was the patron of Marlowe, who was born in 1564, the same year William Shakespeare is believed to have been born.

"They will find only some bones and a handful of dust in Walsingham's tomb," said Baxter, who received his doctorate from England's Cambridge University in 1934. "They will find no manuscripts which would show that Marlowe wrote Shakespeare's plays."

TURNED LOOSE

MAYSVILLE, Ky., Jan. 6 (AP) — When the custodian at Minerva High School went to work he found a 100-pound pig trotting around in the school cafeteria. An investigation showed the pig either had fallen or been pushed through a window which had been opened. It was turned loose in hope its owner would find it.

Little Boy Dies Despite Revival By Alert Doctor

DENVER Jan. 6 (AP)—Little Neal Demers, electrocted and then restored to life by a quick-thinking doctor, New Year's Eve is dead.

The 4-year-old died yesterday at Colorado General Hospital, where he lay unconscious for 4½ days.

Neal fell at his home, toppling a lighted Christmas tree onto the tracks of his new electric train. The wires short-circuited, and Neal was electrocuted when his head struck the tracks.

Summoned by the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Demers of suburban Aurora, Dr. Robert Squires first pronounced Neal dead. Then he opened the boy's chest with a razor blade and massaged the heart. It fluttered into life.

Neal was placed in an oxygen tent and fed by a tube. Another tube was inserted into the windpipe after pneumonia developed.

Negroes Cleared Of Disturbing Peace In Bus Row

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 6—UP—Seventy two Negro basketball fans today were acquitted of charges they disturbed the peace in a protest over segregation on a public bus.

Municipal Judge Andrew G. Bucaro heard the case against the Negroes, almost all Dillard University students, last night and found them innocent.

Fanny Carver, 17-year-old Dillard coed, also was freed of charges that she incited a riot when the Negroes boarded a bus and removed a sign separating the white and Negro sections.

The incident occurred Wednesday night after the Dillard-Xavier University basketball game. The white bus driver said he ordered the Negroes to replace the sign but was answered with jeers and cat-calls.

A ruling of the New Orleans Public Service, Inc., requires that the dividing sign remain in place if there is one white passenger and Negroes must sit behind the sign.

Judge Bucaro, in acquitting the Negroes, said they probably had reason to be in a lighthearted mood following the Dillard-Xavier University basketball game Wednesday.

"Kindly refrain," he said, "from doing the same tonight."

The bus driver, Francis Roux, 36, testified that there was no disturbance, "just the normal reaction after a game," until police arrived. Roux had stopped the bus and called his dispatcher who notified police.

The only white passenger aboard at the time, James J. Serpas, said, "I didn't bother anybody and nobody bothered me."

Three policemen testified that when they attempted to question some of the Negroes, a girl began laughing which set the others into guffaws.

"They were all laughing and joking like it was a circus or something, like the police were out there to help old ladies across the street," said Patrolman Joseph Madere.

Judge Bucaro agreed with the four white defense attorneys that there was no conclusive proof that any single person was responsible for setting off the disturbance.

Wyoming contains land from all four of the principal annexations which made up the territory of the United States west of the Mississippi river.

Armed Bandit Robs Messenger; Flees With $760

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 6 (AP) —An armed bandit robbed a grocery store messenger of $760 today less than a block from a district police station.

The victim, 19-year-old Lloyd Rosemore, told police the robber was a former schoolmate.

Rosemore said when he stepped into his car the unmasked bandit thrust a gun in his face and ordered him to hand over the money he had.

Poet La Farge Dies At Age 58

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Jan. 6 (AP)—Novelist Christopher La Farge, 58, architect, painter and poet, died after a cerebral hemorrhage at Jane Brown Hospital last night.

Among his best-selling books were "The Sudden Guest," "Each to the Other," "The Wilsons," "East by Southwest," "Mesa Verde," "All Sorts and Kinds," and "Beaty for Ashes."

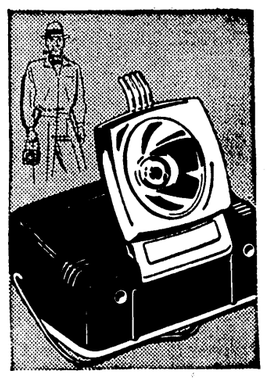

"The Sudden Guest" was a novel dealing with the 1938 hurricane in his home section of Rhode Island, South County. It had a sale of more than half a million copies.

Mother Draws Comparisons Between Her Two Daughters

By DOROTHY DIX

DEAR MISS DIX: Ever since I can remember I have been compared with one of my sisters. She is a year older than I and is now happily married. My mother always says, "Janet didn't do it this way, why do you?" or, "Why can't you be more like Janet?"

I do things the way I think they should be done; if it isn't the way my mother likes it, she does it over and tells everyone I never do anything for her. I've told her I don't like being treated in this manner, and asked for a chance to talk it over. She squelches me by a simple statement that she knows what's right. It's getting to the point where I hate to be around Mom, as she's always complaining, nagging, or making fun of me. Younger Sister

ANSWER: Mothers, and teachers, too, who have the abominable habit of pitting one child against another by drawing odious comparisons should do a little reading on psychology. Because one youngster has been docile and completely lacking in initiative or originality, she should not be set as a master copy for all the others to follow.

Family life would certainly be a bore if all younger brothers and sisters were merely carbon copies of the first. Mother is entirely lacking in fair play as well as other virtues of understanding, sympathy and appreciation. However, she is also mighty set in her ways, determined and stubborn. It's doubtful if she'll ever listen to you.

BE POLITE

DEAR MISS DIX: Instead of asking for advice, I'd like to offer some. Here it is: Don't keep your family under a microscope looking for something to criticize. Treat your family a little like strangers. It will make you more polite, at least, and you won't shout to their faces what you would hesitate to whisper behind the back of a mere acquaintance.

Another thing, drop such phrases as, "If you'd only listened to me," "I knew this was going to happen to you," etc. They do no good and only irk the person to whom they are addressed.

Thanks for listening. S. T.

ANSWER: Add to your list of words nobody wants to hear my number one candidate for phrases: "I told you so." They are the most aggravating, irritating, annoying words that were ever spoken. We could indeed do with a bit more consideration toward our families.

DEAR MISS DIX: Pearl and I were girlhood chums. We are both married, but while I am anxious to continue the friendship, she apparently is not. I visit her frequently, but she never comes to see me. When I ask her to call, the excuse is that she doesn't have time. Her husband is away in the service, so she really does have time. Rose M.

ANSWER: Pearl has indicated quite clearly that she doesn't wish to remain friends with you, so take the hint. Don't make a definite or open break, just ease out as quietly as possible. Enlarge your circle of friends and activities — which you probably should have done before marriage. It's very easy to begin concentrating on one person, but it isn't good.

Problems Always Close On Heels Of Prosperity

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—All this prosperity everyone is talking about today means that America keeps hoisting its standard of living with new gadgets and more and better goods.

And each time it does, seems like, it creates a new problem.

Jet planes go faster. But they call for new techniques in metal-working and new alloys—or they melt. And they have created the problem of how to cut down on the noise and what to do about the old smaller airports.

Wrap - around windshields are popular with motorists — except when it rains. Then the old style windshield wiper finds the going rough around the curves. So pronation—the world golfer Ben Hogan says explains how he corrected his hook—is applied to a wiper using a kind of wrist and elbow motion.

Smaller homes save steps and expense—but the generously scaled furniture you inherited won't fit them. New furniture fashions are born—convertible beds stand in living rooms, transistors replace radio tubes and printed electrical circuits replace the maze of wires.

Business office techniques—spawn of personnel management pension plans, overtime scales, union dues checkoffs, withholding taxes, multiple division corporations—call for so much paper work that mechanical brains had to be invented to keep abreast of the new problem.

Party telephone lines used to serve, in their fashion. But so many Americans want to gab on the phones at once these days that scientists had to think up ways of carrying multiple conversations over the same cable. And just ahead lies transcontinental dial phoning, the scientists say.

New gadgets are so complex and skilled labor on assembly lines so expensive that industry is turning to still more complex gadgets to make the whole thing as automatic as possible.

Prof Says Tomb Won't Divulge Evidence Sought

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 6 (AP)—Whatever Thomas Walsingham's tomb may contain when they open it, Dr. Frank C. Baxter feels certain it won't be evidence that Christopher Marlowe wrote Shakespeare's plays for him.

Baxter, a Shakespearian scholar and professor of literature at the University of Southern California, expressed his opinion in discussing the latest revival of the Marlowe-Shakespeare controversy.

"Whoever wrote the plays of Shakespeare it was not the learned Marlowe," Baxter said yesterday in an interview with a CBS reporter. "One has only to read a page of 'Dr. Faustus' (by Marlowe) and 'King Lear' (by Shakespeare) side by side to see that there were two different minds and two different kinds of perception."

Three days ago in England, an Anglican bishop's court granted permission for opening of the 500-year-old tomb of the Walsinghams, lords of the manor of Scadbury, in Scadbury chapel of St. Nicholas Church, Chislehurst, a London suburb.

This permission was sought by Maj. John Marsham - Townsend, present lord of the manor, who hopes to prove that Marlowe wrote Shakespeare's poems and plays. Thomas Walsingham was the patron of Marlowe, who was born in 1564, the same year William Shakespeare is believed to have been born.

"They will find only some bones and a handful of dust in Walsingham's tomb," said Baxter, who received his doctorate from England's Cambridge University in 1934. "They will find no manuscripts which would show that Marlowe wrote Shakespeare's plays."

TURNED LOOSE

MAYSVILLE, Ky., Jan. 6 (AP) — When the custodian at Minerva High School went to work he found a 100-pound pig trotting around in the school cafeteria. An investigation showed the pig either had fallen or been pushed through a window which had been opened. It was turned loose in hope its owner would find it.

Little Boy Dies Despite Revival By Alert Doctor

DENVER Jan. 6 (AP)—Little Neal Demers, electrocted and then restored to life by a quick-thinking doctor, New Year's Eve is dead.

The 4-year-old died yesterday at Colorado General Hospital, where he lay unconscious for 4½ days.

Neal fell at his home, toppling a lighted Christmas tree onto the tracks of his new electric train. The wires short-circuited, and Neal was electrocuted when his head struck the tracks.

Summoned by the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl E. Demers of suburban Aurora, Dr. Robert Squires first pronounced Neal dead. Then he opened the boy's chest with a razor blade and massaged the heart. It fluttered into life.

Neal was placed in an oxygen tent and fed by a tube. Another tube was inserted into the windpipe after pneumonia developed.

ANGOLA Jan. 6 —UP—Convict Joseph Poche was caught yesterday near Fort Adams,, Miss., thanks to bloodhounds who led a posse to the Alexandria man. Warden Maurice Sigler said Poche walked off from a paint detail Wednesday and crossed the Mississippi River to get away temporarily.

Negroes Cleared Of Disturbing Peace In Bus Row

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 6—UP—Seventy two Negro basketball fans today were acquitted of charges they disturbed the peace in a protest over segregation on a public bus.

Municipal Judge Andrew G. Bucaro heard the case against the Negroes, almost all Dillard University students, last night and found them innocent.

Fanny Carver, 17-year-old Dillard coed, also was freed of charges that she incited a riot when the Negroes boarded a bus and removed a sign separating the white and Negro sections.

The incident occurred Wednesday night after the Dillard-Xavier University basketball game. The white bus driver said he ordered the Negroes to replace the sign but was answered with jeers and cat-calls.

A ruling of the New Orleans Public Service, Inc., requires that the dividing sign remain in place if there is one white passenger and Negroes must sit behind the sign.

Judge Bucaro, in acquitting the Negroes, said they probably had reason to be in a lighthearted mood following the Dillard-Xavier University basketball game Wednesday.

"Kindly refrain," he said, "from doing the same tonight."

The bus driver, Francis Roux, 36, testified that there was no disturbance, "just the normal reaction after a game," until police arrived. Roux had stopped the bus and called his dispatcher who notified police.

The only white passenger aboard at the time, James J. Serpas, said, "I didn't bother anybody and nobody bothered me."

Three policemen testified that when they attempted to question some of the Negroes, a girl began laughing which set the others into guffaws.

"They were all laughing and joking like it was a circus or something, like the police were out there to help old ladies across the street," said Patrolman Joseph Madere.

Judge Bucaro agreed with the four white defense attorneys that there was no conclusive proof that any single person was responsible for setting off the disturbance.

Wyoming contains land from all four of the principal annexations which made up the territory of the United States west of the Mississippi river.

Armed Bandit Robs Messenger; Flees With $760

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 6 (AP) —An armed bandit robbed a grocery store messenger of $760 today less than a block from a district police station.

The victim, 19-year-old Lloyd Rosemore, told police the robber was a former schoolmate.

Rosemore said when he stepped into his car the unmasked bandit thrust a gun in his face and ordered him to hand over the money he had.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Life Is Too Short To Worry And Fret; Enjoy Each Day

In King Henry The Fourth, Shakespeare wrote: "The time of life is short, To spend that time basely were too long."

It is easy to say that we will live gallantly, that we will make the best of any situation we find ourselves in, that we will add to the happiness rather than stand in the light of those we know, that we will meet tragedy with courage. It is harder to do!

Actually, though, I believe that more people rise to heights of self-control and self-lessness when they are faced with real trouble than when they simply meet the usual problems and tensions of everyday life.

Too many of us spend our energy in worrying about things which will not happen, in fretting about things which are not really important when compared to true values. Many women even spend a part of the few years allotted to them on this earth in envy, jealousy, tears, boredom, sensitiveness, hecticness, cattiness, and petty fears about social contacts.

The length of a life is measured much more accurately by how much a person gives to others, how much simple enjoyment is extracted from each day, how much laughter, how much hope, how much praise and how much tenderness and warmth it encompasses, than by the number of birthdays.

So since "the time of life is short," let us this year enjoy each day we fall heir to, each person we meet, each fire on the hearth, each sunset and each moonrise. May our problems be challenges and our blessings deeply appreciated!

If you would like to have my leaflet "Individual Happiness," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 65 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: "Marathon Is Here Again; It Is Way to Real Glamor."

One of Mrs. Pyburn's main interests in the LDA was the establishment of a scholarship award for deserving home economics students to continue their studies in a dietetic internship and it was during her LDA administration that the fund was established.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Life Is Too Short To Worry And Fret; Enjoy Each Day

In King Henry The Fourth, Shakespeare wrote: "The time of life is short; To spend that time basely were too long."

It is easy to say that we will live gallantly, that we will make the best of any situation we find ourselves in, that we will add to the happiness rather than stand in the light of those we know, that we will meet tragedy with courage. It is harder to do!

Actually, though, I believe that more people rise to heights of self-control and self-lessness when they are faced with real trouble than when they simply meet the usual problems and tensions of everyday life.

Too many of us spend our energy in worrying about things which will not happen, in fretting about things which are not really important when compared to true values. Many women even spend a part of the few years allotted to them on this earth in envy, jealousy, tears, boredom, sensitiveness, hecticness, cattiness, and petty fears about social contacts.

The length of a life is measured much more accurately by how much a person gives to others, how much simple enjoyment is extracted from each day, how much laughter, how much hope, how much praise and how much tenderness and warmth it encompasses, than by the number of birthdays.

So since "the time of life is short," let us this year enjoy each day we fall heir to, each person we meet, each fire on the hearth, each sunset and each moonrise. May our problems be challenges and our blessings deeply appreciated!

If you would like to have my leaflet "Individual Happiness," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 65 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Tomorrow: "Marathon Is Here Again; It Is Way to Real Glamor."

USS Ponchatoula

Morrison Joins In Dedication Of Tanker For Fleet

WASHINGTON — Jan. 6 (Special) —A $13,775,000 fleet tanker named in honor of the town of Ponchatoula, La., will be commissioned in ceremonies at the Philadelphia, Pa., naval yard Thursday, Jan. 12.

Rep. James Morrison of the sixth district, in which Ponchatoula is located, will make the principal address. Rear Admiral Ernest H. Von Heinburg, commandant of the fourth naval district, U. S. Navy Base, Philadelphia, will be in charge of the commissioning. Music for the occasion will be by a Navy band.

The USS Ponchatoula is one of six large fleet oilers or tankers which were recently completed. She measures 667 feet overall in length and has an 86-foot beam. When fully loaded, she has a draft of 35 feet and her displacement is over 38,000 tons. The tankers were constructed by the New York Shipbuilding Corporation in Camden, N.J.

Morrison said the Pontchatoula will be a major addition to the seakeeping capabilities of the fleet. She will be staffed with 10 officers and 150 men.

No reason was given for the navy's decision to name the vessel after the Louisiana town, which has a population of about 5,000 people. Ponchatoula is a farming center and has been the location for the past 30 years of this country's largest cypress lumber mills, which manufacture red tidewater cypress.

Congressman Morrison is a member of a family prominently identified with the U. S. Navy. His uncle was the late Admiral Richmond P. Hobson, —who sank the Merrimac in the Spanish - American War. Hobson also served in the U. S. Congress for a number of terms as a member of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee.

Construction of the Ponchatoula took two and one-half years.

Morrison Speaks At Youth Rally In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 6— (Special)— Chep Morrison told a student rally here today that "the youth of Louisiana are for our program because they know it will bring a new day — and a new tomorrow — to Louisiana."

Speaking on the campus of Loyola University, Morrison asserted:

"Louisiana young people are lining up with our program of building on confidence, of attracting industry and new business. They want proven ability in public office, together with honesty and integrity and aggressive, on-the-ball performance.

"They know we cannot build on the program of the old-line politicians, exemplified by the man who has been governor twice and who is again a candidate. That program means political vengeance, broken promises, double taxing, deducts and the spoils system."

Morrison spoke as he and his running mate, C. E. "Cap" Barham, candidate for lieutenant - governor brought their campaign to New Orleans for the day.

Morrison pledged himself to a three-point specific program for Louisiana students:

. Lowering of the voting age to 18 because "if our youth are called upon to risk their lives for their country in the service they are certainly entitled to participate in its public affairs."

2. Lowering of the period of residence to vote from two years to one year.

3. Creation of a book pool and other benefits for veterans, including those of the Korean war.

Morrison estimated that textbooks cost the average student veteran up to $100 per year and said this cost should be met by the state.

He sounded a high note of optimism regarding the outcome of the current campaign for governor.

"Every poll and every other piece of concrete evidence points to the fact that I am the only independent candidate who has a chance," he declared.

He said that all of the five candidates for governor are for segregation and that "No sensible person thinks any of the candidates would do anything to break down our customs."

He added, however, that one aspirant for the governorship "is trying to create race hatred through a false appeal on this subject and I say 'subject' because it is not an issue."

Senators Agree To Public Airing Of Sugar Reform

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP) —The Senate Finance Committee agreed today to begin public hearings Monday, Jan. 16, on a revision of the sugar act which expires at the end of this year.

Sharp controversy has developed over the act which fizes quotas for domestic and cane sugar producers as well as those for Cuba and other foreign producers.

Chairman Byrd (D-Va) said that after sugar legislation is out of the way, public hearings will be held on House-approved liberalization of the old age and disability benefits under social security.

After that, Byrd plans action on a House-passed measure covering federal taxes on life insurance companies.

Domestic cane and beet producers won House approval for a larger share in the increasing amount of sugar being consumed in this country.

The act fixes a processing tax on all refined sugar and this issued chiefly for benefit payments to the domestic producers. They normally supply about half of the annual consumption with Cuba getting a major share of U.S. imports.

Byrd said 10 witnesses have asked to testify during the Senate hearings and Agriculture Department officials, who administer the act, will be heard first.

Byrd said some 60 witnesses have asked to testify on revision of the social security program. The House voted to lower the present 65-year eligibility for old age benefits for women to 62 years.

He was given emergency treatment at St. Francis Hospital and was transferred to Wright-Bendel Clinic for further treatment and care.

Emergency Loans Available To All State Farmers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (Special) —The entire state of Louisiana has been declared eligible for emergency operating loans for farmers, Undersecretary True D. Morse today informed four members of the Louisiana delegation.

According to information received by Sens. Allen J. Ellender and Russell Long and Reps. T. A. Thompson and Overton Brooks, state farmers unable to secure needed operating loans through local commercial sources can obtain such loans from the farmers home administration.

The only requirement is a legitimate need for operating funds. which the farmer cannot obtain from a local bank. This does not apply to farm expansion.

Interested farmers should apply to the FHA office in their parish.

Former Alabama Official's Wife Killed In Blaze

GADSDEN, Ala., Jan. 6 (AP) —The attractive wife of former Lt. Gov. James B. Allen was suffocated while trapped in her bedroom during a fire at their home today.

General 'Phone Strike Is Ended

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Jan. 6 (AP)— The six-day old General Telephone Co. strike was settled today with what both union and company representatives termed a "compromise agreement."

The new contract is in effect tonight and will run for 15 months.

The union did not get all area differentials eliminated. This was a key point in negotiations. There was considerable improvement, however, by reducing the number of "schedules"—the different pay scales for different cities.

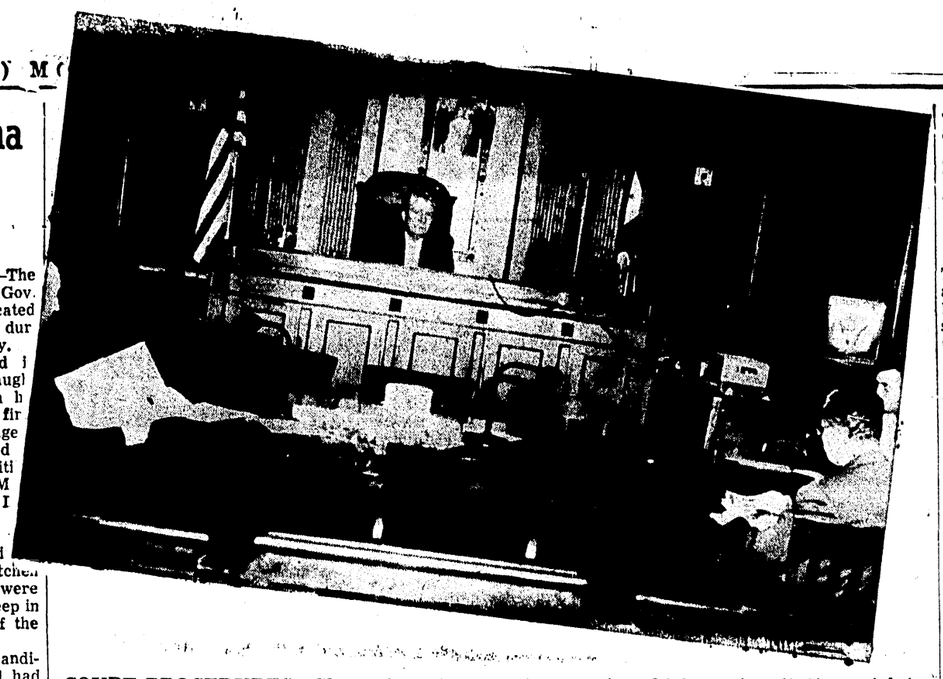

R. W. Staley of Dallas, international representative of the Communications Workers of America and one of the chief negotiators, said the agreement would amount to an average increase of 8 or 9 cents an hour per worker throughout the system.

Employes walked out last Saturday at midnight.

At that time, switchboard operators' hourly wages ranged from 77 cents an hour in small towns to $1.39 in San Angelo and Texarkana.

Other issues in the negotiations and strike were basic wage increases, company paid insurance, full pay for on-the-job injuries and a modified no-strike clause.

The number on strike in Texas, New Mexico, Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma was in dispute. The union said it has 2,300 membtrs, while the company said it made union dues payroll deductions for only 1,700.

Boeing To Build 30 Huge Bombers For Government

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 —UP— The Air Force Friday announced a $248 million order for B-52 jet bombers, the new intercontinental striking plans of the Strategic Air Command.

The new order would involve about 30 of the big jets based on a current cost of about $8 million a plane.

The planes will be built by the Seattle, Wash., and Wichita, Kan., plants of Boeing Aircraft.

Air Force officials said the order did not represent an increase in the number of B-52s which the service plans to buy over the long run. It represents an additional firm commitment of funds beyond those already contracted, it was explained.

Authoritative sources expect about 500 B-52s to be built by some time in 1958 to replace completely the B-36 Super Bomber.

USS Ponchatoula

Morrison Joins In Dedication Of Tanker For Fleet

WASHINGTON — Jan. 6 (Special) —A $13,775,000 fleet tanker named in honor of the town of Ponchatoula, La., will be commissioned in ceremonies at the Philadelphia, Pa., naval yard Thursday, Jan. 12.

Rep. James Morrison of the sixth district, in which Ponchatoula is located, will make the principal address. Rear Admiral Ernest H. Von Heinburg, commandant of the fourth naval district, U. S. Navy Base, Philadelphia, will be in charge of the commissioning. Music for the occasion will be by a Navy band.

The USS Ponchatoula is one of six large fleet oilers or tankers which were recently completed. She measures 667 feet overall in length and has an 86-foot beam. When fully loaded, she has a draft of 35 feet and her displacement is over 38,000 tons. The tankers were constructed by the New York Shipbuilding Corporation in Camden, N.J.

Morrison said the Pontchatoula will be a major addition to the seakeeping capabilities of the fleet. She will be staffed with 10 officers and 150 men.

No reason was given for the navy's decision to name the vessel after the Louisiana town, which has a population of about 5,000 people. Ponchatoula is a farming center and has been the location for the past 30 years of this country's largest cypress lumber mills, which manufacture red tidewater cypress.

Congressman Morrison is a member of a family prominently identified with the U. S. Navy. His uncle was the late Admiral Richmond P. Hobson, —who sank the Merrimac in the Spanish - American War. Hobson also served in the U. S. Congress for a number of terms as a member of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee.

Construction of the Ponchatoula took two and one-half years.

Senators Agree To Public Airing Of Sugar Reform

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP) —The Senate Finance Committee agreed today to begin public hearings Monday, Jan. 16, on a revision of the sugar act which expires at the end of this year.

Sharp controversy has developed over the act which fizes quotas for domestic and cane sugar producers as well as those for Cuba and other foreign producers.

Chairman Byrd (D-Va) said that after sugar legislation is out of the way, public hearings will be held on House-approved liberalization of the old age and disability benefits under social security.

After that, Byrd plans action on a House-passed measure covering federal taxes on life insurance companies.

Domestic cane and beet producers won House approval for a larger share in the increasing amount of sugar being consumed in this country.

The act fixes a processing tax on all refined sugar and this issued chiefly for benefit payments to the domestic producers. They normally supply about half of the annual consumption with Cuba getting a major share of U.S. imports.

Byrd said 10 witnesses have asked to testify during the Senate hearings and Agriculture Department officials, who administer the act, will be heard first.

Byrd said some 60 witnesses have asked to testify on revision of the social security program. The House voted to lower the present 65-year eligibility for old age benefits for women to 62 years.

9-Year-Old Boy Is Burned By Hot Tar

Nine-year-old Billy Johnson of 213 Garden Drive, Monroe, received serious burns on his hands at about 4:45 p.m. yesterday when he contacted some hot tar while playing near his home.

He was given emergency treatment at St. Francis Hospital and was transferred to Wright-Bendel Clinic for further treatment and care.

Emergency Loans Available To All State Farmers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (Special) —The entire state of Louisiana has been declared eligible for emergency operating loans for farmers, Undersecretary True D. Morse today informed four members of the Louisiana delegation.

According to information received by Sens. Allen J. Ellender and Russell Long and Reps. T. A. Thompson and Overton Brooks, state farmers unable to secure needed operating loans through local commercial sources can obtain such loans from the farmers home administration.

The only requirement is a legitimate need for operating funds. which the farmer cannot obtain from a local bank. This does not apply to farm expansion.

Interested farmers should apply to the FHA office in their parish.

General 'Phone Strike Is Ended

SAN ANGELO, Tex., Jan. 6 (AP)— The six-day old General Telephone Co. strike was settled today with what both union and company representatives termed a "compromise agreement."

The new contract is in effect tonight and will run for 15 months.

The union did not get all area differentials eliminated. This was a key point in negotiations. There was considerable improvement, however, by reducing the number of "schedules"—the different pay scales for different cities.

R. W. Staley of Dallas, international representative of the Communications Workers of America and one of the chief negotiators, said the agreement would amount to an average increase of 8 or 9 cents an hour per worker throughout the system.

Employes walked out last Saturday at midnight.

At that time, switchboard operators' hourly wages ranged from 77 cents an hour in small towns to $1.39 in San Angelo and Texarkana.

Other issues in the negotiations and strike were basic wage increases, company paid insurance, full pay for on-the-job injuries and a modified no-strike clause.

The number on strike in Texas, New Mexico, Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma was in dispute. The union said it has 2,300 membtrs, while the company said it made union dues payroll deductions for only 1,700.

Morrison Speaks At Youth Rally In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 6— (Special)— Chep Morrison told a student rally here today that "the youth of Louisiana are for our program because they know it will bring a new day — and a new tomorrow — to Louisiana."

Speaking on the campus of Loyola University, Morrison asserted:

"Louisiana young people are lining up with our program of building on confidence, of attracting industry and new business. They want proven ability in public office, together with honesty and integrity and aggressive, on-the-ball performance.

"They know we cannot build on the program of the old-line politicians, exemplified by the man who has been governor twice and who is again a candidate. That program means political vengeance, broken promises, double taxing, deducts and the spoils system."

Morrison spoke as he and his running mate, C. E. "Cap" Barham, candidate for lieutenant - governor brought their campaign to New Orleans for the day.

Morrison pledged himself to a three-point specific program for Louisiana students:

. Lowering of the voting age to 18 because "if our youth are called upon to risk their lives for their country in the service they are certainly entitled to participate in its public affairs."

2. Lowering of the period of residence to vote from two years to one year.

3. Creation of a book pool and other benefits for veterans, including those of the Korean war.

Morrison estimated that textbooks cost the average student veteran up to $100 per year and said this cost should be met by the state.

He sounded a high note of optimism regarding the outcome of the current campaign for governor.

"Every poll and every other piece of concrete evidence points to the fact that I am the only independent candidate who has a chance," he declared.

He said that all of the five candidates for governor are for segregation and that "No sensible person thinks any of the candidates would do anything to break down our customs."

He added, however, that one aspirant for the governorship "is trying to create race hatred through a false appeal on this subject and I say 'subject' because it is not an issue."

Northwestern Defeats Northeast Quintet, 74 To 69

Indians Drop Big Lead, Game, First Gulf League Start

By TED HECKATHORN

The Northeast State Indians started off like a house afire last night against the Northwestern State quintet, but were soon smoldered out by the Demons, who took the halftime lead, the game, and the initial Gulf States Conference tilt, 74-69.

The Tribe jumped into a 10-1 and 12-3 lead as the capacity crowd's screams of approval nearly tore the roof off the Ouachita gymnasium, but little Northwestern guards Dick Brown and freshman Jimmie Leach took matters into their hands and closed the gap to 32-36 late in the half before tying and going ahead, 36-34, at intermission.

The Indians fought hard under the enemy hoop, holding six-footten Lavelle Langston and sharpshooting veteran George McConathy to a total of 18 points between them, but persisted in letting Brown and Leach pepper away for two-pointers from outside.

Lloyd Crocker not only led Northeast in scoring, with 14 points, but was the outstanding rebounder throughout. Stan Shaneyfelt had 13 points for second Northeast high score; and Brown and Leach paced the winners with 24 and 18 apiece, including seven swishers each.

The game was nip-and-tuck in the final half until the dying moments, when the Demons forged into a seven-point lead after the Indians had gone ahead, 57-54, with three minutes to play.

Power In Feature Win At Tropical; Bobby Ussery Up

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 6 (AP)—A. J. Mesler's Power, going in his best form, captured the Turf Writers' Lady Purse at Tropical Park today under jockey Bobby Ussery, who rode three winners and pulled ahead of Willie Hartack in their riding duel.

Ussery completed his triple in the ninth on has importance, who paid $19.60, for his 42nd victory of the meet. Hartack, who rode two winners today, has 40.

Ussery got his second winner aboard Power, a Brookmeade stable castoff, driving the gelding home 2 lenghts before Mrs. Ben Whitaker's Flying Chief. A head away was Pin Oak farm's War and Peace. The time for the mile and one-sixteenth was 1:43 3-5 on a fast track.

Power, acquired by Mesler from the Brookmeade sales last year in New York for $8,000 before he had gone to the races, was heavily backed at $5.70, $3.20 and $2.70.

Ussery got his first winner of the day on the two-year - old Maitre De, $10.80, in the third. Hartack scored with Latitude, $4.60, in the second, and his All In One, $9.80, placed first through the disqualification of Flight Admiral in the fourth.

At the New Orleans Fair Ground Tonsina withstood a strong stretch drive by Epic King to win the featured $2,300 Mount Carmel Purse.

It was the fourth victory in four starts this season at the Fair Grounds for the T. A. Grissom color bearer.

Apprentice jockey Mike Roffo, scoring the first victory of his career, had Tonsina a neck in front of Epic King at the finish. Make Ready took third, two lenghts behind Epic King.

The winner raced the three quarters of a mile in 1:11 4-5 and returned $5.20, $2.60 and $2.20. Epic King paid $2.60 and $2.20 and Make Ready's backers received $2.40.

Arkansas State Loses To Gents By 86-59 Count

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 6 (AP) — Centenary won its sixth straight victory tonight, outscoring Arkansas State 86-59.

The losers, which had won seven of eight games, seldom was in contention. Centenary ran up a big lead in the first 10 minutes, led 35-27 at halftime and dominated second half play.

At one point, Centenary led by 32 points.

Jim Edelen of Centenary took scoring honors with 19 points, with 17 coming in the second half. Larry Teague was runnerup with 18. Best for Arkansas State were guards Gerald Chapple and Bill Gatlin with 14 and 13.

Mangrum Takes L. A. Lead

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6 (AP) — Lloyd Mangrum of the old guard of golf signalled a challenge to win the rich Los Angeles open for the fourth time today when he whacked out a 5-under-par 66 to lead the way through the first round of play in the $30,000 winter classic.

Mangrum, now 41 and returning to major contention after a 9-month layoff, set the pace with five birdies for a score of 34-32—66 for the par 36-35—71 that faced the field of 155 at the Rancho Municipal Golf Course.

Mangrum, still bothered by rib injuries that put him on the sidelines last spring, won the Los Angeles open in 1949-51-53, and he played today like the dashing Mangrum of those years.

Styled now as the squire of Apple Valley, Calif., where he makes his home, the former national open champion held a bare one stroke lead over his nearest contenders.

They were Lionel Hebert of Erie, Penn., with 34-33; Long John Barnum, Belmont, Mich., 34-33, and Cecil Harris, a little known, 42-year-old club professional from nearby Whittier, 35-32.

Reigel Ramrods McNeese 'Pokes In 71 To 68 Win

HAMMOND, La., Jan. 6 (AP) — Forward Bill Reigel sank 29 points tonight in leading McNeese State to a 71-68 triumph over Southeastern Louisiana and boosting his scoring total to 507 points for the season.

McNeese had to overcome an 11-point deficit in the last half to win. Reigel and Frank Glenn sparked the surge.

Southeastern had gone ahead after a nip and tuck first half as Tom Burke and Benny Kimble hit well after the intermission. Burke wound up with 23 points and Kimble with 21.

It was the first Gulf States Conference game of the season for McNeese.

Tatum Talks To Tar Heel Bosses On Coaching Job

CHAPEL HILL, N.C., Jan. 6 (AP) —Maryland's big Jim Tatum arrived on the campus of the University of North Carolina today and immediately touched off a series of conferences that seemingly will install him as head football coach at his alma mater.

Formal announcement might be held off until tomorrow, however. Tatum said he had to be back in College Park, Md., tomorrow morning.

Tatum and various university officials waded through a maze of closed talks that wore on throughout the day.

The laborious process of going through university channels began this morning in nearby Raleigh where Tatum and C. P. (Chuck) Erickson, North Carolina athletic director, talked briefly with newsmen before preceeding to Chapel Hill.

At that time Tatum said he hoped "to settle once and for all" the almost annual report that he was bound for North Carolina where he was a tackle and, for one year, 1942, served as head coach.

Tatum, Erickson, Dean A. W. Hobbs, faculty chairman of athletics and other members of the athletic council conferred here at a luncheon session.

The coaches committee of the athletic council and Tatum talked for two hours after which Tatum was excused and the committee deliberated in private.

Hobbs and Erickson then went to the home of Chancellor Robert B. House, presumably to tell him of the committee's recommendations.

Tatum was expected to be brought in for a talk with Hobbs later. Further consideration of the recommendations by Dr. J. Harris Purks, acting president of the University and the executive committee of the board of trustees was a possibility.

Tatum has been head coach and athletic director at the University of Maryland for nine years during which he produced five bowl teams. His 1955 team posted a 10-0 record and ranked third in the nation. It lost to Oklahoma in the Miami, Fla., Orange Bowl game 20-6 last Monday.

It was believed that detailing of Tatum's powers and the possibility of granting him a reasonably free hand in his operations, rather than purely financial considerations, were the principal points of discussion between the 42-year-old McColl, S. C., native and university officials.

North Carolina finished its sixth successive losing season last month, the last three under George Braclay, a teammate of Tatum's on the 1934 North Carolina team. Barcklay's contract was not renewed after his 1955 team won three and lost seven.

Both Maryland and North Carolina are members of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Ban Mud Cleats For High School Football Games

CHICAGO, Jan. 6—UP—The mud cleat was banned from high school football Friday.

The action, to start with the 1956 season, was taken by the football committee of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations.

The committee also noted that football has become so deceptive that even the referee sometimes is fooled, and blows the whistle when the ball still is in play.

It said other game officials will be instructed to help out the referee by blowing their whistle whenever the referee is not in a position to determine a dead ball.

The committee identified mud cleats under its ban as any longer than the prescribed maximum of 7-8 inch.

It also reported that high school coaches and officials overwhelmingly favor retention of present rules which make a punt a dead ball when it touches in the end zone and which permit two forward passes behind the line of scrimmage.

Under the present rule, designed to prevent injuries, the dead punt in the end zone goes for a touchback, putting the ball in play on the 20-yard line of the receiver.

The second forward pass may come into play if an intended lateral moves a slight distance forward.

Terrapins' Giese Takes Gamecock Coaching Position

COLUMBIA, S.C., Jan. 6 (AP)—Warren Giese, chief assistant of Maryland's Jim Taum, has signed a three-year contract as head football coach at the University of South Carolina.

The announcement, made by President Donald Russell, also said Rex Enright will retire as head of the coaching staff and devote his full time as athletic director.

Giese's contract calls for a reported $12,000 a year. He will be permitted to choose two new assistant coaches to join the present staff, which will be retained.

Enright thus ends one of the nation's longest tenures as head coach at a major college. He took a job here in 1938.

Enright, a Notre Dame graduate, said in a statement: "with the increased temp and exacting duties required by the two jobs (athletic director and head football coach), I deemed it impossible to handle both positions adequately. Therefore, I have decided to give up the football coaching duties and devote my full time to the athletic directorship."

Record $126,000 Tag Put On Mare, Segula, At Auction

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 6 (AP)—Segula, mother of Nashua and carrying a full brother or sister to the near - millionaire star of thoroughbred racing, sold for a fabulous $126,000, a record price for a mare at an American auction.

Humphrey Finney, an agent who reportedly acted for a London shipping magnate, Stavros Niarchos, bought the 14-year - old dark bay mare after outbidding Walter Michels of Bucyrus, Ohio.

All told, 16 yeralings and 23 broodmares once belonging to the late William Woodward Jr. sold for $924,100 in two and one-half hours of spirited bidding.

The sale represented more than a half million dollar porfit for Miss Mildred W. Woolwine of White Oaks farm, Lexington, and her associates Edward Potter of Nashville and Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Middendorf of Boston, who three weeks ago yesterday purchased the lot by sealed bid for $410,000 from the executors of Woodward's estate.

The broodmares brought $695,500 to average $30,239. The yearlings fetched $228,600 to average $14,287. The latter was helped by a total of $121,000 paid for three colts and a filly by Nasrullah.

The new record price topped the $105,000 paid a year ago last fall for Misaka, consigned to the Keeneland auction by the AGA Khan.

Finney, an executive with Fasig-Tipton Co., which conducts thoroubred horse auctions at Saratoga, N. Y., opened the bidding on Segula at $100,000. He and Michels alternated with $5,000 raises until the latter dropped out at $125,000. All told, only seven bids were offered.

Segula, by Johnstown - imported Sekhmet, is in foal to Nasrullah, the sire of Nashua. Among her other offspring is the stakes winner Sabette.

Segula will stay in the United States although there was no immediate announcements of the farm to which she would go.

The Woodward sale in mid-December amounted to $1,866,200 — about twice the total for today's dispersal—and included a $1,251,200 bid for Nashua by Leslie Combs II of Lexington and associates.

Wildcat Quintet Handed 92 To 63 Loss By Baptist

MARSHALL, Tex., Jan. 6 (AP) — East Texas Baptist jumped ahead in the first two minutes tonight and went on to score a 92-63 basketball victory over Louisiana College.

Harles Cone led the ETBC attack with 20 points, while three teammates hit for more than 10 in the well-balanced offense.

Frank Mancil and Joe Limbaugh led the losers with 14 points each.

ETBC led 42-34 at halftime and continued to build up its lead by hitting on 55 per cent of its field goal attempts in the second half.

Argentine, Down Once, Gets Draw In Savage Bout

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—Eduardo Lausse, of Argentina dropped for an automatic eight-count in the seventh round, closed with a rush to gain a draw with Milo Savage, the 5 to 1 underdog from Salt Lake City, tonight in a 10-round battle at Madison Square Garden.

Lausse weighed 159¾, Savage 159.

The handsome Argentine, shooting for his 32nd straight victory since 1952, was floored by a long "sneak" right by Savage midway in the seventh. Although he got up almost immediately he had to take the automatic eight count from referee Barney Felix under New York rules.

Lausse slammed Savage from corner to corner as the Salt Lake veteran went into his familiar shell defense in the final round. Still, Savage was strong enough to throw two heavy punches in the closing seconds.

The official vote was split all the way. Referee Felix called it 5-4-1 for Savage and judge Frank Forges scored it 6-3-1 for Lausse. Judge Artie Aidala voted 5-5 with six points for each. The AP card also was 5-5. A solid delegation of the customers thought Savage had won it. The press at ringside was about evenly split with six for each man and two voting a draw.

A crowd estimated at 3,000 paid about $7,500 to see the last garden bout until Feb. 3. An ice show will occupy the arena in the interval. Until Jim Norris, International Boxing Club president, announced he was going to back up Julius Helfand, commission chairman, against the manager's guild, it looked as though this would be the last fight for many months in the garden. Now the future looks brighter with plans for resuming Feb. 3.

Helfand, a ringside spectator, leaped to his feet and applauded the fighters as the draw decision was announced. He was beaming with pleasure after his voctory over the guild.

Baltimore Shift Spoiled For Boxing; Norris Stays

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—The boxing "war" broke out on two fronts today as promoter Jim Norris of the powerful International Boxing Club announced he would continue to promote fights in New York despite a possible managers' boycott and Gov. McKeldin of Maryland vetoed the shift of Monday night television fights from here to Baltimore.

Norris, who promotes the Wednesday and Friday night radio and television fight for a coast to coast audience, said he had met "at length" today with Julius Helfand, chairman of the state athletic commission, and "assured him we would continue to present boxing shows in New York.

"Further," he said, "I emphasized that the I.B.C. will cooperate with him 100 per cent and will continue to comply with the laws of this state and the regulations of the commission."

Then Norris announced he had signed middleweight Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, and Gil Turner of Philadelphia, for a bout in Syracuse, N. Y., on Jan. 20. That is four days after the deadline Helfand set for members of the Boxing Guild of New York to sever their connections with the guild or face loss of their licenses.

Marv Jenson, manager of Fullmer, is not a member of any guild. Katz is a member of the Keystone (Pa.) State Managers Guild, which is affiliated with the International Boxing Guild, parent organization of the many guilds across the nation.

After McKeldin's aides met in Baltimore today with the three members of the commission, the commission revoked its action in granting permission for the shift of the Monday night TV fights from New York to Baltimore starting Jan. 23.

The London Sporting Club, headed by Tex Sullivan and Willie Gilzenberg, received an okay from the Maryland commission to co-promote in Baltimore with Benny Trotta and Angelo Munafo of Baltimore.

Sullivan and Gilzenberg had decided to shift from the ancient St. Nicholas Arena in New York to Baltimore because, they said, they couldn't get managers to sign for fights in New York after the Jan. 16 deadline.

Gilzenberg said "We haven't any comment" when asked about Gov. McKeldin's action.

"We hope the situation will ease itself in New York so that managers will sign for fights in our club in New York," Gilzenberg added. "We have contracts on file now with the New York commission for a Jan. 16 bout. The commission has taken no action as yet.

The Jan. 16 bout he referred to is a middleweight 10-rounder between Tony Johnson of New York and Johnny Sullivan of England. Helfand has not approved the match as yet.

Charlie Johnston, president of the International Boxing Guild of which the local guild is an affiliate, said he would have "no comment until I meet with my board of governors, probably early next week."

The New York guild last night met and voted unanimously not to dissolve its membership as ordered by Helfand. The guild said it had the full support of the 16 other guild affiliates.

"We've done nothing wrong," Johnston said after that meeting. "We're ready to fight in New York right now. But if he (Helfand) takes our licenses away, we have to go out of town. We'll go anywhere to get fights. None of us is resigning."

It turned out that Williams was ineligible and Fort Smith had to forfeit the game, which it won 39-36, to Van Buren.

Beatrice Hudgins swished the nets for 32 points to lead the Winnsboro girls to victory, while Linda Lord paced Baskin with 19.

Indians Drop Big Lead, Game, First Gulf League Start

By TED HECKATHORN

The Northeast State Indians started off like a house afire last night against the Northwestern State quintet, but were soon smoldered out by the Demons, who took the halftime lead, the game, and the initial Gulf States Conference tilt, 74-69.

The Tribe jumped into a 10-1 and 12-3 lead as the capacity crowd's screams of approval nearly tore the roof off the Ouachita gymnasium, but little Northwestern guards Dick Brown and freshman Jimmie Leach took matters into their hands and closed the gap to 32-30 late in the half before tying and going ahead, 36-34, at intermission.

The Indians fought hard under the enemy hoop, holding six-foot-ten Lavelle Langston and sharp-shooting veteran George McConathy to a total of 18 points between them, but persisted in letting Brown and Leach pepper away for two-pointers from outside.

Lloyd Crocker not only led Northeast in scoring, with 14 points, but was the outstanding rebounder throughout. Stan Shaneyfelt had 13 points for second Northeast high score; and Brown and Leach paced the winners with 24 and 18 apiece, including seven swishers each.

The game was nip-and-tuck in the final half until the dying moments, when the Demons forged into a seven-point lead after the Indians had gone ahead, 57-54, with three minutes to play.

Ussery got his first winner of the day on the two-year - old Maitre De, $10.80, in the third. Hartack scored with Latitude, $4.60, in the second, and his All In One, $9.80, placed first through the disqualification of Flight Admiral in the fourth.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6 (AP) — Lloyd Mangrum of the old guard of golf signalled a challenge to win the rich Los Angeles open for the fourth time today when he whacked out a 5-under-par 66 to lead the way through the first round of play in the $30,000 winter classic.

Mangrum, now 41 and returning to major contention after a 9-month layoff, set the pace with five birdies for a score of 34-32—66 for the par 36-35—71 that faced the field of 155 at the Rancho Municipal Golf Course.

Mangrum, still bothered by rib injuries that put him on the sidelines last spring, won the Los Angeles open in 1949-51-53, and he played today like the dashing Mangrum of those years.

Styled now as the squire of Apple Valley, Calif., where he makes his home, the former national open champion held a bare one stroke lead over his nearest contenders.

They were Lionel Hebert of Erie, Penn., with 34-33; Long John Barnum, Belmont, Mich., 34-33, and Cecil Harris, a little known, 42-year-old club professional from nearby Whittier, 35-32.

The leaders:

Lloyd Mangrum, Apple Valley, Calif., 34-32-66.
Lionel Hebert, Erie, Pa., 34-33-67.

Reigel Ramrods McNeese 'Pokes In 71 To 68 Win

HAMMOND, La., Jan. 6 (AP) — Forward Bill Reigel sank 39 points tonight in leading McNeese State to a 71-68 triumph over Southeastern Louisiana and boosting his scoring total to 507 points for the season.

McNeese had to overcome an 11-point deficit in the last half to win. Reigel and Frank Glenn sparked the surge.

Southeastern had gone ahead after a nip and tuck first half as Tom Burke and Benny Kimble hit well after the intermission. Burke wound up with 23 points and Kimble with 21.

It was the first Gulf States Conference game of the season for McNeese.

Tatum Talks To Tar Heel Bosses On Coaching Job

CHAPEL HILL, N.C., Jan. 6 (AP) —Maryland's big Jim Tatum arrived on the campus of the University of North Carolina today and immediately touched off a series of conferences that seemingly will install him as head football coach at his alma mater.

Formal announcement might be held off until tomorrow, however. Tatum said he had to be back in College Park, Md., tomorrow morning.

Tatum and various university officials waded through a maze of closed talks that wore on throughout the day.

The laborious process of going through university channels began this morning in nearby Raleigh where Tatum and C. P. (Chuck) Erickson, North Carolina athletic director, talked briefly with newsmen before preceeding to Chapel Hill.

At that time Tatum said he hoped "to settle once and for all" the almost annual report that he was bound for North Carolina where he was a tackle and, for one year, 1942, served as head coach.

Tatum, Erickson, Dean A. W. Hobbs, faculty chairman of athletics and other members of the athletic council conferred here at a luncheon session.

The coaches committee of the athletic council and Tatum talked for two hours after which Tatum was excused and the committee deliberated in private.

Hobbs and Erickson then went to the home of Chancellor Robert B. House, presumably to tell him of the committee's recommendations.

Tatum was expected to be brought in for a talk with Hobbs later. Further consideration of the recommendations by Dr. J. Harris Purks, acting president of the University and the executive committee of the board of trustees was a possibility.

Tatum has been head coach and athletic director at the University of Maryland for nine years during which he produced five bowl teams. His 1955 team posted a 10-0 record and ranked third in the nation. It lost to Oklahoma in the Miami, Fla., Orange Bowl game 20-6 last Monday.

It was believed that detailing of Tatum's powers and the possibility of granting him a reasonably free hand in his operations, rather than purely financial considerations, were the principal points of discussion between the 42-year-old McColl, S. C., native and university officials.

North Carolina finished its sixth successive losing season last month, the last three under George Braclay, a teammate of Tatum's on the 1934 North Carolina team. Barcklay's contract was not renewed after his 1955 team won three and lost seven.

Both Maryland and North Carolina are members of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Ban Mud Cleats For High School Football Games

CHICAGO, Jan. 6—UP—The mud cleat was banned from high school football Friday.

The action, to start with the 1956 season, was taken by the football committee of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations.

The committee also noted that football has become so deceptive that even the referee sometimes is fooled, and blows the whistle when the ball still is in play.

It said other game officials will be instructed to help out the referee by blowing their whistle whenever the referee is not in a position to determine a dead ball.

The committee identified mud cleats under its ban as any longer than the prescribed maximum of 7-8 inch.

It also reported that high school coaches and officials overwhelmingly favor retention of present rules which make a punt a dead ball when it touches in the end zone and which permit two forward passes behind the line of scrimmage.

Under the present rule, designed to prevent injuries, the dead punt in the end zone goes for a touchback, putting the ball in play on the 20-yard line of the receiver.

The second forward pass may come into play if an intended lateral moves a slight distance forward.

Terrapins' Giese Takes Gamecock Coaching Position

COLUMBIA, S.C., Jan. 6 (AP)—Warren Giese, chief assistant of Maryland's Jim Taum, has signed a three-year contract as head football coach at the University of South Carolina.

The announcement, made by President Donald Russell, also said Rex Enright will retire as head of the coaching staff and devote his full time as athletic director.

Giese's contract calls for a reported $12,000 a year. He will be permitted to choose two new assistant coaches to join the present staff, which will be retained.

Enright thus ends one of the nation's longest tenures as head coach at a major college. He took a job here in 1938.

Enright, a Notre Dame graduate, said in a statement: "with the increased temp and exacting duties required by the two jobs (athletic director and head football coach), I deemed it impossible to handle both positions adequately. Therefore, I have decided to give up the football coaching duties and devote my full time to the athletic directorship."

Record $126,000 Tag Put On Mare, Segula, At Auction

LEXINGTON, Ky., Jan. 6 (AP)—Segula, mother of Nashua and carrying a full brother or sister to the near - millionaire star of thoroughbred racing, sold for a fabulous $126,000, a record price for a mare at an American auction.

Humphrey Finney, an agent who reportedly acted for a London shipping magnate, Stavros Niarchos, bought the 14-year - old dark bay mare after outbidding Walter Michels of Bucyrus, Ohio.

All told, 16 yeralings and 23 broodmares once belonging to the late William Woodward Jr. sold for $924,100 in two and one-half hours of spirited bidding.

The sale represented more than a half million dollar porfit for Miss Mildred W. Woolwine of White Oaks farm, Lexington, and her associates Edward Potter of Nashville and Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Middendorf of Boston, who three weeks ago yesterday purchased the lot by sealed bid for $410,000 from the executors of Woodward's estate.

The broodmares brought $695,500 to average $30,239. The yearlings fetched $228,600 to average $14,287. The latter was helped by a total of $121,000 paid for three colts and a filly by Nasrullah.

The new record price topped the $105,000 paid a year ago last fall for Misaka, consigned to the Keeneland auction by the AGA Khan.

Finney, an executive with Fasig-Tipton Co., which conducts thoroubred horse auctions at Saratoga, N. Y., opened the bidding on Segula at $100,000. He and Michels alternated with $5,000 raises until the latter dropped out at $125,000. All told, only seven bids were offered.

Segula, by Johnstown - imported Sekhmet, is in foal to Nasrullah, the sire of Nashua. Among her other offspring is the stakes winner Sabette.

Segula will stay in the United States although there was no immediate announcements of the farm to which she would go.

The Woodward sale in mid-December amounted to $1,866,200 — about twice the total for today's dispersal—and included a $1,251,200 bid for Nashua by Leslie Combs II of Lexington and associates.

Wildcat Quintet Handed 92 To 63 Loss By Baptist

MARSHALL, Tex., Jan. 6 (AP) — East Texas Baptist jumped ahead in the first two minutes tonight and went on to score a 92-63 basketball victory over Louisiana College.

Harles Cone led the ETBC attack with 20 points, while three teammates hit for more than 10 in the well-balanced offense.

Frank Mancil and Joe Limbaugh led the losers with 14 points each.

ETBC led 42-34 at halftime and continued to build up its lead by hitting on 55 per cent of its field goal attempts in the second half.

Argentine, Down Once, Gets Draw In Savage Bout

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—Eduardo Lausse, of Argentina dropped for an automatic eight-count in the seventh round, closed with a rush to gain a draw with Milo Savage, the 5 to 1 underdog from Salt Lake City, tonight in a 10-round battle at Madison Square Garden.

Lausse weighed 159¾, Savage 159.

The handsome Argentine, shooting for his 32nd straight victory since 1952, was floored by a long "sneak" right by Savage midway in the seventh. Although he got up almost immediately he had to take the automatic eight count from referee Barney Felix under New York rules.

Lausse slammed Savage from corner to corner as the Salt Lake veteran went into his familiar shell defense in the final round. Still, Savage was strong enough to throw two heavy punches in the closing seconds.

The official vote was split all the way. Referee Felix called it 5-4-1 for Savage and judge Frank Forges scored it 6-3-1 for Lausse. Judge Artie Aidala voted 5-5 with six points for each. The AP card also was 5-5. A solid delegation of the customers thought Savage had won it. The press at ringside was about evenly split with six for each man and two voting a draw.

A crowd estimated at 3,000 paid about $7,500 to see the last garden bout until Feb. 3. An ice show will occupy the arena in the interval. Until Jim Norris, International Boxing Club president, announced he was going to back up Julius Helfand, commission chairman, against the manager's guild, it looked as though this would be the last fight for many months in the garden. Now the future looks brighter with plans for resuming Feb. 3.

Helfand, a ringside spectator, leaped to his feet and applauded the fighters as the draw decision was announced. He was beaming with pleasure after his voctory over the guild.

Baltimore Shift Spoiled For Boxing; Norris Stays

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—The boxing "war" broke out on two fronts today as promoter Jim Norris of the powerful International Boxing Club announced he would continue to promote fights in New York despite a possible managers' boycott and Gov. McKeldin of Maryland vetoed the shift of Monday night television fights from here to Baltimore.

Norris, who promotes the Wednesday and Friday night radio and television fight for a coast to coast audience, said he had met "at length" today with Julius Helfand, chairman of the state athletic commission, and "assured him we would continue to present boxing shows in New York.

"Further," he said, "I emphasized that the I.B.C. will cooperate with him 100 per cent and will continue to comply with the laws of this state and the regulations of the commission."

Then Norris announced he had signed middleweight Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, and Gil Turner of Philadelphia, for a bout in Syracuse, N. Y., on Jan. 20. That is four days after the deadline Helfand set for members of the Boxing Guild of New York to sever their connections with the guild or face loss of their licenses.

Marv Jenson, manager of Fullmer, is not a member of any guild. Katz is a member of the Keystone (Pa.) State Managers Guild, which is affiliated with the International Boxing Guild, parent organization of the many guilds across the nation.

After McKeldin's aides met in Baltimore today with the three members of the commission, the commission revoked its action in granting permission for the shift of the Monday night TV fights from New York to Baltimore starting Jan. 23.

The London Sporting Club, headed by Tex Sullivan and Willie Gilzenberg, received an okay from the Maryland commission to copromote in Baltimore with Benny Trotta and Angelo Munafo of Baltimore.

Sullivan and Gilzenberg had decided to shift from the ancient St. Nicholas Arena in New York to Baltimore because, they said, they couldn't get managers to sign for fights in New York after the Jan. 16 deadline.

Gilzenberg said "We haven't any comment" when asked about Gov. McKeldin's action.

"We hope the situation will ease itself in New York so that managers will sign for fights in our club in New York," Gilzenberg added. "We have contracts on file now with the New York commission for a Jan. 16 bout. The commission has taken no action as yet.

The Jan. 16 bout he referred to is a middleweight 10-rounder between Tony Johnson of New York and Johnny Sullivan of England. Helfand has not approved the match as yet.

Charlie Johnston, president of the International Boxing Guild of which the local guild is an affiliate, said he would have "no comment until I meet with my board of governors, probably early next week."

The New York guild last night met and voted unanimously not to dissolve its membership as ordered by Helfand. The guild said it had the full support of the 16 other guild affiliates.

"We've done nothing wrong," Johnston said after that meeting. "We're ready to fight in New York right now. But if he (Helfand) takes our licenses away, we have to go out of town. We'll go anywhere to get fights. None of us is resigning."

Only half a dozen major college basketball teams, including the Nation's No. 1 outfit—the San Francisco Dons—could boast an unbeaten record as the sport headed into the first big weekend after the holidays.

San Francisco, with a 10-0 seasonal record and winner of the New York Holiday Festival Tournament without difficulty, is rolling along on a string of 36 consecutive victories.

The Dons are only three games shy of the major college record of 39 straight, set by Long Island University from 1935-37, and equalled by Seton Hall in 1939-41. The N.-C.A.A. service bureau's official records eliminated alumni, service team and junior college games from the major college victory strings.

North Carolina State, ranked No. 2 in this week's Associated Press poll, has an 11-0 record, while Dayton, No. 3, is rolling along on a 10-0 seasonal mark.

Other major clubs unbeaten are St. Francis of Brooklyn, 8-0, and Temple and Stanford, both 7-0.

The winningest team this season, with 12-0, is Vincennes (Ind.) University, while another of the small college group is Hofstra (N. Y.) with 11-0.

The longest winning streak in college basketball is the small college mark of 55 in a row, stacked up between 1921-26 by Peru (Neb.) State. Pittsburg (Kans.) State is next with 45 straight from 1930-32.

Other small colleges who remain unbeaten, all with 5-0 records this season, include Tennessee Wesleyan, Defiance (Ohio), Assumption (Mass.), Plattsburgh (N. Y.), and Philadelphia Textile. Ohio Norther, Stevens (N. J.) Tech and Maryland State are 4-0.

Two major clubs were added to the beaten list in Thursday night games—Memphis State and Xavier of Ohio. Spring Hill (Ala.) knocked off Memphis State, now 10-1 in the Mobile Senior Bowl finals 69-65, and Western Kentucky edged Xavier 73-72 to leave the Ohioans at 7-1.

San Francisco went after No. 37 last night against Pepperdine. A victory would tie the Dons with the Texas Longhorn teams which won 37 in a row from 1913-17.

Stanford put its unbeaten record on the line in a Friday and Saturday two-game Pacific Coast Conference series against Washington. North Carolina State has tough Duke there tonight, while Dayton takes on Iona in New York, and Temple plays at Scranton, Pa. St. Francis is idele until its date with City College of New York Jan. 10.

Louisville Club Franchise Sold To Cuban Group

BOSTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Louisville franchise of the American Association today was sold by the Boston Red Sox to a group of Havana, Cuba, businessmen who will complete a full working agreement with the Washington Nationals tomorrow.

The Louisville franchise will remain in the Kentucky city.

Previously there had been considerable speculation as to the locale of the club under new ownership.

The sale is subject to approval by the directors of the American Association.

Edward F. Wheeler of Havana negotiated the purchase for the Cuban combine with Sox general manager Joe Cronin.

The Cuban group also includes Victor G. Menocal, a sugar broker and member of a prominent Havana family, Louis G. Mendoza, Gonzalo Vega and other unidentified businessmen with a great interest in baseball.

The Sox announcement said that the working agreement with Washington will be completed tomorrow and that Wheeler then will attend the American Association meeting in Chicago Sunday.

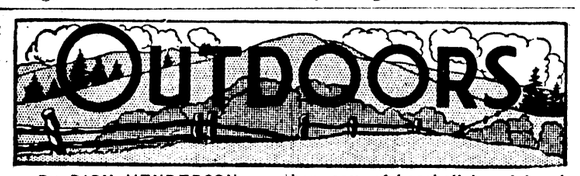

Wheeler, the superintendent of Western Union in Havana and a native of Nashua, N. H., left immediately for New York after concluding his talks with Cronin. He is due in Washington tomorrow.

Cronin was not available for comment. Previously it had been thought the announcement, if any, would come out of Louisville.

The Red Sox decided to sell the Louisville franchise after buying San Francisco of the Pacific Coast League recently.

For some time it had been known that Washington wanted to make connections with Louisville under new ownership though the Nationals did not want to buy the club themselves. President Calvin Griffith attended meetings here earlier this week with Cronin and a citizen's committee from Louisville investigating progress of the sale.

North Carolina State expects Ronnie Shavlik, a senior from Denver, to lead the team in basketball scoring again this season. He made 707 points last season for a 22.1 average.

The hunter who encounters a grizzly bear, on purpose or otherwise, may hold thereafter a firm conviction: one grizzly can make a big chunk of country seem crowded.

Thus it is difficult to realize that the United States is only a little way from the silence that would mean that Big Brother has gone away.

As a matter of fact, it is so hard to understand that of the four states which still have grizzly populations, only Idaho has decreed no open season.

Yet the grizzly — Big Brother to the Indian who recognized him as the master hunter, Old Ephraim to white hunters — is nearing the twilight of the million - year-long day in which he ranged from Arctic circle to the Gulf, and coast to coast. His career reached from the mastodons to man, and he did not fear either, nor anything in between.

Big Brother won his North American heavyweight free - style big game championship from such as the sabre tooth tiger and the cave bear, in the Pleistocene period. In those days, according to a specimen found in California's Rancho La Brea tar pits, he might weigh a ton and stand 12 feet tall.

And right now, his survivors are clearly the same bear. A couple of feet shorter, a few hundred pounds lighter, but the difference wouldn't be discernible to a man meeting one of those survivors on a narrow trail somewhere on Mount McDonald.

Harold McCracken, grizzly historian who summed up Big Brother's life and times last year in a book called "The Beast That Walks Like a Man," estimates that there are fewer than 600 wild grizzly bears in the U. S., outside of Yellowstone and Glacier National Parks.

That is comparable to the number, say, of baseball hopefuls who report to the major league training camps in the spring. The two big parks in the heart of the remaining grizzly range may have 25 more grizzlies.

Several of Big Brother's 86 classified families already are long gone. The California grizzly — whose 1,400 pounds made him generally bigger than the surviving Kodiak grizzly — disappeared for practical purposes some 50 years ago. The last individual was killed in Tulare county in 1922.

The Teton grizzly and the plains grizzly, another giant, are in imminent danger, and the true plains grizzly may be gone. In the white man's time there has been scarcely more than relics to attest Big Brother's one - time rule on the eastern coast, in Maryland and Florida, for instance. But New York reported them in the white man's time.

But the disappearance has been progressive as the bears drew into the northwest wilderness. Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma do not record the passing of their buffalo - killing plains bear. The last kill in the Dakotas was noted in 1897, in Texas seven years earlier. New Mexico killed a grizzly in 1927, Arizona its last of record in Greenlee county in 1935. In Utah, Boy Scouts have raised a monument in Cache county, where the state's last grizzly was slain by a hunter Aug. 22, 1923. Oregon noted a kill as late as 1931, but as far as Nevada records are concerned, the grizzly passed unnoticed. A U. S. fish and wildlife service census two years ago showed none left in Washington, although a hunter still occasionally reports one killed.

Of the four states with important populations, Montana has more than 700 of the beasts. Wyoming, where the grizzly has continued to be fair game has about 50 outside Yellowstone, with 150 more inside the park.

South 6-Point Favorite In Senior Bowl

50 College Grid Stars Make Pro Debut At Mobile

By STAN ATKINS

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 6 —Fifty of the leading collegiate football players in the nation turn professional tomorrow in the seventh annual Senior Bowl game.

The South is favored by a touchdown. Sideline observers, including about 30 pro scouts and coaches, rate the Rebels a slight edge in material over the heavier Northerners.

The South squad lists 11 members of the All - America squad. The North team has three.

Paul Brown of the pro champion Cleveland Browns is coaching the Southerners and Buddy Parker of the Detroit Lions is directing the Yankees.

The forecast was for partly cloudy and mild weather with temperatures in the low 70s. A near capacity crowd of 36,000 is predicted for Ladd Stadium.

The South hopes hinge mainly on the passing of quarterback Bob Hardy of Kentucky, who completed 58 of 106 tosses for 77 yards during the past season. He was rated the most valuable player in the Blue-Gray game at Montgomery.

Opposing Hardy in the North T-quarterback post are two Big Ten signal callers who had total gaines of more than 1,000 yards during the season.

They are Iowa's Jerry Reichow, most valuable player in the East-West game at San Francisco, and Jim Haluska of Wisconsin, the nation's leading passer with 71 completions of 132 attempted for 1,036 yards.

Both the North and South chunkers have speedy and agile ends as targets.

Offensive flankmen for the South are All-American Howard Schnellenberger of Kentucky and Tommy Harkins of Vanderbilt's Gator Bowl champions.

The North boasts Harold Burnine of Missouri, leading pass catcher in the nation with 44 receptions for 594 yards; Jim Carmichael of California; and Jim Freeman of Iowa.

Fob James, Auburn back, has the best rushing mark of all. He was the Southeastern Conference's leading ball carrier with 879 yards.

Bob Pellegrini, Maryland's 225-pound All-America center, will pivot the South's defensive platoon as the middle guard.

The left side of Brown's South offensive forewall claims such stalwarts as Schnellenberger, tackle Frank D'Agostino of Auburn and guard Bo Bolinger of Oklahoma. Schnellenberger and D'Agostino were first team All-Americans. Bolinger, a leading member of the Sooner's tremendous line, made the second All-America team.

Another All-American, guard Jim Brown of U.C.L.A., was assigned to linebacking duties for Parker's Northerners.

The game will be played under pro rules, including unlimited substitution. A sudden death playoff, patterned after pro championship rules, also is planned should the two end the regular playing time with the score tied.

The teams stand all even at 3-3 in the previous six Senior Bowl games.

Members of the winning team received $500 each, the losers get $400. The game will be broadcast over the mutual network. It will not be televised.

Probable offensive lineup:

WAKE FOREST, N. C., Jan. 6 (AP)—Wake Forest's athletic council was set to consider further today the selection of a new head football coach. It was considered unlikely that a decision will be reached soon.

A spokesman said the meeting would be devoted mainly to adopting a policy "as to what we are going to do."

The spokesman said upwards of 70 persons have either applied for or are being considered for the job which became vacant on the resignation of coach Tom Rogers.

U. S. Ski Girls Take Three Ist At Grindelwald

GRINDELWALD, Switzerland, Jan. 6 (AP)—America's women skiers improved on their first pre-Olympic performance today when they captured three of the first 20 places in the slalom event in the Grindelwald Women's International Tournament today.

But the European downhill racers and Russia's sturdy cross country skiers continued to dominate this first major tryout for the winter Olympic games starting later this month.

Poland's Marla Kowalska won the slalom by the slim margin of on tenth of a second over Switzerland's Renee Colliard, making two runs down the icy 2,000 meter course in two minutes, 3.1 seconds. America's double Olympic champion of 1952, Andrea Mead Lawrence of Parshall, Colo., took third place, only three tenths of a second behind the winner.

Mrs. Lawrence's placing was much better than in yesterday's giant slalom, where she tied for 20th place, five seconds behind Germany's Eva Lanig.

Mrs. Lawrence, a slim, girlish-looking mother of three children, who will defend both women's slalom titiels in the winter games at Cortina, Italy, starting Jan. 26, made the day's third-best time on her second trip down the dangerous course. Andrea made the second run in 52.9 seconds, a performance beaten only by Swiss veteran Madeleine Berthod and by Miss Colliard on their second runs.

One Russian skier was painfully injured and another lost her chance for a good placing in two of the many spills that marred the race down the tricky, curving course. Two American girls also took tumbles.

The Russians, who swept the first six places in the 10-kilometer cross country race Wednesday, did it again today when their two three-girl teams finished first and second in the 15-kilometer relay race. Czechoslovakia was a poor third among the 12 teams entered. The United States did not have an entry.

Miss Kowalska was timed in 68.6 seconds and 54.5 seconds for her two trips down the course. Mrs. Lawrence's times were 69.5 and 53.9—the second beaten only by Miss Berthod's 52.2 and Miss Colliard's 53.7. Miss Berthod placed fourth with a 2:03.5 total.

Katy Rodolph of Reno, who led all the Americans in the giant slalom, took eleventh place today with 2:10.3 and Betty Snite of Norwich, Vt., was 20th in 2:15.6. Miss Lanig, the giant slalom winner, was just ahead of her in 2:15.5.

Falls left the other two Americans far down the list of finishers. Gladys Werner, Steamboat Springs, Colo., fell twice today on her last run and wound up in 42nd place with 3:05.8 and Mrs. Dorothy Surgenor, Everett, Wash., took a tumble on her first run and placed 43rd with 3:19.4.

The most serious accident of the day put Russia's Olga Lycenko out of the race. She ran a broken wooden flag marker through her thigh.

Eugenie Sidorva, a blonde Russian girl, made the first run in 67.7 too lead the entire field, but she fell on the second trial and wound up in 32nd place with a total time of 2:35.2. The only other Russian to complete both runs was Alla Vasileva, who fell on the first run. She was 38th with 2:49.3.

It was a different story in the cross country relay. Lubov Kosyreva, beaten by her teammate Rosa Erochina in the 10-kilometer race, made the best time for a five-kilometer lap, 19:31 and led the Russian "A" team to victory in 59 minutes, two seconds. The "B" team was second in 1:00:47. No one on the third-place Czech team could match the slowest time among the six Russian girls.

FROZEN BAIT WORKS

DANA POINT, Calif. (AP) — The bait worked just fine—even though it was six centuries old. Dr. Richard T. Street displayed four fish to prove it. The bait? A jar full of grasshoppers found embedded in the ice of a glacier in Montana. They were sent to Dr. Street by the American Association for the Advancement of Science. They dug them out of the glacier and say the bugs must have been caught in the ice when trapped in a downdraft. Dr. Street, an ardent fisherman, tried them as bait more or less as a joke. His success proves fish don't know the difference between fresh bait and stale.

Graham All-Pro 6th Time

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—Automatic Otto Graham, quarterback sparkplug of the World Championship Cleveland Browns, was named today on the Associated Press All-Pro team for the sixth time in his brilliant career.

Graham, with 28 votes of the 40 cast in the annual voting, and Alan Ameche, smashing fullback of the Baltimore Colts, led in the balloting on the professional "dream team." Ameche, who led in the National Football League in his freshman year with 961 yards rushing, was the only rookie on the 22-man, two platoon offensive and defensive squad.

Cleveland, which defeated the Los Angeles Rams for the championship Dec. 26, placed three men on the squad, as did the Rams.

In addition to Graham, the former Northwestern star who came out of retirement last season, the Browns placed tackle Lou Groza and center Frank Gatski on the offensive eleven.

The Rams had guard Duane Putnam on the offensive squad, while the west coast team provided end Andy Robustelli and halfback Will Sherman on the defensive team.

The 40 ballots were cast by Associated Press member paper football writers and AP sports staff men.

Ameche, who starred at the University of Wisconsin, received 26 ballots for fullback.

The Chicago Bears, who lost out in the Western Conference race to Los Angeles by half a game, placed four players on the squad, three on offense and one defender—Bill George, middle guard. The others were end Harlon Hill, tackle Bill Wightkin, and guard Stan Jones.

Completing the offensive were end Pete Pihos, Philadelphia Eagles; halfback Ollie Matson, Chicago Cardinals; and halfback Frank Gifford, New York Giants.

Others on the defensive platoon are end Gene Brito, Washington Redskins; tackle Art Donovan, Baltimore; tackle Bob Toneff, San Fancisco 49ers; linebackers Roger Zatkoff, Green Bay Pakers, and Joe Schmidt, Detroit Lions; halfback Bobby Dillon, Packers; and safeties, Jack Christiansen, Lions, and Emlen Tunnell, Giants.

Graham and seven others also were on the 1954 All-Pro team — Groza, pihos, Matson, Donovan, Schmidt, Dillon and Christiansen.

Graham, who retired again after the Browns won the world title last month, was the league's passing leader for the second time in three years. He tossed 195 aeriels, completing 98 for 1,721 yards and 15 touchdowns.

SAME SCHEDULE

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Syracuse will play the same eight football rivals next season. They are Maryland, Pitt and Boston U. on the road and Penn State, Army, West Virginia, Holy Cross and Colgate at home.

Tech Quint Hosts S. L. I. In League Contest Tonight

RUSTON, La., Jan. 6 (Special)—It is back to Gulf States Conference action for the Louisiana Tech basketballers who take on Southwestern Louisiana Institute here Saturday night. Tip-off time is 8 p.m. at Tech's Memorial Gymnasium.

The important conference game will bring the two quintets together for the first time this season and both team are anxious to win this one to keep in the running for the Gulf States title.

Defending co-champions of the G.S.C., the Techmen now have a 1-0 conference record as the result of a 90-79 win over Southeastern Louisiana here lsst month. Coach Cecil Crowley and his Tech Canines know there is plenty of tough competition ahead and must make the most of every game if they expect to repeat as the G.S..C champs.

On the other hand, Southwestern's cagers have dropped their only loop battle to date, a 67-76 tilt to Louisiana College, and they will have an opportunity to get back to the .500 mark and a 1-1 record with a win over Tech.

The Techmen, who have now won all their home games and lost all the road contests, will welcome a return to the familiar Memorial Gymnasium and the chance to stop a three-game losing streak. Two setbacks last week in the Louisiana Invitational Tournament in Shreveport (56-60 to Washington State and 62-69 to North Texas State) and a close 71-79 overtime loss to Arkansas Tech up at Russellville, Ark., Tuesday night give the Bulldogs a 5-4 standing for the season.

There is a possibility that coach Crowley will have to rework his starting team for the first time this season because of an injury that forward Jap Gullatt suffered Tuesday night in the Arkansas Tech bout. The Simsboro junior has a battered knee that may sideline him for a time.

If Gullatt is unable to go, the Tech coach will likely send in Joe White, a Calhoun sophomore who has done some outstanding play in relief roles this season. Early this week White received an eye injury but his recovery has been rapid.

Other starters for the Tech will be L. J. Fontenot at forward, Jim Knotts and Billy Wiggins at guards, and Raymond Germany at center. Wiggins still holds the Bulldog scoring record with an average of 22.8 points in eight tilts. Germany has averaged 14 and Knotts 11.3 per contest.

Stotz Restrained From Organizing Rival Little Loop

LEWISBURG, Pa., Jan. 6 (AP)—A federal judge today issued a temporary injunction restraining Carl E. Stotz, former Little League baseball commissioner, from setting up a rival boys' baseball organization.

Judge Frederick V. Follmer ruled that Stotz must not use any Little League trade marks or other features of the Little League, Inc., baseball organization pending outcome of court litigation in a suit brought by Stotz against Little League.

The injunction to curb Stotz' announced plans to set up a rival organization was sought by Little League shortly after Stotz filed a $300,000 breach of contract suit alleging that a by-law change had reduced him to a "mere employe."

Judge Follmer's order would delay Stotz' plan "pending final determination of this action or until further order of the court."

Stotz has 30 days to appeal to the U. S. circuit court against the injunction. His attorney, Daniel F. Knittle, declined to say whether Stotz would appeal.

"We have no statement to make at this time," Knittle asserted.

Stotz maintained that the by-law change took away his right to set up rules and regulations and to decide on the granting of franchises.

Judge Follmer based his decision on testimony and oral argument heard earlier this week on the temporary injunction suit brought by Little League.

The league contends it has not violated its contract with Stotz. Stotz was dismissed from his post shortly after he filed his law suit.

Stotz founded Little League baseball for boys before World War II. In 1949 he obtained the financial backing of the U. S. Rubber Co. It was shortly after that support was obtained that the league was incorporated.

The court did not indicate when the Stotz suit would be tried.

The January term of the district court convenes at Lewisburg Jan. 16, but attorneys for both sides indicated they could not be ready by then.

N. C. A. A. Offers Curb On College 'Booster Clubs'

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6 —UP—The 1955 national and regional television program of the NCAA was "most successful," the 50th annual convention will be told, but the recruiting committee asks a general "tightening up" on recruiting activities.

In a report to be read to the members, the 1955 TV committee said the 1955 program had been generally approved by the schools and the public and that it had helped colleges in retaining their attendance at athletic contests.

The committee proposed that the 1956 committee should be free to devise the best program possible; and that it should keep in mind developments taking place in subscription television.

On the recruiting, the resolutions suggest the tightening up on offers of aid to athletes; revise the transportation rule so that the fares of friends and relatives could not be paid to a university; restrict excessive entertainment; and limit the aid to be given to a student to get the student to a certain school to one person — not an organization.

There is some belief that the latter item would just about end the usefulness of so-called "booster" clubs. The proposed resolution reads, in full:

"No member institution shall permit an outside organization or agency to utilize or administer funds for the purpose of transporting prospective student - athletes to its campus, it being understood that the pooling of resources by two or more persons for this purpose shall constitute such a fund; however, the fore-going prohibition does not apply to persons upon whom a given student - athlete may be naturally or legally dependent and further any person may transport or pay the transportation costs of a prospective student-athlete to visit the campus provided such person accompanies the student to and from the campus."

Another resolution to be offered would make sure that any athlete competing in the 1956 Olympics would not lose a year of college eligibility because of the time of the games this year — in December.

Still another plan calls for the inauguration of a college basketball tournament, plus the present university basketball tourney.

Frank Sullivan of Boston and Frank Lary of Detroit received the poorest fielding support in the American League in 1955. Each had 19 unearned runs scored while they were pitching.

LaSalle After Cage Battles January 10

OLLA, La., Jan. 6 (Special)—The LaSalle High School baskeball Tigers of Olla are in the market for a cage double header Tuesday night. Prospective "buyers" should contact coach Bill Walters.

"We have an open date for our boys and girls' basketball teams on January 10 and would like to schedule a strong team of any classification in this section of the state on that date," coach Walters announced. "We will play the game at Olla or away and will arrange for a return game later, or, if we can't get together on a return game, we will split the gate receipts of the one game."

Interested schools are invited to contact coach Walters at LaSalle High (phone 5-2606).

UCLA Back To Try Out With Canadians

VANCOUVER, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Vancouver Herald says Doug Peters, fullback for the University of California at Los Angeles, has signed a tryout contract with B. C. Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Don Mackenzie, B. C. Lion's president, who returned last night from a player-hunting trip to California, said he obtained four signed contracts from U. S. college players. He didn't identify them.

He said veteran end Mac Speedie, 34, also asked for and received permission to try out with the Lions this summer.

Kid Gavilan Will Box Britisher In London

LONDON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Former world champion Kid Gavilan of Cuba today was signed to fight Peter Waterman, 21-year-old British welterweight, here on Feb. 7.

Promoter Jack Solomons said the bout would be over 10 rounds with a 149 pound weight limit.

LEADS IN TAXES BATTED IN

RICHMOND, Va., (AP)—Internal Revenue Service Director Clifford Glotzbach has a baseball team and equipment on his hands. He gained possession of the Triple A Richmond International League team when the government seized it for back taxes. Glotzbach once found himself with an elephant, three monkeys, six horses and a camel. That happened in North Dakota when a circus was lax in taxes.

Only Half Dozen Major Cage Outfits Undefeated

By JOHN CHANDLER
The Associated Press

Only half a dozen major college basketball teams, including the Nation's No. 1 outfit—the San Francisco Dons—could boast an unbeaten record as the sport headed into the first big weekend after the holidays.

San Francisco, with a 10-0 seasonal record and winner of the New York Holiday Festival Tournament without difficulty, is rolling along on a string of 36 consecutive victories.

The Dons are only three games shy of the major college record of 39 straight, set by Long Island University from 1935-37, and equalled by Seton Hall in 1939-41. The N.C.A.A. service bureau's official records eliminated alumni, service team and junior college games from the major college victory strings.

North Carolina State, ranked No. 2 in this week's Associated Press poll, has an 11-0 record, while Dayton, No. 3, is rolling along on a 10-0 seasonal mark.

Other major clubs unbeaten are St. Francis of Brooklyn, 8-0, and Temple and Stanford, both 7-0.

The winningest team this season, with 12-0, is Vincennes (Ind.) University, while another of the small college group is Hofstra (N. Y.) with 11-0.

The longest winning streak in college basketball is the small college mark of 55 in a row, stacked up between 1921-26 by Peru (Neb.) State. Pittsburg (Kans.) State is next with 45 straight from 1930-32.

Other small colleges who remain unbeaten, all with 5-0 records this season, include Tennessee Wesleyan, Defiance (Ohio), Assumption (Mass.), Plattsburgh (N. Y.), and Philadelphia Textile. Ohio Norther, Stevens (N. J.) Tech and Maryland State are 4-0.

Two major clubs were added to the beaten list in Thursday night games—Memphis State and Xavier of Ohio. Spring Hill (Ala.) knocked off Memphis State, now 10-1 in the Mobile Senior Bowl finals 69-65, and Western Kentucky edged Xavier 73-72 to leave the Ohioans at 7-1.

San Francisco went after No. 37 last night against Pepperdine. A victory would tie the Dons with the Texas Longhorn teams which won 37 in a row from 1913-17.

Stanford put its unbeaten record on the line in a Friday and Saturday two-game Pacific Coast Conference series against Washington. North Carolina State has tough Duke there tonight, while Dayton takes on Iona in New York, and Temple plays at Scranton, Pa. St. Francis is idele until its date with City College of New York Jan. 10.

Louisville Club Franchise Sold To Cuban Group

BOSTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Louisville franchise of the American Association today was sold by the Boston Red Sox to a group of Havana, Cuba, businessmen who will complete a full working agreement with the Washington Nationals tomorrow.

The Louisville franchise will remain in the Kentucky city.

Previously there had been considerable speculation as to the locale of the club under new ownership.

The sale is subject to approval by the directors of the American Association.

Edward F. Wheeler of Havana negotiated the purchase for the Cuban combine with Sox general manager Joe Cronin.

The Cuban group also includes Victor G. Menocal, a sugar broker and member of a prominent Havana family, Louis G. Mendoza, Gonzaio Vega and other unidentified businessmen with a great interest in baseball.

The Sox announcement said that the working agreement with Washington will be completed tomorrow and that Wheeler then will attend the American Association meeting in Chicago Sunday.

Wheeler, the superintendent of Western Union in Havana and a native of Nashua, N. H., left immediately for New York after concluding his talks with Cronin. He is due in Washington tomorrow.

Cronin was not available for comment. Previously it had been thought the announcement, if any, would come out of Louisville.

The Red Sox decided to sell the Louisville franchise after buying San Francisco of the Pacific Coast League recently.

For some time it had been known that Washington wanted to make connections with Louisville under new ownership though the Nationals did not want to buy the club themselves. President Calvin Griffith attended meetings here earlier this week with Cronin and a citizen's committee from Louisville investigating progress of the sale.

North Carolina State expects Ronnie Shavlik, a senior from Denver, to lead the team in basketball scoring again this season. He made 707 points last season for a 22.1 average.

South 6-Point Favorite In Senior Bowl

50 College Grid Stars Make Pro Debut At Mobile

By STAN ATKINS

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 6 —Fifty of the leading collegiate football players in the nation turn professional tomorrow in the seventh annual Senior Bowl game.

The South is favored by a touchdown. Sideline observers, including about 30 pro scouts and coaches, rate the Rebels a slight edge in material over the heavier Northerners.

The South squad lists 11 members of the All - America squad. The North team has three.

Paul Brown of the pro champion Cleveland Browns is coaching the Southerners and Buddy Parker of the Detroit Lions is directing the Yankees.

The forecast was for partly cloudy and mild weather with temperatures in the low 70s. A near capacity crowd of 36,000 is predicted for Ladd Stadium.

The South hopes hinge mainly on the passing of quarterback Bob Hardy of Kentucky, who completed 58 of 106 tosses for 77 yards during the past season. He was rated the most valuable player in the Blue-Gray game at Montgomery.

Opposing Hardy in the North T-quarterback post are two Big Ten signal callers who had total gaines of more than 1,000 yards during the season.

They are Iowa's Jerry Reichow, most valuable player in the East-West game at San Francisco, and Jim Haluska of Wisconsin, the nation's leading passer with 71 completions of 132 attempted for 1,036 yards.

Both the North and South chunkers have speedy and agile ends as targets.

Offensive flankmen for the South are All-American Howard Schnellenberger of Kentucky and Tommy Harkins of Vanderbilt's Gator Bowl champions.

The North boasts Harold Burnine of Missouri, leading pass catcher in the nation with 44 receptions for 594 yards; Jim Carmichael of California; and Jim Freeman of Iowa.

Fob James, Auburn back, has the best rushing mark of all. He was the Southeastern Conference's leading ball carrier with 879 yards.

Bob Pellegrini, Maryland's 225-pound All-America center, will pivot the South's defensive platoon as the middle guard.

The left side of Brown's South offensive forewall claims such stalwarts as Schnellenberger, tackle Frank D'Agostino of Auburn and guard Bo Bolinger of Oklahoma. Schnellenberger and D'Agostino were first team All-Americans. Bolinger, a leading member of the Sooner's tremendous line, made the second All-America team.

Another All-American, guard Jim Brown of U.C.L.A., was assigned to linebacking duties for Parker's Northerners.

The game will be played under pro rules, including unlimited substitution. A sudden death playoff, patterned after pro championship rules, also is planned should the two end the regular playing time with the score tied.

The teams stand all even at 3-3 in the previous six Senior Bowl games.

Members of the winning team received $500 each, the losers get $400. The game will be broadcast over the mutual network. It will not be televised.

U. S. Ski Girls Take Three 1st At Grindelwald

GRINDELWALD, Switzerland, Jan. 6 (AP)—America's women skiers improved on their first pre-Olympic performance today when they captured three of the first 20 places in the slalom event in the Grindelwald Women's International Tournament today.

But the European downhill racers and Russia's sturdy cross country skiers continued to dominate this first major tryout for the winter Olympic games starting later this month.

Poland's Maria Kowalska won the slalom by the slim margin of on tenth of a second over Switzerland's Renee Colliard, making two runs down the icy 2,000 meter course in two minutes, 3.1 seconds. America's double Olympic champion of 1952, Andrea Mead Lawrence of Parshall, Colo., took third place, only three tenths of a second behind the winner.

Mrs. Lawrence's placing was much better than in yesterday's giant slalom, where she tied for 20th place, five seconds behind Germany's Eva Lanig.

Mrs. Lawrence, a slim, girlish-looking mother of three children, who will defend both women's slalom titiels in the winter games at Cortina, Italy, starting Jan. 26, made the day's third-best time on her second trip down the dangerous course. Andrea made the second run in 52.9 seconds, a performance beaten only by Swiss veteran Madeleine Berthod and by Miss Colliard on their second runs.

One Russian skier was painfully injured and another lost her chance for a good placing in two of the many spills that marred the race down the tricky, curving course. Two American girls also took tumbles.

The Russians, who swept the first six places in the 10-kilometer cross country race Wednesday, did it again today when their two three-girl teams finished first and second in the 15-kilometer relay race. Czechoslovakia was a poor third among the 12 teams entered. The United States did not have an entry.

Miss Kowalska was timed in 68.6 seconds and 54.5 seconds for her two trips down the course. Mrs. Lawrence's times were 69.5 and 53.9—the second beaten only by Miss Berthod's 52.2 and Miss Colliard's 53.7. Miss Berthod placed fourth with a 2:03.5 total.

Katy Rodolph of Reno, who led all the Americans in the giant slalom, took eleventh place today with 2:10.3 and Betty Snite of Norwich, Vt., was 20th in 2:15.6. Miss Lanig, the giant slalom winner, was just ahead of her in 2:15.5.

Falls left the other two Americans far down the list of finishers. Gladys Werner, Steamboat Springs, Colo., fell twice today on her last run and wound up in 42nd place with 3:05.8 and Mrs. Dorothy Surgenor, Everett, Wash., took a tumble on her first run and placed 43rd with 3:19.4.

The most serious accident of the day put Russia's Olga Lycenko out of the race. She ran a broken wooden flag marker through her thigh.

Eugenie Sidorva, a blonde Russian girl, made the first run in 67.7 too lead the entire field, but she fell on the second trial and wound up in 32nd place with a total time of 2:35.2. The only other Russian to complete both runs was Alla Vasileva, who fell on the first run. She was 38th with 2:49.3.

It was a different story in the cross country relay. Lubov Kosyreva, beaten by her teammate Rosa Erochina in the 10-kilometer race, made the best time for a five-kilometer lap, 19:31 and led the Russian "A" team to victory in 59 minutes, two seconds. The "B" team was second in 1:00:47. No one on the third-place Czech team could match the slowest time among the six Russian girls.

FROZEN BAIT WORKS

DANA POINT, Calif. (AP) — The bait worked just fine—even though it was six centuries old. Dr. Richard T. Street displayed four fish to prove it. The bait? A jar full of grasshoppers found embedded in the ice of a glacier in Montana. They were sent to Dr. Street by the American Association for the Advancement of Science. They dug them out of the glacier and say the bugs must have been caught in the ice when trapped in a downdraft. Dr. Street, an ardent fisherman, tried them as bait more or less as a joke. His success proves fish don't know the difference between fresh bait and stale.

Graham All-Pro 6th Time

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—Automatic Otto Graham, quarterback sparkplug of the World Championship Cleveland Browns, was named today on the Associated Press All-Pro team for the sixth time in his brilliant career.

Graham, with 28 votes of the 40 cast in the annual voting, and Alan Ameche, smashing fullback of the Baltimore Colts, led in the balloting on the professional "dream team." Ameche, who led in the National Football League in his freshman year with 961 yards rushing, was the only rookie on the 22-man, two platoon offensive and defensive squad.

Cleveland, which defeated the Los Angeles Rams for the championship Dec. 26, placed three men on the squad, as did the Rams.

In addition to Graham, the former Northwestern star who came out of retirement last season, the Browns placed tackle Lou Groza and center Frank Gatski on the offensive eleven.

The Rams had guard Duane Putnam on the offensive squad, while the west coast team provided end Andy Robustelli and halfback Will Sherman on the defensive team.

The 40 ballots were cast by Associated Press member paper football writers and AP sports staff men.

Ameche, who starred at the University of Wisconsin, received 26 ballots for fullback.

The Chicago Bears, who lost out in the Western Conference race to Los Angeles by half a game, placed four players on the squad, three on offense and one defender—Bill George, middle guard. The others were end Harlon Hill, tackle Bill Wightkin, and guard Stan Jones.

Completing the offensive were end Pete Pihos, Philadelphia Eagles; halfback Ollie Matson, Chicago Cardinals; and halfback Frank Gifford, New York Giants.

Others on the defensive platoon are end Gene Brito, Washington Redskins; tackle Art Donovan, Baltimore; tackle Bob Toneff, San Fancisco 49ers; linebackers Roger Zatkoff, Green Bay Pakers, and Joe Schmidt, Detroit Lions; halfback Bobby Dillon, Packers; and safeties, Jack Christiansen, Lions, and Emlen Tunnell, Giants.

Graham and seven others also were on the 1954 All-Pro team — Groza, pihos, Matson, Donovan, Schmidt, Dillon and Christiansen.

Graham, who retired again after the Browns won the world title last month, was the league's passing leader for the second time in three years. He tossed 195 aeriels, completing 98 for 1,721 yards and 15 touchdowns.

SAME SCHEDULE

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Syracuse will play the same eight football rivals next season. They are Maryland, Pitt and Boston U. on the road and Penn State, Army, West Virginia, Holy Cross and Colgate at home.

Tech Quint Hosts S. L. I. In League Contest Tonight

RUSTON, La., Jan. 6 (Special)—It is back to Gulf States Conference action for the Louisiana Tech basketballers who take on Southwestern Louisiana Institute here Saturday night. Tip-off time is 8 p.m. at Tech's Memorial Gymnasium.

The important conference game will bring the two quintets together for the first time this season and both team are anxious to win this one to keep in the running for the Gulf States title.

Defending co-champions of the G.S.C., the Techmen now have a 1-0 conference record as the result of a 90-79 win over Southeastern Louisiana here lsst month. Coach Cecil Crowley and his Tech Canines know there is plenty of tough competition ahead and must make the most of every game if they expect to repeat as the G.S.C champs.

On the other hand, Southwestern's cagers have dropped their only loop battle to date, a 67-76 tilt to Louisiana College, and they will have an opportunity to get back to the .500 mark and a 1-1 record with a win over Tech.

The Techmen, who have now won all their home games and lost all the road contests, will welcome a return to the familiar Memorial Gymnasium and the chance to stop a three-game losing streak. Two setbacks last week in the Louisiana Invitational Tournament in Shreveport (56-60 to Washington State and 62-69 to North Texas State) and a close 71-79 overtime loss to Arkansas Tech up at Russellville, Ark., Tuesday night give the Bulldogs a 5-4 standing for the season.

There is a possibility that coach Crowley will have to rework his starting team for the first time this season because of an injury that forward Jap Gullatt suffered Tuesday night in the Arkansas Tech bout. The Simsboro junior has a battered knee that may sideline him for a time.

If Gullatt is unable to go, the Tech coach will likely send in Joe White, a Calhoun sophomore who has done some outstanding play in relief roles this season. Early this week White received an eye injury but his recovery has been rapid.

Other starters for the Tech will be L. J. Fontenot at forward, Jim Knotts and Billy Wiggins at guards, and Raymond Germany at center. Wiggins still holds the Bulldog scoring record with an average of 22.8 points in eight tilts. Germany has averaged 14 and Knotts 11.3 per contest.

Other Techsters likely to see action include forward Max Kimmel, the Kilgore, Tex., freshman who tops the team field goal percentage column with .500, forward Charles Hodges, guards Ben Alexander, Charles Frye and Bub Haile and center Tony Graves.

Stotz Restrained From Organizing Rival Little Loop

LEWISBURG, Pa., Jan. 6 (AP)—A federal judge today issued a temporary injunction restraining Carl E. Stotz, former Little League baseball commissioner, from setting up a rival boys' baseball organization.

Judge Frederick V. Follmer ruled that Stotz must not use any Little League trade marks or other features of the Little League, Inc., baseball organization pending outcome of court litigation in a suit brought by Stotz against Little League.

The injunction to curb Stotz' announced plans to set up a rival organization was sought by Little League shortly after Stotz filed a $300,000 breach of contract suit alleging that a by-law change had reduced him to a "mere employe."

Judge Follmer's order would delay Stotz' plan "pending final determination of this action or until further order of the court."

Stotz has 30 days to appeal to the U. S. circuit court against the injunction. His attorney, Daniel F. Knittle, declined to say whether Stotz would appeal.

"We have no statement to make at this time," Knittle asserted.

Stotz maintained that the by-law change took away his right to set up rules and regulations and to decide on the granting of franchises.

Judge Follmer based his decision on testimony and oral argument heard earlier this week on the temporary injunction suit brought by Little League.

The league contends it has not violated its contract with Stotz. Stotz was dismissed from his post shortly after he filed his law suit.

Stotz founded Little League baseball for boys before World War II. In 1949 he obtained the financial backing of the U. S. Rubber Co. It was shortly after that support was obtained that the league was incorporated.

The court did not indicate when the Stotz suit would be tried.

The January term of the district court convenes at Lewisburg Jan. 16, but attorneys for both sides indicated they could not be ready by then.

N. C. A. A. Offers Curb On College 'Booster Clubs'

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6 —UP—The 1955 national and regional television program of the NCAA was "most successful," the 50th annual convention will be told, but the recruiting committee asks a general "tightening up" on recruiting activities.

In a report to be read to the members, the 1955 TV committee said the 1955 program had been generally approved by the schools and the public and that it had helped colleges in retaining their attendance at athletic contests.

The committee proposed that the 1956 committee should be free to devise the best program possible; and that it should keep in mind developments taking place in subscription television.

On the recruiting, the resolutions suggest the tightening up on offers of aid to athletes; revise the transportation rule so that the fares of friends and relatives could not be paid to a university; restrict excessive entertainment; and limit the aid to be given to a student to get the student to a certain school to one person — not an organization.

There is some belief that the latter item would just about end the usefulness of so-called "booster" clubs. The proposed resolution reads, in full:

"No member institution shall permit an outside organization or agency to utilize or administer funds for the purpose of transporting prospective student - athletes to its campus, it being understood that the pooling of resources by two or more persons for this purpose shall constitute such a fund; however, the fore-going prohibition does not apply to persons upon whom a given student - athlete may be naturally or legally dependent and further any person may transport or pay the transportation costs of a prospective student-athlete to visit the campus provided such person accompanies the student to and from the campus."

Another resolution to be offered would make sure that any athlete competing in the 1956 Olympics would not lose a year of college eligibility because of the time of the games this year — in December.

Still another plan calls for the inauguration of a college basketball tournament, plus the present university basketball tourney.

Frank Sullivan of Boston and Frank Lary of Detroit received the poorest fielding support in the American League in 1955. Each had 19 unearned runs scored while they were pitching.

LaSalle After Cage Battles January 10

OLLA, La., Jan. 6 (Special)—The LaSalle High School baskeball Tigers of Olla are in the market for a cage double header Tuesday night. Prospective "buyers" should contact coach Bill Walters.

"We have an open date for our boys and girls' basketball teams on January 10 and would like to schedule a strong team of any classification in this section of the state on that date," coach Walters announced. "We will play the game at Olla or away and will arrange for a return game later, or, if we can't get together on a return game, we will split the gate receipts of the one game."

Interested schools are invited to contact coach Walters at LaSalle High (phone 5-2606).

UCLA Back To Try Out With Canadians

VANCOUVER, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Vancouver Herald says Doug Peters, fullback for the University of California at Los Angeles, has signed a tryout contract with B. C. Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

Don Mackenzie, B. C. Lion's president, who returned last night from a player-hunting trip to California, said he obtained four signed contracts from U. S. college players. He didn't identify them.

He said veteran end Mac Speedie, 34, also asked for and received permission to try out with the Lions this summer.

Kid Gavilan Will Box Britisher In London

LONDON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Former world champion Kid Gavilan of Cuba today was signed to fight Peter Waterman, 21-year-old British welterweight, here on Feb. 7.

Promoter Jack Solomons said the bout would be over 10 rounds with a 149 pound weight limit.

LEADS IN TAXES BATTED IN

RICHMOND, Va., (AP)—Internal Revenue Service Director Clifford Glotzbach has a baseball team and equipment on his hands. He gained possession of the Triple A Richmond International League team when the government seized it for back taxes. Glotzbach once found himself with an elephant, three monkeys, six horses and a camel. That happened in North Dakota when a circus was lax in taxes.

By DION HENDERSON

The hunter who encounters a grizzly bear, on purpose or otherwise, may hold thereafter a firm conviction: one grizzly can make a big chunk of country seem crowded.

Thus it is difficult to realize that the United States is only a little way from the silence that would mean that Big Brother has gone away.

As a matter of fact, it is so hard to understand that of the four states which still have grizzly populations, only Idaho has decreed no open season.

Yet the grizzly — Big Brother to the Indian who recognized him as the master hunter, Old Ephraim to white hunters — is nearing the twilight of the million - year-long day in which he ranged from Arctic circle to the Gulf, and coast to coast. His career reached from the mastodons to man, and he did not fear either, nor anything in between.

Big Brother won his North American heavyweight free - style big game championship from such as the sabre tooth tiger and the cave bear, in the Pleistocene period. In those days, according to a specimen found in California's Rancho La Brea tar pits, he might weigh a ton and stand 12 feet tall.

And right now, his survivors are clearly the same bear. A couple of feet shorter, a few hundred pounds lighter, but the difference wouldn't be discernible to a man meeting one of those survivors on a narrow trail somewhere on Mount McDonald.

Harold McCracken, grizzly historian who summed up Big Brother's life and times last year in a book called "The Beast That Walks Like a Man," estimates that there are fewer than 600 wild grizzly bears in the U. S., outside of Yellowstone and Glacier National Parks.

That is comparable to the number, say, of baseball hopefuls who report to the major league training camps in the spring. The two big parks in the heart of the remaining grizzly range may have 25 more grizzlies.

Several of Big Brother's 86 classified families already are long gone. The California grizzly — whose 1,400 pounds made him generally bigger than the surviving Kodiak grizzly — disappeared for practical purposes some 50 years ago. The last individual was killed in Tulare county in 1922.

The Teton grizzly and the plains grizzly, another giant, are in imminent danger, and the true plains grizzly may be gone. In the white man's time there has been scarcely more than relics to attest Big Brother's one - time rule on the eastern coast, in Maryland and Florida, for instance. But New York reported them in the white man's time.

But the disappearance has been progressive as the bears drew into the northwest wilderness. Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma do not record the passing of their buffalo - killing plains bear. The last kill in the Dakotas was noted in 1897, in Texas seven years earlier. New Mexico killed a grizzly in 1927, Arizona its last of record in Greenlee county in 1935. In Utah, Boy Scouts have raised a monument in Cache county, where the state's last grizzly was slain by a hunter Aug. 22, 1923. Oregon noted a kill as late as 1931, but as far as Nevada records are concerned, the grizzly passed unnoticed. A U. S. fish and wildlife service census two years ago showed none left in Washington, although a hunter still occasionally reports one killed.

Of the four states with important populations, Montana has more than 700 of the beasts. Wyoming, where the grizzly has continued to be fair game has about 50 outside Yellowstone, with 150 more inside the park.

Galloway Among Candidates For Wake Forest Job

WAKE FOREST, N. C., Jan. 6 (AP)—Wake Forest's athletic council was set to consider further today the selection of a new head football coach. It was considered unlikely that a decision will be reached soon.

A spokesman said the meeting would be devoted mainly to adopting a policy "as to what we are going to do."

The spokesman said upwards of 70 persons have either applied for or are being considered for the job which became vacant on the resignation of coach Tom Rogers.

PERFECT FOR COMPETITOR

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—Did the owner of a bowling alley help himself or his competitor's alleys when he rolled a 300 game? Larry Walter averages 180 on his own alleys but when he rolled on a rival's lanes he scored a 300 game.

Military Rites Planned Sunday For Frank Foust

A full military funeral service will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. for Frank A. Foust, whose body will arrive on a night Missouri Pacific train Friday. The funeral is set at Peters Funeral chapel.

Young Foust, in the marine corps, was killed in Korea, Nov. 28, 1950. He was private first class.

Upon arrival of the body it will be taken directly to the Peters funeral chapel.

The funeral service at the chapel will be in charge of the Rev. Leon Ivey, pastor of Temple Baptist Church.

Interment will be in the military plot in Riverview Burial park and there will be full military committal service.

Foust, who was unmarried, is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Foust, 1005 Thomas avenue, Monroe; two sisters, Mrs. J. T. Franks, West Monroe, and Mrs. J. W. Robinson, West Monroe; four brothers, Charles and Walter Foust, both of Monroe, Johnny Foust, New Orleans, and James Foust, Superior, Wis.

2 Will Attend Board Meeting Of Police Jury

Two Twin City men are scheduled to attend a meeting of the executive board of the Police Jury Association of Louisiana at 10 a.m. January 22, in Baton Rouge.

The men are A. E. Montgomery, president of the Ouachita parish police jury and third vice-president of the association, and Tom E. Hicks of West Monroe, a former Ouachita parish police juryman and an honorary member of the board.

The meeting, which will be held in the Heidelberg Hotel, will be for the purpose of framing questions to put to the two gubernatorial candidates named as high men in the January 17 Democratic primary, if there is a necessity for a runoff.

The legislative program of the association for 1956 and other matters that should come before the board will be discussed, according to W. A. Breedlove, secretary.

Rush Of Federal Income Taxpayers Is Seen Next Week

A rush of Federal income taxpayers to file their returns is expected next week. Instruction booklets and tax forms are being distributed by the local postmaster.

"Now that the forms are here, I hope that taxpayers will start filing as soon as they get their W-2 statements, especially those who have refunds coming," John L. Tolar of the Monroe office of Internal Revenue, said today.

Taxpayers were asked to read the instructions and use the tax forms they receive in the mail.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Chinese Mental Patient To Be Deported By U. S.

WASHINGTON Jan. 6 (AP)—After six years in a Missouri mental hospital, Liu Yung-ming is being returned to his home in Red China. His government had charged that the 36-year-old Chinese student was being held against his will.

The immigration service announced last night it has received approval from hospital authorities and from British officials in Hong Kong to deport the student. The deportation order has been pending since 1951, on the ground Liu no longer was studying at the University of Missouri.

The service had said earlier it had been balked by inability to get a Hong Kong transit visa. This has now been arranged, it said, and doctors at the state hospital at Farmington, Mo., have reported the student is now well enough to travel alone. He has "received maximum benefits" from his treatment, they said.

An immigration officer will accompany Liu to San Francisco, from which he will sail Jan. 8, the service said.

He was committed to the hospital in 1949 after his case was diagnosed as schizophrenia. The Chinese Reds charged Dec. 15 that he was held in the hospital as a means of preventing his return to Red China.

Cornerstone To Be Laid Here By Bishop Martin

The cornerstone of the Memorial Methodist Church will be laid Sunday at 8:30 p. m. with Bishop Paul E. Martin, of Little Rock, officiating. He is in charge of the Arkansas - Louisiana area of the Methodist Church.

With him at the exercises in which he will take part will be the Rev. James T. Harris, superintendent of the Monroe district and also the Rev. Ewing T. Wayland, editor of the Louisiana Methodist and the Rev. Ralph Cain, pastor of Memorial Church.

The new sanctuary will be completed for occupancy on April 1. It was designed by Johns and Neel local architects and Ira Cagle and Son were the contractors.

When completed it will cost more than $100,000.

The building committee of the church comprised: W. W. Stevens, W. B. Mann, J. H. Walker, Mrs. W. A. Cotton, Edwin C. Rowan, and F. Harold Riggs.

Truck-Trailer, Out Of Control, Strikes Vehicle

A huge truck - trailer went out of control at the intersection of De-Siard and Elysian Fields streets in Monroe early Friday and crashed into the rear of a parked pickup truck, police reported.

Damage in the wreck was minor, the officers said.

According to police, the trailer-truck, owned by the Couch Motor Lines, was being driven on Elysian Fields by 35 - year - old Jessie Lee Smith of 1712 Cole avenue, and Smith attempted to make a left turn.

The trailer began to come loose from the cab of the truck and Smith attempted to stop. However, the air hose broke and the trailer-truck hit the rear of the pickup, which is owned by Pete Fontana.

Monaco Residents Respond Happily To Wedding News

MONTE CARLO, Monaco Jan. 6 (AP)—'Bravo, prince, well done," said a gardener at Monte Carlo's famed casino.

"Now the life of the dynasty can be assured," said the mayor of the nation's only town.

Thus the residents of this tiny Mediterranean principality responded today to long-awaited word that their bachelor prince Rainier III would finally have a princess — American film star Grace Kelly — and they hope an heir.

"Monegasques" decked the town with their country's colors — red and blue — and put the day aside to celebrate.

Flower-festooned pictures of the prince showed in shop windows everywhere. Beside them, when they could be found, were photographs of the blonde beauty whose betrothal to the 32-year-old prince was announced yesterday.

Mayor Robert Boisson was jubilant.

"All Monegasques are happy at the news," he told reporters, "happy because the prince will be married and he could have children so the life of the dynasty could be assured."

The celebration began last night as soon as the glad tidings became known. Champagne and wine merchants did a land office business. The Monte Carlo radio talked of practically nothing else.

National Assembly President Louis Auregla wired the prince in Philadelphia, saying, "The Assembly at a special meeting, and I myself, express to your highness the joy felt at the news of your engagement."

The matter is of more than passing importance for Monaco's residents. If the royal family ceases to exist, tax-free Monaco becomes part of France with its taxes and military service.

No one seemed too distressed that their prince was not bringing home a princess of royal blood.

"Certainly," said one subject, "we would have preferred a true princess. That would have been perfect. But after all, we are in 1956, and we should be of our time.

"All will be for the better, if she makes our prince happy."

And what sort of life will it be in this 370-acre dot of land on a great splatter of map?

To start with, there's a palace on the Mediterranean, a yacht, four cars and a budget in six figures, even a private zone. The prince has a palace staff of three women and three men, plus personal guard of 12 motorcyclists and four chauffeurs.

Both Miss Kelly and the prince are sports devotees, and Monaco offers plenty of such pastimes.

2 Will Attend Board Meeting Of Police Jury

Two Twin City men are scheduled to attend a meeting of the executive board of the Police Jury Association of Louisiana at 10 a.m. January 22, in Baton Rouge.

The men are A. E. Montgomery, president of the Ouachita parish police jury and third vice-president of the association, and Tom E. Hicks of West Monroe, a former Ouachita parish police juryman and an honorary member of the board.

The meeting, which will be held in the Heidelberg Hotel, will be for the purpose of framing questions to put to the two gubernatorial candidates named as high men in the January 17 Democratic primary, if there is a necessity for a runoff.

The legislative program of the association for 1956 and other matters that should come before the board will be discussed, according to W. A. Breedlove, secretary.

Rush Of Federal Income Taxpayers Is Seen Next Week

A rush of Federal income taxpayers to file their returns is expected next week. Instruction booklets and tax forms are being distributed by the local postmaster.

"Now that the forms are here, I hope that taxpayers will start filing as soon as they get their W-2 statements, especially those who have refunds coming," John L. Tolar of the Monroe office of Internal Revenue, said today.

Taxpayers were asked to read the instructions and use the tax forms they receive in the mail.

Utah Governor Sees No Hope For Balanced Budget

CHICAGO Jan. 6 (AP)—A Republican governor today said that if President Eisenhower's recommendations are adopted the budget "will be out of balance again."

Gov. J. Bracken Lee of Utah, made that comment on the President's State of the Union message. The President said he expects the federal budget to be balanced.

Lee cited the recommendations for such federal aid proposals as those for schools and roads, and he added:

"I think the people are being fooled."

Lee, who spoke his views at a news conference and in a speech before the Executives Club, reported he is ready to formally start his personal rebellion against the federal income tax.

He said he will send in his return next week without any check but with a letter asking for action to bring his case before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Lee said the tax on his salary of governor has been withheld automatically, but he added that he won't pay any tax on "profits on business transactions." He did not detail these profits.

He said his action is aimed at testing the federal government's right to tax Americans for financial help to foreign governments. He termed such taxing a violation of the Constitution.

Money sent abroad, he said, has been used to keep "political parties in power."

Gov. Lee said he has received more than 5,000 letters since he announced his tax abstention last fall.

Radford Asserts Artillery Duels Not Significant

TOKYO, Jan. 6 (AP)—Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, arrived today from Formosa and said the artillery duels in the Formosa Strait between Chinese Nationalists and Communists "don't mean anything."

Radford, homeward bound from a world tour, told newsmen, however:

"I don't know what the Communists plan to do."

He said before leaving Taipei that he feels the Chinese Communists have a "greatly increased capability" but that they aren't looking for a "tough fight."

Radford has been talking with U. S. and Allied military officials on his tour and looking at some potential trouble spots.

He is scheduled to meet with Japanese leaders and visit South Korea during his five-day stay in this area.

In Asia life expectancy at birth is comparatively brief — only about 30 years, says the Population Reference Bureau.

Bastrop 'Ham' Operator Ready For Emergencies

By NORRIS VANCLEAVE
Of The Morning World Staff

BASTROP, Jan. 6—The responsibility for Bastrop's contact with the outside world, should a major emergency disrupt normal communications, would rest largely with a 26-year-old electrical construction engineer and his "ham" radio hobby.

Charles Russell, electrical engineer with International Paper Company and a member of the U. S. Air Force Reserve, is capable of contacting virtually any point in the southeast portion of the United States directly and can contact practically any point in the world by relay. He is thus able to keep the entire world at his doorstep by virtue of his voice radio transmitter and receiver, which are located in his home at 230 Cox Street.

Aside from the pleasure he derives from his hobby, Russell also reaps the satisfaction of rendering a public service through his activity as a "ham." Working with his local Civil Defense unit, he acts as communications man during mock emergencies designed to test the efficiency of the Civil Defense organization in his area. He also handles emergency messages of a family nature when called upon to do so, performing this service without charge. During Operation Sagebrush, he used his affiliation with the Air Force Reserve to good advantage by helping notify a serviceman who could not be reached by telephone of an emergency in his family.

Russell maintains regular direct contact with a group of amateurs that cover the entire southeast area of the United States. Members of various amateur networks meet at specified times for the purpose of handling any messages they have been asked to send. He is also a member of a military affillate radio system and can thus assist in transmitting or relaying messages of a military nature.

A graduate of Louisiana Tech, Russell has been with International Paper Company for approximately 2½ years but has lived in Bastrop only about seven months. He says he thoroughly enjoys his hobby and that the satisfaction he derives from it is doubled when he is able to use it in service to the public.

President's Plan To Hike Aid To Allies Applauded

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

The Eisenhower administration's new foreign aid policy fits right in with what many Britishers think is needed to meet the Russian challenge in the Middle East.

The British press has given this part of the President's State of the Union message a warm welcome, both as a potent weapon in the cold war and as an aid to continued Allied unity, through its contribution to long-range policy.

It is taken as reassurance that budget-balancing will not be permitted to interfere with American leadership or her determination to fight the cold war as long as it needs to be fought.

The President's pronouncement struck coincidentally with a conference of British officials on Middle East problems at which they are reported to have agreed on the need for a joint economic effort, building up the Baghdad Pact as a vehicle for preventing a Moslem lineup with Russia.

The Allies want no situation in which the Moslem attitude toward Israel is extended even farther than at present toward the West in general, with inevitable leaning toward Russia. To prevent that, Britain would like to join with Washington in a common economic aid program, coordinating and increasing the work now being done through various agencies.

The London Times expressed another feeling which has also been widely prevalent in this country, that America and the Allies are too prone to react to pressure at specific spots and times dictated by Russian measures, instead of applying an unremitting pressure of their own.

"This would seem to mean going ahead with an extended economic program for all underdeveloped countries while trying to avoid day-to-day shifts in the quantity and quality of aid as the Communist threat to each country blows hot or cold," said the Times.

This relates, as Eisenhower also related his program, to recognition that the cold war cannot be won quickly, or by defensive measures. It also represents evaluation of Russian policy as one of economic and political warfare, with shooting war held in reserve in case of failure, or employed only between smaller nations for purposes of general disruption as may be possible now in the Middle East.

The Manchester Guardian recognizes the unpopularity in America of increased foreign expenditures, and the uncertainty the expected congressional fight will cause abroad, but remarks that "we should remember that in the end America generally delivers the goods."

Army Official Praises State On 'Sagebrush'

BATON ROUGE, Jan. 6 (AP) —An armed forces offical today praised Louisiana local and state officials for their work in making Exercise Sagebrush a success.

The war games, largest since World War Two, were held over most of the western half of the state.

In a letter released by Gov. Robern Kennon, Col. Harold L. Taylor, president, southwestern area senior armed forces disciplinary control board, said:

'In reviewing the accomplishments of this massive endeavor, one factor stands out above all others — the superb manner in which the officials of the state of Louisiana cooperated with the military forces during the planning and execution phases of the maneuver."

Taylor thanked state, parish and community health, law enforcement and civic agencies for their "splendid efforts."

He added, "The comparatively low accident and crime rates are a profound tribute to the tireless efforts and sound planning of your departmental directors."

Civil Rights Violations Probe Scored By Rainach

BATON ROUGE, Jan. 6 (AP)—A Louisiana segregation spokesman today scored President Eisenhower's proposed civil rights investigation as a Republican bid to build Negro votes in the South.

Sen. W. M. Rainach, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation, asserted:

"This is a move by the Republican Party to gain power in the South through bloc voting of Negroes."

The north Louisianian was here to confer with Gov. Robert Kennon on segregation questions.

Kennon, Eisenhower Democrat, commented on the President's remarks that "Louisiana has been lawful in its handling of segregation matters.

"We have always had a minimum of racial friction in Louisiana," the governor continued. "The great majority of our people live in harmony."

The President yesterday urged Congress to establish a bipartisan commission for investigation of alleged violations of civil rights in some localities.

'I see absolutely no need for such a commission," Rainach contended in an interview.

"But if it is formed, I have no fear of what it will find in the state of Louisiana.

"We are going to fight this segregation battle and win completely by lawful means.

"We're going to whip the National Assn. for Advancement of Colored People and the entire integration movement," he insisted.

Rainach did not say what segregation matters were discussed with Kennon, but he commented the conference held no political significance.

Five candidates for governor, with one backed by Kennon, are hitting the last stretch in their bid for office in the Jan. 17 Democratic primary. All five pledged support for the state's traditional way of keeping the races separated.

Louisiana has a few white citizens councils in Norteast Louisiana, several Southern Gentlemen's organizations in southeast Louisiana—all dedicated by legal and economic means to preserve segregation.

J. B. Easterly, Southern Gentlemen state president, said the Eisenhower statement showed "his insincerity."

Utah Governor Sees No Hope For Balanced Budget

CHICAGO Jan. 6 (AP)—A Republican governor today said that if President Eisenhower's recommendations are adopted the budget "will be out of balance again."

Gov. J. Bracken Lee of Utah, made that comment on the President's State of the Union message. The President said he expects the federal budget to be balanced.

Lee cited the recommendations for such federal aid proposals as those for schools and roads, and he added:

"I think the people are being fooled."

Lee, who spoke his views at a news conference and in a speech before the Executives Club, reported he is ready to formally start his personal rebellion against the federal income tax.

He said he will send in his return next week without any check but with a letter asking for action to bring his case before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Lee said the tax on his salary of governor has been withheld automatically, but he added that he won't pay any tax on "profits on business transactions." He did not detail these profits.

He said his action is aimed at testing the federal government's right to tax Americans for financial help to foreign governments. He termed such taxing a violation of the Constitution.

Money sent abroad, he said, has been used to keep "political parties in power."

Gov. Lee said he has received more than 5,000 letters since he announced his tax abstention last fall.

Radford Asserts Artillery Duels Not Significant

TOKYO, Jan. 6 (AP)—Adm. Arthur Radford, chairman of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, arrived today from Formosa and said the artillery duels in the Formosa Strait between Chinese Nationalists and Communists "don't mean anything."

Radford, homeward bound from a world tour, told newsmen, however:

"I don't know what the Communists plan to do."

He said before leaving Taipei that he feels the Chinese Communists have a "greatly increased capability" but that they aren't looking for a "tough fight."

Radford has been talking with U. S. and Allied military officials on his tour and looking at some potential trouble spots.

He is scheduled to meet with Japanese leaders and visit South Korea during his five-day stay in this area.

In Asia life expectancy at birth is comparatively brief — only about 30 years, says the Population Reference Bureau.

By NORRIS VANCLEAVE
Of The Morning World Staff

BASTROP, Jan. 6—The responsibility for Bastrop's contact with the outside world, should a major emergency disrupt normal communications, would rest largely with a 26-year-old electrical construction engineer and his "ham" radio hobby.

Charles Russell, electrical engineer with International Paper Company and a member of the U. S. Air Force Reserve, is capable of contacting virtually any point in the southeast portion of the United States directly and can contact practically any point in the world by relay. He is thus able to keep the entire world at his doorstep by virtue of his voice radio transmitter and receiver, which are located in his home at 230 Cox Street.

Aside from the pleasure he derives from his hobby, Russell also reaps the satisfaction of rendering a public service through his activity as a "ham." Working with his local Civil Defense unit, he acts as communications man during mock emergencies designed to test the efficiency of the Civil Defense organization in his area. He also handles emergency messages of a family nature when called upon to do so, performing this service without charge. During Operation Sagebrush, he used his affiliation with the Air Force Reserve to good advantage by helping notify a serviceman who could not be reached by telephone of an emergency in his family.

Russell maintains regular direct contact with a group of amateurs that cover the entire southeast area of the United States. Members of various amateur networks meet at specified times for the purpose of handling any messages they have been asked to send. He is also a member of a military affiliate radio system and can thus assist in transmitting or relaying messages of a military nature.

A graduate of Louisiana Tech, Russell has been with International Paper Company for approximately 2½ years but has lived in Bastrop only about seven months. He says he thoroughly enjoys his hobby and that the satisfaction he derives from it is doubled when he is able to use it in service to the public.

President's Plan To Hike Aid To Allies Applauded

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

The Eisenhower administration's new foreign aid policy fits right in with what many Britishers think is needed to meet the Russian challenge in the Middle East.

The British press has given this part of the President's State of the Union message a warm welcome, both as a potent weapon in the cold war and as an aid to continued Allied unity, through its contribution to long-range policy.

It is taken as reassurance that budget-balancing will not be permitted to interfere with American leadership or her determination to fight the cold war as long as it needs to be fought.

The President's pronouncement struck coincidentally with a conference of British officials on Middle East problems at which they are reported to have agreed on the need for a joint economic effort, building up the Baghdad Pact as a vehicle for preventing a Moslem lineup with Russia.

The Allies want no situation in which the Moslem attitude toward Israel is extended even farther than at present toward the West in general, with inevitable leaning toward Russia. To prevent that, Britain would like to join with Washington in a common economic aid program, coordinating and increasing the work now being done through various agencies.

The London Times expressed another feeling which has also been widely prevalent in this country, that America and the Allies are too prone to react to pressure at specific spots and times dictated by Russian measures, instead of applying an unremitting pressure of their own.

"This would seem to mean going ahead with an extended economic program for all underdeveloped countries while trying to avoid day-to-day shifts in the quantity and quality of aid as the Communist threat to each country blows hot or cold," said the Times.

This relates, as Eisenhower also related his program, to recognition that the cold war cannot be won quickly, or by defensive measures. It also represents evaluation of Russian policy as one of economic and political warfare, with shooting war held in reserve in case of failure, or employed only between smaller nations for purposes of general disruption as may be possible now in the Middle East.

The Manchester Guardian recognizes the unpopularity in America of increased foreign expenditures, and the uncertainty the expected congressional fight will cause abroad, but remarks that "we should remember that in the end America generally delivers the goods."

Army Official Praises State On 'Sagebrush'

BATON ROUGE, Jan. 6 (AP)—An armed forces offical today praised Louisiana local and state officials for their work in making Exercise Sagebrush a success.

The war games, largest since World War Two, were held over most of the western half of the state.

In a letter released by Gov. Robern Kennon, Col. Harold L. Taylor, president, southwestern area senior armed forces disciplinary control board, said:

'In reviewing the accomplishments of this massive endeavor, one factor stands out above all others — the superb manner in which the officials of the state of Louisiana cooperated with the military forces during the planning and execution phases of the maneuver."

Taylor thanked state, parish and community health, law enforcement and civic agencies for their "splendid efforts."

He added, "The comparatively low accident and crime rates are a profound tribute to the tireless efforts and sound planning of your departmental directors."

Civil Rights Violations Probe Scored By Rainach

Sen. W. M. Rainach, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation, asserted:

"This is a move by the Republican Party to gain power in the South through bloc voting of Negroes."

The north Louisianian was here to confer with Gov. Robert Kennon on segregation questions.

Kennon, Eisenhower Democrat, commented on the President's remarks that "Louisiana has been lawful in its handling of segregation matters.

"We have always had a minimum of racial friction in Louisiana," the governor continued. "The great majority of our people live in harmony."

The President yesterday urged Congress to establish a bipartisan commission for investigation of alleged violations of civil rights in some localities.

'I see absolutely no need for such a commission," Rainach contended in an interview.

"But if it is formed, I have no fear of what it will find in the state of Louisiana.

"We are going to fight this segregation battle and win completely by lawful means.

"We're going to whip the National Assn. for Advancement of Colored People and the entire integration movement," he insisted.

Rainach did not say what segregation matters were discussed with Kennon, but he commented the conference held no political significance.

Five candidates for governor, with one backed by Kennon, are hitting the last stretch in their bid for office in the Jan. 17 Democratic primary. All five pledged support for the state's traditional way of keeping the races separated.

Louisiana has a few white citizens councils in Norteast Louisiana, several Southern Gentlemen's organizations in southeast Louisiana—all dedicated by legal and economic means to preserve segregation.

J. B. Easterly, Southern Gentlemen state president, said the Eisenhower statement showed "his insincerity.

At Northeast State

College To Offer 6-Year Plan For Training Program

Northeast State will initiate in the spring semester a six-year plan for inservice persons to earn the bachelor of science degree without leaving their jobs.

The college has always offered late afternoon and evening courses whenever the demand was sufficient. Students have not been offered, however, a complete program to meet all requirements for a degree in a particular field entirely through evening courses. The new program makes provision for earning a degree during a six-year period in any of the following fields: biology, chemistry, geology, mathematics, medical technology and physics.

Registration for this work is set for Monday, February 6 at 6:15 p.m. in room 210 of the Science Building. The number of persons who are prepared at that time to register for courses will determine whether or not the program will get underway. A minimum of 10 must register in each curricula listed above to make the plan practical, explained E. J. Foster, acting head of the Department of Pure and Applied Science.

Each curriculum follows the college catalogue. A three hour course will meet 75 minutes Monday and Thursday or Tuesday and Friday for 18 weeks. The normal load will be 12 hours each semester, or four three hour courses.

Students wishing to have previously earned college credits evaluated should bring official transcripts of these credits. Persons under 21 years of age who have not completed any college studies are requested to bring transcripts of high school credits.

Students over 21 years of age, without college experience and who have not completed high school will be asked to take an entrance examination.

Credits may be evaluated in advance by mailing them to Mr. Foster at Northeast Louisiana State College. Choice of curricula should be named in order of preference, Foster said.

China Rejects

early conference between Dulles and Red China Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-lai "to discuss relaxation and elimination of tension" in the Formosa area. It called for a speedy end to the Western embargo on shipment of strategic goods to Red China.

The statement warned the United States to move quickly toward agreement on these issues or face breakdown of the Geneva negotiations between Red China's Wang Ping-nan and U.S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson. The Geneva talks have been going on sporadically for five months and it was there that the Sept. 10 agreement on release of prisoners was announced.

"The Chinese side will continue to work for an agreement," today's statement said. "However, the Chinese people will not consent to the endless dragging out of the Sino-American talks."

The government declaration came in the form of answers by the Foreign Ministry to a New Year questionnaire on the Johnson-Wang talks. The questionnaire was submitted by the official New China News Agency.

The broadcast complained the United States "has long been using threat and persecution to prevent civilian Chinese from returning to China."

It said Wang has protested against this at the Geneva talks and demanded that Washington supply Peiping "a complete name list and information about the Chinese in the United States." On Dec. 16 the United States informed Peiping that all Chinese under its jurisdiction had been free to leave since the Sept. 10 repatriation agreement was reached at Geneva.

upset equipment, temporarily knocking out the switchboard.

Don Knox, school bus driver living northwest of Alva, said the tremor "nearly knocked me out of bed."

Mr. and Mrs. George Burling who live near Knox, said their stove danced up and down on the floor and furniture "walked across the room."

An Anthony, Kan., Police Chief Monte Crooker said he heard a noise like an explosion or an airplane going over at 4 a.m. and again at 5:56 a.m.

Crooker said it sounded like his dog had fallen down the stairs, but "I looked and old Trix was still in bed."

The police chief described the tremor as a "sort of shake, rattle and roll." His wife said the shock knocked the family parakeet off his perch in the kitchen.

Mrs. C. L. Godfrey, weather observer at Waynoka, said a light tremor was felt here at 6 a.m. that rattled dishes and doors.

Friday's tremors were the first of such magnitude in this area since 1952 when several minor earthquakes were reported in Oklahoma.

On April 9, 1952, an earthquake shook a 360,000-square-mile area of the southwest and was felt in parts of Oklahoma, Kansas, Arkansas, Texas, Missouri and Nebraska.

Numerous windows were broken and foundations were cracked but no one was injured.

JOE GRAMBLING

Grambling Named Sales Manager At Coca-Cola Here

Joe Grambling has been named sales manager for the local Coca Cola Bottling Co., it was announced this week.

Grambling, who replaces Neville James, arrived in Monroe with his family December 28 and began his new duties on January 2. He moved here from Gadsden, Ala., where he was employed by the Coca Cola Company for the last 16 years, except time spent in the army during World War Two.

Residing at 1208 Forsythe Avenue, Grambling is married and the father of two daughters, Janice (Jan.) Lynn, 9, and Terry Michele, 4. His wife is the former Miss Virginia Buttram, of Gadsden, Ala.

The new manager said he was for three months in 1941 in the pre-war Louisiana army maneuvers and traveled over a great part of the state. He recalled that his first time in Monroe was in August, 1942, to catch a train for Officer Candidate School in Maryland.

Overseas during the Second World War, he served with the 771st Chemical Depot in India and Burma. He was released from active duty in February, 1946, with the rank of major.

In his new position, Grambling said his operations will cover an area of about 40 miles radius of Monroe-West Monroe.

Grevemberg Hits Kennon, Preaus

HOMER, La., Jan. 6 (AP)—Former state police Supt. Francis Grevemberg charged today that Gov. Robert Kennon and his candidate for governor — Fred Preaus — have made statements racketeers could take as a sign to continue their operations.

Grevemberg, who seeks to succeed Kennon, said a question often asked him was why, after serving as the administration's superintendent of state police, was not Kennon supporting him.

He said the reason probably is that he and Kennon are 180 degrees apart on law enforcement.

"During the 1954 sessions of the Legislature," Grevemberg said, 'in a talk before the Baton Rouge Moral and Civic League, I said that I was ready to take up phase four of my law enforcement drive, which was to crack down on pin ball machines.

"The next morning Gov. Kennon asked me to come see him and told me that if I raided the pinball machines, Mayor Morrison (de-Lesseps Morrison of New Orleans) and his delegation in the Legislature would not vote for the administration's road program.

"I started the raiding that same afternoon just the same and we caught 27 people paying off on the machines."

He said he had two witnesses to an answer Kennon gave a man who asked in the 1952 campaign if Kennon would take out the slots. He said Kennon told the man "would not feel that it was incumbent on me to change the traditions of south Louisiana."

Grevemberg said in his opinion this was a signal to racketeers that they could continue to operate.

He said Preaus, who opposes him, is making the same kind of statements about law enforcement now.

ly before his return to the capital from Gettysburg, Pa.

Strauss told newsmen at Gettysburg his call was strictly "social." But informed sources said he went over the forthcoming tests with the chief executive and received the needed authority to use 'special nuclear materials" required for the experiments.

Mr. Eisenhower made it clear in his State of the Union message to congress Thursday this country would not be persuaded by Soviet propaganda into calling off its previously-planned tests.

The congressional authority said the new tests will be held at the Eniwetok-Bikini proving ground in the Marshall Islands. The last tests there in the spring of 1954 were of "super H-bombs" comparable in violence to 15 million to 20 million tons of TNT.

"This year," the source said, "we are thinking in terms of 40 to 50 million tons."

Sergeant Rejoins Family As All 11 Reach Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 6 (AP)—A grinning U. S. Air Force sergeant had a happy reunion with his wife and 10 children when they arrived here tonight by plane from the United States.

S.Sgt. Guilford E. Medor, 33, of Swanton, Vt., met them with a 37-passenger bus to take them to his "double" quarters at nearby Wiesbaden.

"The Air Force had to knock a hole in a wall and build a connecting door between a four-room and a three-room apartment to take care of us all," he said. "We're the biggest Air Force family here."

Stepping off the plane were his wife, Catherine, 31, and children: Franklin 14, Eleanor 13, Linda 12, Ralph 10, Loris &, Mary Ann 8, Connie 7, Carlotta 6, Perley 3, and Corrine, 3 months old. An Air Force buddy patted Medor on the back and commented: "Some people will do anything to get their pictures in the papers."

Long Speaks At Hillbilly Rally Here Last Night

Earl K. Long said here Friday night Monroe is one of the cities for which he most actively will seek new industry.

Speaking at a rally in Neville High School Auditorium, Long outlined the platform on which he is seeking election again to the state's highest office and cited his record as proof that he will fulfill his promises.

Lether E. Frazar, candidate for lieutenant governor; Jack Gremillion, candidate for attorney general; Sidney McCrory, candidate for commissioner of agriculture; Bill Dodd, non-factional candidate for state auditor and Miss Lucille May Grace, non-factional candidate for register of state lands spoke on behalf of their candidacies.

Dr. George S. Long, U. S. Congressman from the Eighth District of Louisiana; Mrs. Mary Evelyn Dickerson Parker, former head of the department of commerce and industry and State Senator B. B. Rayburn of Bogalusa spoke in behalf of the Long-Frazar ticket.

Long hit hard on the segregation issue, saying again that he is strongly for segregation. 'But," he added, "I am the friend of the white man and the friend of the colored man. I am the friend of anyone who needs help. I won't get one group in a corner and tell them one thing and then go out and say something else to another."

He said, "My campaign is strictly on the up and up. I don't have anything to hide."

Long criticized the newspaper support of some of his opponents. He said the New Orleans Times Picayune in 1952 lauded James McLemore and urged his election.

"Now they're asking you to elect their little mayor, DeLesseps Morrison and the other day when Mr. McLemore said something bad about Mr. Morrison, that fine paper intimated Mr. McLemore wasn't fit to be dog catcher."

He concluded: "The papers don't know as much as you might think they do. Those editorials are just one man's opinion, just like yours."

Long quoted from the Scriptures, "By their deeds and by their fruits ye shall know them" and said, "I came nearer fulfilling my platform than any man that was elected governor of this state. I am not going to promise anything I can't do."

Long said he believed honesty was the best policy, but that sometime it had resulted in disadvantage to him politically. He said in 1940 he would not promise a $30 old age pension and also promise to repeal the sale tax, that he would not promise the teachers an increase in pay without tax increases. He lost that election to Sam H. Jones. Jones, Long observed, promised a $30 pension but paid only $12 "on a paper's oath."

Long said Mayor Morrison had criticized him for the cigarette tax. He pointed out that the tax bill was sponsored by the mayors of Louisiana, including Mayor Morrison, and that New Orleans receives $2.5 million from it.

Said Long, "He's benefitting and he's still talking about me. He was one of the ones who wanted that tax. Is that fair? Is that square?"

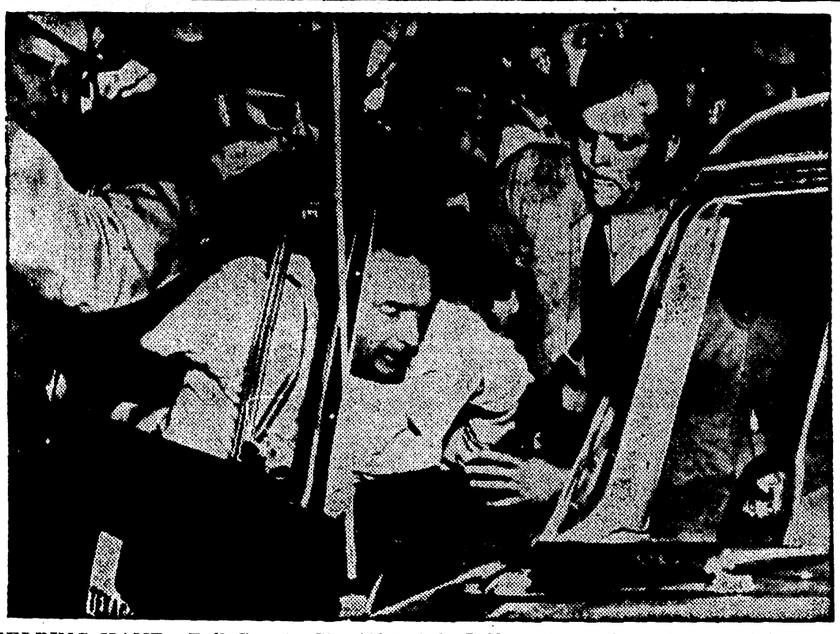

The Kennon administration also came in for attack. Long said Kennon has brought in 15 men from outside Louisiana to fill jobs paying $15,000 to $19,000 a year. "Don't you think we have some people in Louisiana who are qualified?" he asked.

He said Fred Preaus, also a candidate for governor, "is talking about the old scandals and rake-offs. Why doesn't he talk about some new ones?" Long has proposed a public debate with Gov. Kennon, who is stumping for Preaus, on subjects that Long said are to include Angola, the Marsh Island drainage contract on which a legislative committee said the state lost $80,000, commissions on the voting machines and payment of $875,000 to Jefferson Lake Sulphur Co.

Long also referred to Lt. Gov. C. E. Barham. "Six months ago he couldn't say enough nice things about Kennon. But Kennon wouldn't support him for governor and last night on the radio he couldn't say enough that was bad."

The Long-Frazar ticket shared the spotlight with Minnie Pearl and the Smokey Mountain Boys, whose music and comedy interspersed the speaking.

Mayor John Coon presided and opened the meeting.

Suspect Arrested Four Hours After Burglary Report

Nahtaniel Pierce, 42-year-old Monroe Negro, was arrested by deputies of the Ouachita parish sheriff's department at about 9 a. m. yesterday, less than four hours after he had allegedly taken $552 in an early morning burglary of a grocery store in West Monroe.

In the meantime, since the burglary, Pierce had gone to Ruston, bought a white, 1952 Ford with North Carolina license plates and driven it back to Monroe.

According to local law enforcement officers, Pierce, between 5 and 6 a.m., broke the glass in a door at Gentry's Grocery, 100 Coleman street, West Monroe, and took $552 from a hiding place in the store.

At about 9 a.m. he was arrested in a store on DeSiard street by deputies of the sheriff's department, which had been called to assist in the case. He was in the process of buying a new pair of shoes when arrested and was carrying $95 in one of his shirt pockets, according to officers. Deputies found him in the store after spotting the white 1952 Ford with North Carolina license plates, parked in the 700 block of DeSiard.

Pierce told officers that he had hopped a freight train to Ruston after committing the burglary and had bought the car from an aunt. But deputies investigated in Ruston and found that Pierce had actually bought the car from a used car dealer, paying $195 down.

After apprehending Pierce, deputies searched his room in a DeSiard street hotel and found $112—all in $1 bills—scattered out under a mattress. They reasoned that a goodly portion of the proceeds from the burglary was tied up in the white 1952 Ford.

Cottonmen Told Crop Must Meet Prices, Quality

MEMPHIS, Jan. 6 (AP)—Midsouth cottonmen were told today that unless American cotton meets its competition in both price and quality it will lose its entire foreign market in 2 years and the domestic market in 20.

The grim forecast was given by Charles B. Shuman of Chicago, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, in a talk before farm bureau leaders from Tennessee, Mississippi, Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana.

Shuman and other speakers outlined cotton's troubles and the seven-point program which the farm bureau advocates. Delegates pledged active campaigns to have the program approved by Congress.

Shuman said high, rigid price support for cotton has encouraged the planting of cotton abroad to such an extent that within two years production in foreign countries will meet world cotton demands.

The same supports, he added, are encouraging the substitution of synthetics for cotton in textiles and the substitution of paper for textiles.

"If the trend continues," he said, "there will be no domestic market for cotton within 20 years.

"The farmers of the Midwest have an interest in what happens to cotton. We know that when the South is driven out of the production of cotton by the loss of markets it will turn to commodities we grow. We don't want that competition."

Fine Admits

Times linotype operator about a year ago.

5. Seymour Peck, employed on the Times Sunday Magazine, who said he was a member of the Communist party from 1935 until 1949. He said he left the party before joining the Times. He said he was a member of Red units on the New York Star and PM, newspapers no longer in existence. Peck declined to name one-time Red associates.

Whitman reluctantly testified that there was a small Red cell on the New York Herald Tribune, where he worked before joining the Times.

Eastland and Jenner said in their statement that the subcommittee in its pursuit of the trail of Communist activity "has been fully cognizant of its study to avoid any step which could fairly be interpreted as an effort to exercise congressional pressure upon the American press."

The statement added:

"At the same time we have been seriously aware of our responsibility not to flinch from uncovering the activities of subversive elements just because those efforts involved attempted penetration of media for the dissemination of information and the formation of opinion.

"The hearings have disclosed many things, including a significant effort on the part of Communists to penetrate leading American newspapers."

"The committee proposes," the statement added, "to explore with thoroughness and conscience leads which have been furnished in these hearings. To the extent that our hearings uncover a problem of attempted Communist infiltration of the press, we feel confident that the American press will prove fully competent to deal with the problem in its own, American way."

Dr. Fine told the subcommittee communism "needs to be exposed" and said, "I appreciate the opportunity of being here."

Subcommittee counsel J. G. Sourwine put the question as to whether he had "ever been a member of the Communist party, USA."

"Yes, I was," the witness replied. He added that he joined as a graduate student at Columbia University Teachers College in the fall of 1935. He said he was an inactive member "in the sense that my heart wasn't in it."

"I know now that I made a tragic mistake," he said.

Dr. Fine said he had severed all connection with the party some time before he joined the Times Staff in February 1937.

Eastland asked whether Dr. James Mendenhall, a former member of the Columbia staff, recruited him into the party. No, the witness replied. He said the recuiter was a secretary in the office of Dr. Clyde Miller, where he worked. Fine said Mendenhall was one of the editors of a monthly magazine called Young America and that it was distributed to junior high school students.

"At that time was Dr. Mendenhall a member of the Communist party?" Eastland asked.

"If it came out in 1955-56, he would be," Fine replied. He was not asked to elaborate on this statement.

He said he did not know Dr. Miller to be a Communist.

"We were interested in Dr. Mendenhall," Eastland commeted. He asked whether Mendenhall is now connected with some college in Ohio. Fine replied that the last he heard of Mendenhall he was in Chicago.

Subcommittee staff aides said Mendenhall had been mentioned by Miss Elizabeth Bentley, a self-styled one-time courier for a Communist spy ring, as one of those who had helped to recruit her into communism.

Dr. Fine said that during the period he was a Communist he was so inactive in the party that he got a warning in the fall of 1936 that he would be expelled unless he became more active. He said he "attended no other meetings" after October or November 1936.

He declared his writings on education once so displeased the Communists that the Russian Embassy got out a statement denouncing him.

Alexskovsky, the fired assistant Book Review editor, was asked whether he was a candidate for the executive board of the New York Newspaper Guild on the "rank and file" slate in 1949.

He said he could not remember, but when shown a 1949 listing of the slate, containing his name, he said, "I obviously was a candidate."

Alden Whitman, a Times copy reader, testified that he belonged to a small Communist cell on the New York Herald Tribune before he quit the party in 1948. He said the cell contained "perhaps half a dozen members."

Polio Stricken Farm Boy's Lung Now Collapsed

CHICAGO, Jan. 6 (AP)—A polio-stricken farm boy whose body has a strange green tint suffered a collapsed lung today—the third day he has been in a coma.

Doctors announced collapse of his left lung a few hours after reporting he had shown a slight improvement. They said collapse of the lung in effect cut his air intake in half.

The boy, 15-year-old Edward Walsh, is one of the 10 Karon Walsh children who came down with polio last summer. The parents also had slight infections. But four other Walsh children escaped infection.

At first, the most seriously ill of the children was the eldest, 17-year-old David. He was brought from a Rockford hospital, near the family farm in Durand, Ill., to the Research and Educational Hospitals of the University of Illinois in Chicago.

Edward, in a Rockford hospital, began to show a steady decline in his condition, and was brought to Chicago Dec. 28. At the time, doctors reported his body had a mysterious greenish tint.

Examination of Edward's blood serum showed it, too, was greenish in color, instead of the normal red.

Doctors have been unable to determine the reason for the condition.

Edward fell into a deep coma early Wednesday, and the hospital reported his condition was grave.

The boy is breathing with the aid of a tube inserted through an incision in his throat.

The use of a tube enables a patient to breathe without an iron lung.

Air is fed to the lung through the tube and when a "positive pressure is reached, the pumping device stops until the victim expels the air. Then air again is fed into the lung.

Parents of the boy have been at the hospital almost constantly the last few days.

Winnsboro Man Is Injured Here In Auto Mishap

A Winnsboro Negro man was hospitalized here Friday night after he suffered a broken leg in an automobile accident about 8:45 p.m. at the intersection of Berg Jones road and Ticheli road near Bernstein Park. His condition was reported at 10 p.m. as fair.

The accident occurred when Landis, traveling west on Ticheli road, apparently failed to realize in time he would have to make a sharp, 90 degree turn onto Berg Jones road. Ticheli road does not cross Berg Jones.

Danger light reflectors are erected across Berg Jones in front of the driver, but he apparently failed to see them.

Landis who was taken to Charity Hospital, was found slumped on the right side of the car on the floor and under the dash by James Williams, Negro, who lives on Berg Jones road at the accident scene.

State troopers Johnny Mitchell and B. D. Boyt, who investigated the accident, said that Landis must have suffered severe chest injuries, too, because the steering wheel was broken. The car stopped in a four-foot ditch, where it rammed the embankment.

was inside Soviet territory and opened fire when approached by Russian jet fighters. He expressed regret at the incident.

The State Department denied the American plane had violated the Russian frontier, maintaining it at no time was any closer to Russia than midway over the Bering Sea channel which separates Alaska from Russia. It crash-landed on St. Lawrence Island.

In today's note containing the bill, the United States repeated its contention that the attack was unprovoked. Secretary Dulles said the half payment offer was accepted "because of the special circumstances surrounding the incident."

The U.S. note was delivered to Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zarubin and made public by the State Department. A breakdown of damages in round figures made available by the State Department included: cost of the Neptune plane $294,700; value of plane equipment destroyed $95,645; cost of search and rescue 3,000; costs to U.S. government resulting from crewmen's injuries and disabilities $335,674; personal injuries to crew members $90,000; loss of personal property aboard the plane $875.

At that time, Lt. Richard H. Fischer of Pittsburgh, Pa., said the attack came without warning.

"We didn't have time to fire back," he said.

1 Tensas Parish Wildcat Spudded; Another Pending

FERRIDAY, La., Jan. 7 — Activity has begun on one of a pair of new wildcat test in Tensas Parish with operations on another new Tuscaloosa wildcat to begin shortly. The tests are in different parts of Tensas Parish.

Thomas J. Glennon is rigging up on the No. 1, E. L. Boule, Jr., in Section 3-11N-11E five and one fourth miles southwest of the Lake Bruin Field. The venture also lies five and a half miles northwest of St. Joseph. Contract for the $700 foot project is being handled by Woolf and Magee of Shreveport.

The wildcat is on a block of several hundred acres that Glennon leased in the area. Atlanta Refining Company bought a one-fourth interest in the well and 1,000 acres of leases around the well site.

The nearest of three dry holes, providing good sub-surface control on this area is J. R. Butler's No. 1 Yourtee Bagnell unit and 8766 foot duster in Section 171N-11 E, Completed in June, 1953. The failure lies two and three quarter miles southwest of the new wildcat.

Gulf Refining Company will let the contract shortly for an 8500 foot Tuscaloosa wildcat, two miles northwest of the Holly Ridge Field in Tensas. The new venture is No. 1. Willie L. Parker lying two and one fourth miles west of Justina and about one mile southwest of Formosa Lake.

The venture is on the northwest flank of a 220 acre block that Gulf holds in Section 45-11N-10E and Section 32 and 33-12N-10E. The well site was selected on the basis of subsurface control and seismic exploration.

E. C. Wentworth of Natchez, Miss., has taken lease on 80 acres of the east flank of the Bee Brake Field in Concordia with obligation to drill a well within 90 days from December 9.

The lease is on the Daniel L. Scharff and Mrs. Pearl Fleming lands et als in Section 16-4N-7E, lying slightly less than one half mile east of the nearest producer in the field, although a dry hole is located to the north and one to the south of the Wentworth purchase.

Wentworth has also recently recorded lease on approximately 850 acres of Fisher Lumber Corpoartion lands. The acres are in Section 14-1, 22 and 23 of Twonship 6N-7E, lying about two and one half miles northwest of Monterey townsite at Lismore Landing area.

Leases were taken for commercial terms of three years from November 15, 1955. A large portion of these leases were held jointly by the Hunt Oil Company and Gulf Refining Company.

Also in Concordia Parish, Calto-Gulmon-Ballew are drilling at 5980 on the No. 1 Bank of New Roads, a wildcat in Section 44-N-9E.

Table On Fire Causes Alarm In Heninger Building

A small wood table on fire in the basement of the Heninger building caused an alarming smoke screen to fill the entire ground floor of the four-story structure at about 10 o'clock last night.

Monroe firemen rushed to the building after Albert George, 62-year-old Negro janitor, had detected the smoke and given the alarm.

After studying the smoke for a time, George reasoned that the fire was in the basement.

Firemen went immediately to the basement and found the culprit—the slowly burning wood table. The table was approximately one-fourth consumed when firemen extinguished the fire.

What had caused the fire couldn't be learned immediately at the scene.

At Northeast State

College To Offer 6-Year Plan For Training Program

Northeast State will initiate in the spring semester a six-year plan for inservice persons to earn the bachelor of science degree without leaving their jobs.

The college has always offered late afternoon and evening courses whenever the demand was sufficient. Students have not been offered, however, a complete program to meet all requirements for a degree in a particular field entirely through evening courses. The new program makes provision for earning a degree during a six-year period in any of the following fields: biology, chemistry, geology, mathematics, medical technology and physics.

Registration for this work is set for Monday, February 6 at 6:15 p.m. in room 210 of the Science Building. The number of persons who are prepared at that time to register for courses will determine whether or not the program will get underway. A minimum of 10 must register in each curricula listed above to make the plan practical, explained E. J. Foster, acting head of the Department of Pure and Applied Science.

Each curriculum follows the college catalogue. A three hour course will meet 75 minutes Monday and Thursday or Tuesday and Friday for 18 weeks. The normal load will be 12 hours each semester, or four three hour courses.

Students wishing to have previously earned college credits evaluated should bring official transcripts of these credits. Persons under 21 years of age who have not completed any college studies are requested to bring transcripts of high school credits.

Students over 21 years of age, without college experience and who have not completed high school will be asked to take an entrance examination.

Credits may be evaluated in advance by mailing them to Mr. Foster at Northeast Louisiana State College. Choice of curricula should be named in order of preference, Foster said.

early conference between Dulles and Red China Premier-Foreign Minister Chou En-lai "to discuss relaxation and elimination of tension" in the Formosa area. It called for a speedy end to the Western embargo on shipment of strategic goods to Red China.

The statement warned the United States to move quickly toward agreement on these issues or face breakdown of the Geneva negotiations between Red China's Wang Ping-nan and U.S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson. The Geneva talks have been going on sporadically for five months and it was there that the Sept. 10 agreement on release of prisoners was announced.

"The Chinese side will continue to work for an agreement," today's statement said. "However, the Chinese people will not consent to the endless dragging out of the Sino-American talks."

The government declaration came in the form of answers by the Foreign Ministry to a New Year questionnaire on the Johnson-Wang talks. The questionnaire was submitted by the official New China News Agency.

The broadcast complained the United States "has long been using threat and persecution to prevent civilian Chinese from returning to China."

It said Wang has protested against this at the Geneva talks and demanded that Washington supply Peiping "a complete name list and information about the Chinese in the United States." On Dec. 16 the United States informed Peiping that all Chinese under its jurisdiction had been free to leave since the Sept. 10 repatriation agreement was reached at Geneva.

upset equipment, temporarily knocking out the switchboard.

Don Knox, school bus driver living northwest of Alva, said the tremor "nearly knocked me out of bed."

Mr. and Mrs. George Burling, who live near Knox, said their stove danced up and down on the floor and furniture "walked across the room."

An Anthony, Kan., Police Chief Monte Crooker said he heard a noise like an explosion or an airplane going over at 4 a.m. and again at 5:56 a.m.

Crooker said it sounded like his dog had fallen down the stairs, but "I looked and old Trix was still in bed."

The police chief described the tremor as a "sort of shake, rattle and roll." His wife said the shock knocked the family parakeet off his perch in the kitchen.

Mrs. C. L. Godfrey, weather observer at Waynoka, said a light tremor was felt here at 6 a.m. that rattled dishes and doors.

Friday's tremors were the first of such magnitude in this area since 1952 when several minor earthquakes were reported in Oklahoma.

On April 9, 1952, an earthquake shook a 360,000-square-mile area of the southwest and was felt in parts of Oklahoma, Kansas, Arkansas, Texas, Missouri and Nebraska.

Numerous windows were broken and foundations were cracked but no one was injured.

JOE GRAMBLING

Grambling Named Sales Manager At Coca-Cola Here

Joe Grambling has been named sales manager for the local Coca Cola Bottling Co., it was announced this week.

Grambling, who replaces Neville James, arrived in Monroe with his family December 28 and began his new duties on January 2. He moved here from Gadsden, Ala., where he was employed by the Coca Cola Company for the last 16 years, except time spent in the army during World War Two.

Residing at 1208 Forsythe Avenue, Grambling is married and the father of two daughters, Janice (Jan.) Lynn, 9, and Terry Michele, 4. His wife is the former Miss Virginia Buttram, of Gadsden, Ala.

The new manager said he was for three months in 1941 in the pre-war Louisiana army maneuvers and traveled over a great part of the state. He recalled that his first time in Monroe was in August, 1942, to catch a train for Officer Candidate School in Maryland.

Overseas during the Second World War, he served with the 771st Chemical Depot in India and Burma. He was released from active duty in February, 1946, with the rank of major.

In his new position, Grambling said his operations will cover an area of about 40 miles radius of Monroe-West Monroe.

Grevemberg Hits Kennon, Preaus

HOMER, La., Jan. 6 (AP)—Former state police Supt. Francis Grevemberg charged today that Gov. Robert Kennon and his candidate for governor — Fred Preaus — have made statements racketeers could take as a sign to continue their operations.

Grevemberg, who seeks to succeed Kennon, said a question often asked him was why, after serving as the administration's superintendent of state police, was not Kennon supporting him.

He said the reason probably is that he and Kennon are 180 degrees apart on law enforcement.

"During the 1954 sessions of the Legislature," Grevemberg said, 'in a talk before the Baton Rouge Moral and Civic League, I said that I was ready to take up phase four of my law enforcement drive, which was to crack down on pin ball machines.

"The next morning Gov. Kennon asked me to come see him and told me that if I raided the pinball machines, Mayor Morrison (de-Lesseps Morrison of New Orleans) and his delegation in the Legislature would not vote for the administration's road program.

"I started the raiding that same afternoon just the same and we caught 27 people paying off on the machines."

He said he had two witnesses to an answer Kennon gave a man who asked in the 1952 campaign if Kennon would take out the slots. He said Kennon told the man "would not feel that it was incumbent on me to change the traditions of south Louisiana."

Grevemberg said in his opinion this was a signal to racketeers that they could continue to operate.

He said Preaus, who opposes him, is making the same kind of statements about law enforcement now.

ly before his return to the capital from Gettysburg, Pa.

Strauss told newsmen at Gettysburg his call was strictly "social." But informed sources said he went over the forthcoming tests with the chief executive and received the needed authority to use 'special nuclear materials" required for the experiments.

Mr. Eisenhower made it clear in his State of the Union message to congress Thursday this country would not be persuaded by Soviet propaganda into calling off its previously-planned tests.

The congressional authority said the new tests will be held at the Eniwetok-Bikini proving ground in the Marshall Islands. The last tests there in the spring of 1954 were of "super H-bombs" comparable in violence to 15 million to 20 million tons of TNT.

"This year," the source said, "we are thinking in terms of 40 to 50 million tons."

Sergeant Rejoins Family As All 11 Reach Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 6 (AP)—A grinning U. S. Air Force sergeant had a happy reunion with his wife and 10 children when they arrived here tonight by plane from the United States.

S.Sgt. Guilford E. Medor, 33, of Swanton, Vt., met them with a 37-passenger bus to take them to his "double" quarters at nearby Wiesbaden.

"The Air Force had to knock a hole in a wall and build a connecting door between a four-room and a three-room apartment to take care of us all," he said. "We're the biggest Air Force family here."

Stepping off the plane were his wife, Catherine, 31, and children: Franklin 14, Eleanor 13, Linda 12, Ralph 10, Loris &, Mary Ann 8, Connie 7, Carlotta 6, Perley 3, and Corrine, 3 months old. An Air Force buddy patted Medor on the back and commented: "Some people will do anything to get their pictures in the papers."

Long Speaks At Hillbilly Rally Here Last Night

Earl K. Long said here Friday night Monroe is one of the cities for which he most actively will seek new industry.

Speaking at a rally in Neville High School Auditorium, Long outlined the platform on which he is seeking election again to the state's highest office and cited his record as proof that he will fulfill his promises.

Lether E. Frazar, candidate for lieutenant governor; Jack Gremillion, candidate for attorney general; Sidney McCrory, candidate for commissioner of agriculture; Bill Dodd, non-factional candidate for state auditor and Miss Lucille May Grace, non-factional candidate for register of state lands spoke on behalf of their candidacies.

Dr. George S. Long, U. S. Congressman from the Eighth District of Louisiana; Mrs. Mary Evelyn Dickerson Parker, former head of the department of commerce and industry and State Senator B. B. Rayburn of Bogalusa spoke in behalf of the Long-Frazar ticket.

Long hit hard on the segregation issue, saying again that he is strongly for segregation. 'But," he added, "I am the friend of the white man and the friend of the colored man. I am the friend of anyone who needs help. I won't get one group in a corner and tell them one thing and then go out and say something else to another."

He said, "My campaign is strictly on the up and up. I don't have anything to hide."

Long criticized the newspaper support of some of his opponents. He said the New Orleans Times Picayune in 1952 lauded James McLemore and urged his election.

"Now they're asking you to elect their little mayor, DeLesseps Morrison and the other day when Mr. McLemore said something bad about Mr. Morrison, that fine paper intimated Mr. McLemore wasn't fit to be dog catcher."

He concluded: "The papers don't know as much as you might think they do. Those editorials are just one man's opinion, just like yours."

Long quoted from the Scriptures, "By their deeds and by their fruits ye shall know them" and said, "I came nearer fulfilling my platform than any man that was elected governor of this state. I am not going to promise anything I can't do."

Long said he believed honesty was the best policy, but that sometime it had resulted in disadvantage to him politically. He said in 1940 he would not promise a $30 old age pension and also promise to repeal the sale tax, that he would not promise the teachers an increase in pay without tax increases. He lost that election to Sam H. Jones. Jones, Long observed, promised a $30 pension but paid only $12 "on a paper's oath."

Long said Mayor Morrison had criticized him for the cigarette tax. He pointed out that the tax bill was sponsored by the mayors of Louisiana, including Mayor Morrison, and that New Orleans receives $2.5 million from it.

Said Long, "He's benefitting and he's still talking about me. He was one of the ones who wanted that tax. Is that fair? Is that square?"

The Kennon administration also came in for attack. Long said Kennon has brought in 15 men from outside Louisiana to fill jobs paying $15,000 to $19,000 a year. "Don't you think we have some people in Louisiana who are qualified?" he asked.

He said Fred Preaus, also a candidate for governor, "is talking about the old scandals and rake-offs. Why doesn't he talk about some new ones?" Long has proposed a public debate with Gov. Kennon, who is stumping for Preaus, on subjects that Long said are to include Angola, the Marsh Island drainage contract on which a legislative committee said the state lost $80,000, commissions on the voting machines and payment of $875,000 to Jefferson Lake Sulphur Co.

Long also referred to Lt. Gov. C. E. Barham. "Six months ago he couldn't say enough nice things about Kennon. But Kennon wouldn't support him for governor and last night on the radio he couldn't say enough that was bad."

The Long-Frazar ticket shared the spotlight with Minnie Pearl and the Smokey Mountain Boys, whose music and comedy interspersed the speaking.

Mayor John Coon presided and opened the meeting.

Suspect Arrested Four Hours After Burglary Report

Nahtaniel Pierce, 42-year-old Monroe Negro, was arrested by deputies of the Ouachita parish sheriff's department at about 9 a.m. yesterday, less than four hours after he had allegedly taken $552 in an early morning burglary of a grocery store in West Monroe.

In the meantime, since the burglary, Pierce had gone to Ruston, bought a white, 1952 Ford with North Carolina license plates and driven it back to Monroe.

According to local law enforcement officers, Pierce, between 5 and 6 a.m., broke the glass in a door at Gentry's Grocery, 100 Coleman street, West Monroe, and took $552 from a hiding place in the store.

At about 9 a.m. he was arrested in a store on DeSiard street by deputies of the sheriff's department, which had been called to assist in the case. He was in the process of buying a new pair of shoes when arrested and was carrying $95 in one of his shirt pockets, according to officers. Deputies found him in the store after spotting the white 1952 Ford with North Carolina license plates, parked in the 700 block of DeSiard.

Pierce told officers that he had hopped a freight train to Ruston after committing the burglary and had bought the car from an aunt. But deputies investigated in Ruston and found that Pierce had actually bought the car from a used car dealer, paying $195 down.

After apprehending Pierce, deputies searched his room in a DeSiard street hotel and found $112—all in $1 bills—scattered out under a mattress. They reasoned that a goodly portion of the proceeds from the burglary was tied up in the white 1952 Ford.

Cottonmen Told Crop Must Meet Prices, Quality

MEMPHIS, Jan. 6 (AP) —Midsouth cottonmen were told today that unless American cotton meets its competition in both price and quality it will lose its entire foreign market in 2 years and the domestic market in 20.

The grim forecast was given by Charles B. Shuman of Chicago, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, in a talk before farm bureau leaders from Tennessee, Mississippi, Missouri, Arkansas and Louisiana.

Shuman and other speakers outlined cotton's troubles and the seven-point program which the farm bureau advocates. Delegates pledged active campaigns to have the program approved by Congress.

Shuman said high, rigid price support for cotton has encouraged the planting of cotton abroad to such an extent that within two years production in foreign countries will meet world cotton demands.

The same supports, he added, are encouraging the substitution of synthetics for cotton in textiles and the substitution of paper for textiles.

"If the trend continues," he said, "there will be no domestic market for cotton within 20 years.

"The farmers of the Midwest have an interest in what happens to cotton. We know that when the South is driven out of the production of cotton by the loss of markets it will turn to commodities we grow. We don't want that competition."

Fine Admits

Times linotype operator about a year ago.

5. Seymour Peck, employed on the Times Sunday Magazine, who said he was a member of the Communist party from 1935 until 1949. He said he left the party before joining the Times. He said he was a member of Red units on the New York Star and PM, newspapers no longer in existence. Peck declined to name one-time Red associates.

Whitman reluctantly testified that there was a small Red cell on the New York Herald Tribune, where he worked before joining the Times.

Eastland and Jenner said in their statement that the subcommittee in its pursuit of the trail of Communist activity "has been fully cognizant of its study to avoid any step which could fairly be interpreted as an effort to exercise congressional pressure upon the American press."

The statement added:

"At the same time we have been seriously aware of our responsibility not to flinch from uncovering the activities of subversive elements just because those efforts involved attempted penetration of media for the dissemination of information and the formation of opinion.

"The hearings have disclosed many things, including a significant effort on the part of Communists to penetrate leading American newspapers."

"The committee proposes," the statement added, "to explore with thoroughness and conscience leads which have been furnished in these hearings. To the extent that our hearings uncover a problem of attempted Communist infiltration of the press, we feel confident that the American press will prove fully competent to deal with the problem in its own, American way."

Dr. Fine told the subcommittee communism "needs to be exposed" and said, "I appreciate the opportunity of being here."

Subcommittee counsel J. G. Sourwine put the question as to whether he had "ever been a member of the Communist party, USA."

"Yes, I was," the witness replied. He added that he joined as a graduate student at Columbia University Teachers College in the fall of 1935. He said he was an inactive member "in the sense that my heart wasn't in it."

"I know now that I made a tragic mistake," he said.

Dr. Fine said he had severed all connection with the party some time before he joined the Times Staff in February 1937.

Eastland asked whether Dr. James Mendenhall, a former member of the Columbia staff, recruited him into the party. No, the witness replied. He said the recuiter was a secretary in the office of Dr. Clyde Miller, where he worked. Fine said Mendenhall was one of the editors of a monthly magazine called Young America and that it was distributed to junior high school students.

"At that time was Dr. Mendenhall a member of the Communist party?" Eastland asked.

"If it came out in 1955-56, he would be." Fine replied. He was not asked to elaborate on this statement.

He said he did not know Dr. Miller to be a Communist.

"We were interested in Dr. Mendenhall," Eastland commeted. He asked whether Mendenhall is now connected with some college in Ohio. Fine replied that the last he heard of Mendenhall he was in Chicago.

Subcommittee staff aides said Mendenhall had been mentioned by Miss Elizabeth Bentley, a self-styled one-time courier for a Communist spy ring, as one of those who had helped to recruit her into communism.

Dr. Fine said that during the period he was a Communist he was so inactive in the party that he got a warning in the fall of 1936 that he would be expelled unless he became more active. He said he "attended no other meetings" after October or November 1936.

He declared his writings on education once so displeased the Communists that the Russian Embassy got out a statement denouncing him.

Alexskovsky, the fired assistant Book Review editor, was asked whether he was a candidate for the executive board of the New York Newspaper Guild on the "rank and file" slate in 1949.

He said he could not remember, but when shown a 1949 listing of the slate, containing his name, he said, "I obviously was a candidate."

Alden Whitman, a Times copy-reader, testified that he belonged to a small Communist cell on the New York Herald Tribune before he quit the party in 1948. He said the cell contained "perhaps half a dozen members."

Polio Stricken Farm Boy's Lung Now Collapsed

CHICAGO, Jan. 6 (AP)—A polio-stricken farm boy whose body has a strange green tint suffered a collapsed lung today—the third day he has been in a coma.

Doctors announced collapse of his left lung a few hours after reporting he had shown a slight improvement. They said collapse of the lung in effect cut his air intake in half.

The boy, 15-year-old Edward Walsh, is one of the 10 Karon Walsh children who came down with polio last summer. The parents also had slight infections. But four other Walsh children escaped infection.

At first, the most seriously ill of the children was the eldest, 17-year-old David. He was brought from a Rockford hospital, near the family farm in Durand, Ill., to the Research and Educational Hospitals of the University of Illinois in Chicago.

Edward, in a Rockford hospital, began to show a steady decline in his condition, and was brought to Chicago Dec. 28. At the time, doctors reported his body had a mysterious greenish tint.

Examination of Edward's blood serum showed it, too, was greenish in color, instead of the normal red.

Doctors have been unable to determine the reason for the condition.

Edward fell into a deep coma early Wednesday, and the hospital reported his condition was grave.

The boy is breathing with the aid of a tube inserted through an incision in his throat.

The use of a tube enables a patient to breathe without an iron lung.

Air is fed to the lung through the tube and when a "positive pressure is reached, the pumping device stops until the victim expels the air. Then air again is fed into the lung.

Parents of the boy have been at the hospital almost constantly the last few days.

Winnsboro Man Is Injured Here In Auto Mishap

A Winnsboro Negro man was hospitalized here Friday night after he suffered a broken leg in an automobile accident about 8:45 p.m. at the intersection of Berg Jones road and Ticheli road near Bernstein Park. His condition was reported at 10 p.m. as fair.

The accident occurred when Landis, traveling west on Ticheli road, apparently failed to realize in time he would have to make a sharp, 90 degree turn onto Berg Jones road. Ticheli road does not cross Berg Jones.

Danger light reflectors are erected across Berg Jones in front of the driver, but he apparently failed to see them.

Landis who was taken to Charity Hospital, was found slumped on the right side of the car on the floor and under the dash by James Williams, Negro, who lives on Berg Jones road at the accident scene.

State troopers Johnny Mitchell and B. D. Boyt, who investigated the accident, said that Landis must have suffered severe chest injuries, too, because the steering wheel was broken. The car stopped in a four-foot ditch, where it rammed the embankment.

U. S. Bills Russia

was inside Soviet territory and opened fire when approached by Russian jet fighters. He expressed regret at the incident.

The State Department denied the American plane had violated the Russian frontier, maintaining it at no time was any closer to Russia than midway over the Bering Sea channel which separates Alaska from Russia. It crash-landed on St. Lawrence Island.

In today's note containing the bill, the United States repeated its contention that the attack was unprovoked. Secretary Dulles said the half payment offer was accepted "because of the special circumstances surrounding the incident."

The U.S. note was delivered to Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zarubin and made public by the State Department. A breakdown of damages in round figures made available by the State Department included: cost of the Neptune plane $294,700; value of plane equipment destroyed $95,645; cost of search and rescue 3,000; costs to U.S. government resulting from crewmen's injuries and disabilities $335,674; personal injuries to crew members $90,000; loss of personal property aboard the plane $875.

At that time, Lt. Richard H. Fischer of Pittsburgh, Pa., said the attack came without warning.

"We didn't have time to fire back," he said.

HOMESTEAD OFFICER—Dr. W. L. Bendel has been elected vice-president of People's Homestead and Savings Association to fill a vacancy caused by the recent death of J. N. Knowles, according to O. A. Easterling, president. His election was made at a special meeting of the board of directors this week. Bendel is well known throughout this area where he is active in sports and civic activities. Other action at the meeting included the election of James Larkin, Jr. to the board of directors.

1 Tensas Parish Wildcat Spudded; Another Pending

FERRIDAY, La., Jan. 7 — Activity has begun on one of a pair of new wildcat test in Tensas Parish with operations on another new Tuscaloosa wildcat to begin shortly. The tests are in different parts of Tensas Parish.

Thomas J. Glennon is rigging up on the No. 1, E. L. Boule, Jr., in Section 3-11N-11E five and one fourth miles southwest of the Lake Bruin Field. The venture also lies five and a half miles northwest of St. Joseph. Contract for the $700 foot project is being handled by Woolf and Magee of Shreveport.

The wildcat is on a block of several hundred acres that Glennon leased in the area. Atlanta Refining Company bought a one-fourth interest in the well and 1,000 acres of leases around the well site.

The nearest of three dry holes, providing good sub-surface control on this area is J. R. Butler's No. 1 Yourtee Bagnell unit and 8766 foot duster in Section 171N-11 E, Completed in June, 1953. The failure lies two and three quarter miles southwest of the new wildcat.

Gulf Refining Company will let the contract shortly for an 8500 foot Tuscaloosa wildcat, two miles northwest of the Holly Ridge Field in Tensas. The new venture is No. 1. Willie L. Parker lying two and one fourth miles west of Justina and about one mile southwest of Formosa Lake.

The venture is on the northwest flank of a 220 acre block that Gulf holds in Section 45-11N-10E and Section 32 and 33-12N-10E. The well site was selected on the basis of subsurface control and seismic exploration.

E. C. Wentworth of Natchez, Miss., has taken lease on 80 acres of the east flank of the Bee Brake Field in Concordia with obligation to drill a well within 90 days from December 9.

The lease is on the Daniel L. Scharff and Mrs. Pearl Fleming lands et als in Section 16-4N-7E, lying slightly less than one half mile east of the nearest producer in the field, although a dry hole is located to the north and one to the south of the Wentworth purchase.

Wentworth has also recently recorded lease on approximately 850 acres of Fisher Lumber Corpoartion lands. The acres are in Section 14-1, 22 and 23 of Twonship 6N-7E, lying about two and one half miles northwest of Monterey townsite at Lismore Landing area.

Leases were taken for commercial terms of three years from November 15, 1955. A large portion of these leases were held jointly by the Hunt Oil Company and Gulf Refining Company.

Also in Concordia Parish, Calto-Gulmon-Ballew are drilling at 5980 on the No. 1 Bank of New Roads, a wildcat in Section 44-N-9E.

Table On Fire Causes Alarm In Heninger Building

A small wood table on fire in the basement of the Heninger building caused an alarming smoke screen to fill the entire ground floor of the four-story structure at about 10 o'clock last night.

Monroe firemen rushed to the building after Albert George, 62-year-old Negro janitor, had detected the smoke and given the alarm.

After studying the smoke for a time, George reasoned that the fire was in the basement.

Firemen went immediately to the basement and found the culprit—the slowly burning wood table. The table was approximately one-fourth consumed when firemen extinguished the fire.

What had caused the fire couldn't be learned immediately at the scene.

Cotton

New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 10 to 50 cents a bale higher today. Uncertainty over the President farm message to Congress on Monday and news that sales made under the government's special export cotton program would be announced after the market close were unsettling influences.

New crop months, which scored early gains, later experienced recurrent flurries of profit taking. At one time, some deliveries were more than $1 a bale under the day's best and below the previous close. However, the market ended steady on short covering.

Current crop deliveries sagged in early dealings as light liquidation and hedging found limited support, but later firmed on local and trade buying.

After the close, Dallas advices said the range of prices accepted by the C.C.C. at New Orleans for base quality midling 15-16ths inch was 25.50 to 28.02 cents a pound. The advices said F. E. Biggs, director of the New Orleans C.C.C. office, reported that some 18,742 bales of upland cotton was sold to 25 firms for export only.

These were the first sales under the program aimed at disposing of up to 1,000,000 bales of government surplus cotton abroad at competitive world prices.

Announcements regarding bids for the million bales of CCC stock are to be released to the press this afternoon. Futures remain in a narrow price pattern after early strength in new crop months. Hedging in those months was encountered on a scale up and speculative buying seemed to be losing enthusiasm. Old crop months tended firm on moderate price fixing offset by light offerings. Clayton's brokers were believed to have a buy scale down order in May. Liverpool was off 23 to 32 cent points with all months under pressure. With sterling at 280½, differences were, March Liverpool 500 under, May 652, July 505.

Unfixed call sales as of December 30th decreased 4,600 bales to 565,500 vs. 1,428,300 last year. Unfixed call purchases are 46,200 vs. 191,200 last year.

Certificated stock on January 5th totaled 17,660 bales. Exports so far this season 720,621 bales vs. 1,637,186 last year according to NYCE.

Cotton

New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—Cotton futures closed 10 to 50 cents a bale higher today. Uncertainty over the President farm message to Congress on Monday and news that sales made under the government's special export cotton program would be announced after the market close were unsettling influences.

New crop months, which scored early gains, later experienced recurrent flurries of profit taking. At one time, some deliveries were more than $1 a bale under the day's best and below the previous close. However, the market ended steady on short covering.

Current crop deliveries sagged in early dealings as light liquidation and hedging found limited support, but later firmed on local and trade buying.

After the close, Dallas advices said the range of prices accepted by the C.C.C. at New Orleans for base quality midling 15-16ths inch was 25.50 to 28.02 cents a pound. The advices said F. E. Biggs, director of the New Orleans C.C.C. office, reported that some 18,742 bales of upland cotton was sold to 25 firms for export only.

These were the first sales under the program aimed at disposing of up to 1,000,000 bales of government surplus cotton abroad at competitive world prices.

Announcements regarding bids for the million bales of CCC stock are to be released to the press this afternoon. Futures remain in a narrow price pattern after early strength in new crop months. Hedging in those months was encountered on a scale up and speculative buying seemed to be losing enthusiasm. Old crop months tended firm on moderate price fixing offset by light offerings. Clayton's brokers were believed to have a buy scale down order in May. Liverpool was off 23 to 32 cent points with all months under pressure. With sterling at 280½, differences were, March Liverpool 500 under, May 652, July 505.

Unfixed call sales as of December 30th decreased 4,600 bales to 565,500 vs. 1,428,300 last year. Unfixed call purchases are 46,200 vs. 191,200 last year.

Certificated stock on January 5th totaled 17,660 bales. Exports so far this season 720,621 bales vs. 1,637,186 last year according to NYCE.

Passer Of Bad Checks Is Given Year In Prison

O. G. Ledford, 53, Selma, Ala., was sentenced to one year in the Louisiana state penitentiary for theft of $36, a felony, and to 90 days in jail, for theft of $14, a misdemeanor, when he pleaded guilty to committing both offenses, Friday morning in fourth district court. Both of the thefts were by check and it was revealed that Ledford previously has been a penitentiary prisoner.

Most of the cases heard by Judge David I. Garrett, Sr., involved traffic misdemeanors, several of which resulted in accidents.

Among the other jail sentences was that of Clethell Shaw, 33, Negro woman, who was sentenced to 12 months in jail, which was suspended, for receiving stolen property valued at $469.52. She entered a plea of guilty, after having previously pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Heavy penalties were assessed several persons who pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated. Everette E. Wheeler, a second offender, was sentenced to 125 days in jail and fined $400 and costs or 90 days more on this offense. Willard G. Roberts, who also has a previous conviction on this count, was fined $400 and costs, or 60 days default. Julius Bryan Gandy was fined $300 and costs, or 60 days, as a first offender.

Billy N. Bruce, also charged with driving while intoxicated, entered a plea of not guilty, and his trial was set for January 13.

Several persons were fined for reckless driving, some of whom were involved in a series of crashes when several drivers ran into the back of the car ahead of them. Harvey H. Long, Homer M. Mariner, and Marvin C. Saulsberry, Negro, were each fined $50 and costs, or 30 days, each having plowed into the back of the automobile ahead, when another vehicle stopped in the lane preparatory to turning off the highway. All pleaded guilty.

A fine of $75 and costs or 30 days was the sentence given Mahaley R. Turner, Negro woman, for reckless driving which caused an accident. She pleaded guilty. Levent Cobin, Negro, was fined $50 and costs, or 30 days, when he pleaded guilty to the same offense.

Among those who pleaded not guilty to reckless driving and their trial dates or disposition were Vernell Gaines, 20, Negro, January 20; Joseph D. Grass, February 10; Theresa W. Hester, Negro woman, February 10; Clyde E. Marr, January 20; Edward Pritchard, January 20; and Charlie White, Negro, January 20; and Cornelius Wright, Negro, February 10.

Julius P. Saunders was charged with reckless driving when he backed into a store building at Swartz and broke out several plate glass windows. He explained that he was driving an automobile with a hydramatic shift, with which he was unfamiliar, and put it into the wrong gear. He was fined $25 and costs or 15 days, when he pleaded guilty. Charles Webb, Negro, pleaded guilty to reckless driving and was fined $25 and costs or 10 days.

Frank Smith pleaded guilty to theft of $5 of merchandise.

3RD ADD PASSER — P1 ....vr

Among the other charges were included the following: Cornelius Tucker, Negro, aggravated battery, not guilty, set for February 13; Willie Williams, Negro, 19, aggravated assault, not guilty, set for January 13; H. J. Presley, Negro, simple arson, not guilty, set for January 20, and Roe Duchesne, charged with making an obscene telephone call, not guilty, January 20.

J. C. Thompson, Negro, was fined $50 and costs, or 15 days for speeding, and David M. Ponder, was fined $25 and costs, or 10 days for the same offense. Both pleaded guilty.

A number of cases were docketed to be set for trial, and a few others to be nolle prossed, among the day's proceedings.

Final Quarterly Income Payments Due January 16

Taxpayers making quarterly installments on individual estimated income tax should mark January 16 in their date book.

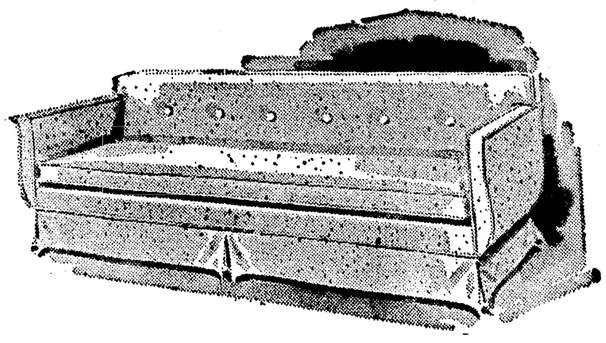

This, according to Mr. John L. Tolar of the Monroe office of the Revenue Service is the deadline for paying the final installment on 1955 estimated tax. January 16 is also the last day to amend a prior declaration of estimated tax return to avoid possible penalties for underestimation.
